This morning in The Herald

Hostage freed

Evelyn L. Van Tassel, who was the hostage of a prison fugitive for a week, said she "just prayed each morning I'd live through the day and I prayed again each night that I would live through the night." She was released unharmed Thursday night from a motel in Des Moines, Iowa. — Page 3.

Boy, father missing

The bizarre child custody battle for a 7-year-old boy took another foreboding turn Friday when the boy's father, a Park Ridge dentist, again failed to appear in court with the boy. Both have been missing since Monday when the dentist fled with the boy in defiance of an order giving custody to the child's mother — Page 14

Jobless rate up

The nation's unemployment rate rose to 7.1 per cent during August, as unemployment in Illinois increased slightly to 5.1 per cent Meanwhile, a Labor Dept report released Friday showed union membership in the United States declined 4 per cent between 1974 and 1976, the first drop since the early 1960s — Sect 4, Page 1.

Teacher acquitted

A jury in Great Britain acquitted a 26-year-old schoolteacher of having sex with one of her former students, an 11-year-old boy During the four-day trial that shook Britain, the boy stuck to his story that the woman taught him love-making at sessions in her home and gave intimate details of the woman's body. - Page 2.

U.S. ombudsman gone

The Carter administration has abandoned the ombudsman function in the White House. The move has caused great concern among some congressional Democrats, who say that by abolishing the ombudsman, the President is silencing his own centralized voice to respond to the people. -- Page 13.

Open primary urged

Declaring your political party when voting in primary elections may be a thing of the past after 1978 if the Coalmon of Political Honesty is successful in its efforts. The coalition next week kicks off a year-long campaign to put the open primary issue on the 1978 election ballot. - Page 11.

Charge 'blatant' underassessment

A complaint charging the Cook County assessor's office with 'blatantiy" underassessing the Scarsdale Estates subdivision in Arlington Heights was filed Friday by a taxpayers' protest committee.

The complaint will mean about 28 properties in the exclusive area will be reassessed, said Daniel A. Berck, chief real estate operator for County Assessor Thomas Tully.

Scarsdale Estates is an area bounded by Arlington Heights Road, Rockwell Street, Beverly Street and Central Road. Most of the houses are large brick ranch homes set on 100 foot by 200 foot lots.

THE COMPLAINT filed by Richard Suter, a Chicago publisher of financial newsletters and a member of the Taxpayer's Protest Committee, cites much of the same data from a study of assessments conducted by The Herald and published Aug. 15.

The study, comparing assessments for 1976 and 1972, showed land values in Scarsdale Estates have dropped an average of 15 per cent in just four years. The 1976 reassessments in that area also gave many of the houses fair market values in the range of $60,000 to $80,000. Real estate appraisers generally have valued the houses at $80,000 to $110,000.

The complaint filed Friday by Suter listed 28 specific examples where properties were "blatantly under-assessed," said Mike Hepple of the National Taxpayer's United of Illinois.

'There appears there's some sort of political connection involved," Hepp said. He refused to elaborate.

The Herald's study showed the most questionable assessments were on property on the south side of East Orchard Street.

THE TOTAL assessments for properties there dropped an average 16 per cent between 1972 and 1976. With that drop, and the county's change this year dropping assessments 17 per cent of the fair market value from 22 per cent in 1972, the fair market values of four houses on E. Orchard Street dropped 13.2 per cent.

The market values of the other eight properties increased an average 19.6 per cent nearly 10 per cent below the township average of 28 per cent.

Using the 1976 assessment figures, the average fair market value for the 12 properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street now is $64,704. The same 12 properties had an average fair market value in 1972 of $61,310, a 5.5 per cent difference.

The intention of the 1976 quadrennial reassessments, which showed the assessed values of property in Wheeling and Palatine townships increasing 28 and 31 per cent since 1972, was to determine the fair market value of property.

The increases in assessments in areas surrounding Scarsdale Estates were much larger. To the north, in Scarsdale Manor, widely known for its expensive homes, assessments went up about 20 per cent, on the average. To the east, in Park Manor, where the homes are less expensive, assess-

Dist. 59 head subpoenaed in unit school wrongdoing

Bardwell is scheduled to appear before the grand jury at 1 p.m. Thursday in Chicago.

Having asked for the opportunity to answer the charges against him in a formal manner, Bardwell Friday said he was glad to receive the subpoena.

THE GRAND JURY is investigating charges that Bardwell and three other Dist. 59 officials secretly agreed to seek a lower than planned tax rate increase in exchange for the business community's support of a unit school district referendum last April. Under Investigation along with Bardwell are Dist. 59 Board members school district.

Judith Zance and Emil Bahnmaler. public relations director Leah Cummins and Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce members Stanley Klyber and Timothy Frisby. All but Bardwell testified before the grand jury in late August. "The whole thing is unfortunate and irresponsible," Frisby said. "It's either a mistake or someone's trying to create an unnecessary hassle."

The grand jury investigation stems from charges made in May 1976 by board member Paul Kucharski.

IN A 14-PAGE statement issued last spring, Kucharski charged that the four Dist. 59 officials struck an illegal deal with area businessmen, misinformed the board and withheld information about the process of petitioning for the formation of a unit

Tourist trade terrorists target

SAN FRANCISCÓ (UPI) - The underground New World Liberation Front set off an explosion at a swank golf club Friday and threatened to unleasch a terror campaign against the city's tourist industry unless demands for 'decent housing for all" are met.

The blast early Friday morning at the Olympic Golf Club on the edge of Lake Merced caused some damage, but it was not extensive and there were no injuries. It followed by 24 hours the discovery of an unexploded bomb at the Pacific Union Club on Nob Hill, one of the city's most exclusive establishments.

The New World Liberation Front delivered a message to news media claiming responsibility for both incidents and threatened to "drive rich tourism out of San Francisco."

IN A MESSAGE after the first incident, the group gave the city 72 hours to do something about "decent housing for all." It said the rich of Nob Hill were to blame for poor housing and named six major tourist hotels as possible targets of terrorist attacks.

The message delivered after Friday's successful bombing at the Olympic Club noted that the city had only 48 hours left to re-

At the major hotels, police and house security officers increased vigilance. The FBI said it was investigating the latest incidents along with dozens of previous bombings and threats from the New World Liberation Front.

Robert J. Sullivan, general manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said there was no evidence that anyone is being frightened away by the threats. "There has not been any incident at a hotel. However, there has been a substantial increase in security at the major hotels both by the hotels themselves and police," Sullivan said. The New World Liberation Front surfaced in 1974 after the notorious Symbionese Liberation Army was broken up. It has been blamed for dozens of sabotage attacks throughout the country but mainly in the San Francisco area.

In one explosion a man was killed.

EARLIER THIS week the group claimed responsibility for a blast at the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. substation which blacked out the city of Sausalito north of San Francisco. Utility installations have been frequent targets of bombings.

However, the list of incidents attributed to the group includes bombings against General Motors, IT&T, televison stations, Safeway Stores and various military and government installations. An FBI spokesman said little is known about the group except that it has at least two members because both male and female voices have made calls to news

Teacher, 26, is acquitted of seducing student

LEWES, England (UPI) — A 26year-old teacher was acquitted Friday of charges she seduced an 11-year-old student.

The teacher, Sandra Mayhew, collapsed in a faint in the prisoner's dock of Crown Court when the jury foreman announced the verdict. The boy, now 12, was not identified.

The youngster testified during the four-day trial that Mrs. Mayhew, who was his teacher last year, taught him how to make love in regular weekly sessions in her bedroom after school.

Mrs. Mayhew's husband, a civil servant, was at work at the time of the alleged offenses. He testified in his wife's defense at the trial.

UNDER CROSS-examination, the boy stuck to his story and told the court intimate details of Mrs. Mayhew's body.

But the defense countered by saying the details were obvious to anybody seeing Mrs. Mayhew in a bikini which the boy and classmates did when she took them swimming.

Two of her former pupils testified boys in her class frequently visited her home after school because she was a very popular teacher.

They said she often kissed them in greeting. They said the boy in question was almost always there ahead of them.

A CHEER WENT up from crowds gathered outside the court as the verdict was announced. Store employes rushed into the streets to hear the result of the case, which has gripped the attention of Britons all week.

"I feel thoroughly vindicated," Mrs. Mayhew told newsmen.

AN FBI AGENT places Douglas Wayne Henry, 22, into a police car after the federal fugitive was arrested in Des Moines at a downtown Ramada Inn.

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — A woman freed after a week as hostage of a prison fugitive said Friday she "just prayed each morning I'd live through the day and I prayed again each night that I would live through the night."

Evelyn L. VanTassel, 58, was kidnaped Aug. 25 from a summer cottage near Marquette, Mich. Her abductor was arrested when he left her alone in a motel dining room.

Douglas Henry, 22, who escaped from Mangum Prison Farm near Marquette Aug. 22, was charged with kidnapping and jailed under $100,000 bond pending a Sept. 9 removal hearing. Henry had been serving a 6 to 15year sentence for breaking and entering and carrying a concealed weap-

POLICE SPOTTED Henry and Mrs. VanTassel at the motel restaurant Thursday night. When Henry stepped out of the room, FBI agents and plainclothes officers followed and wrestled him to the floor in a corridor near the elevators.

Assistant U.S. Atty. John Fitzgibbons said "we asked for the $100,000 bond because it's one of the most serious of federal crimes. I would ask for a larger bond if we thought he could make $100,000."

Fitzgibbons said Henry was charged only with kidnapping Mrs. VanTassel, although there were other incidents, including theft of a pickup truck, $500 and weapons from a family he allegedly left bound at a Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., cabin. He said there had been no contact between Henry and authorities on possible ransom demands.

Mrs. VanTassel's husband, Leo, retired vice president of Northern Michigan University, was tied to a tree after Henry surprised the couple at their cottage. She said she was not hurt but was too frightened to attempt to escape even though he left her alone a number of times.

"HE CARRIED a knife from beginning to end the whole week," she said. "It was such a nightmare."

She said Henry "drove up and down the map — many, many mile. We talked about the beautiful sceney along the highway, beautiful lakes, beautiful trees and the beautiful sky."

She said she did not recall talking about Henry's background, other than he said he "wanted to be free."

EVELYN L. VANTASSEL, 58, of Marguette, Mich., said she prayed every day that she would live. She was released by her captor unharmed.

Appeals court upholds Jayne conviction

by TONI GINNETTI

The convictions of millionaire horseman Silas Jayne and two accomplices for the 1970 contract murder of Jayne's brother were upheld Friday by the Illinois Appellate Court.

Justice Nicholas J. Bua, writing the opinion for the three-judge panel, said the defendants' arguments, including a contention that evidence obtained from illegal wiretaps was withheld from the defense, did not warrant reversal of the verdicts.

Justices Mayer Goldberg and John M. O'Connor Jr. concurred in the opinion.

JAYNE, 69, currently is serving a 6 to 20-year prison term in the minimum security Vienna Correctional

He and two others, Joseph LaPlaca,

54, and Julius Barnes, 43, were convicted in April 1973 of conspiring and carrying out the murder of Jayne's wealthy brother and fellow horseman, George.

George Jayne was gunned down in the basement of his Inverness home Oct. 28, 1970, during a family birthday celebration for Jayne's son.

Jayne's attorneys had contended the trial court's conviction should be overruled on several grounds, including the allegation that information was obtained through illegal wiretaps.

The attorneys said they did not learn of the wiretaps until 1974 when newspaper articles were published surrounding a federal investigation of Illinois Bureau of Investigation activities involving wiretapping.

THE INVESTIGATION led to the indictments of former IBI superintendents Mitchell Ware and Richard Gliebe, but both were acquitted in the

"The newspaper articles produced by the defendants . . . were hearsay in the extreme," the appellate court said in its opinion.

The defense also had contended the trial court had improperly denied Jayne a separate trial in the case, the trial court allowed improper evidence to be entered in the case and the trial court erred in instructing the jury on the elements of conspiracy.

"After a most careful examination of the record, we have determined that the claims of prejudicial error are not supported by the record, that no prejudicial error occurred and that the claims are meritless," the court opinion said.

The ruling Friday is the latest of several unsuccessful efforts by Jayne to win release. He has been denied parole four times since his incarceration and also has been refused furlough releases. Authorities have said to release Jayne would diminish the severity of the crime. Jayne has filed a suit in federal court charging the state's furlough release program is discriminatory and unconstitutional.

Israel seeks to double Jewish population

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) - Israel revealed an ambitious plan Friday to set up strings of Jewish settlements, mostly on the occupied West Bank, and double the nation's Jewish population within 20 years. The plan, conceived by Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon, has been submitted to Prime Minister Menahem Begin but has not been approved by the Israeli cabinet, Sharon said in a nationwide television broadcast.

The United States has repeatedly condemned Israeli settlement ventures in occupied Arab territory. Implementation of Sharon's plan would likely lead to a serious confrontation with Washington, political sources

"I AM THINKING in terms of millions of settlers," Sharon said Friday. "One must look ahead. The main objective of Israel should be doubling its Jewish population to 6-8 million."

Israel now has a total population of 3.5 million, 3 million of them Jews.

"Israel will not tolerate a situation where Jews will not be able to settle. all over the (historical) land of Israel," he said. "If we want a strong, independent state, we must give up settling along the coastal strip and move elsewhere."

USING A LARGE map of Israel, Sharon pinpointed the sparsely-populated areas across the West Bank

tain range, he said. A thick ring of urban settlements would be established around Jerusalem, nibbling into occupied territory.

The Sharon plan also calls for a major road to be cut east of the Tel Aviv suburb of Petah Tikva across the West Bank and up to the Jordan river to connect with an already existing major road running along the Jordan

Sharon, a former army general who commanded the Israeli thrust across the Suez Canal in the 1973 Middle East War, did not say when the plan was to be implemented.

U.S. Embassy looted during fire in Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) - U.S. Ambassa- "WE CARRIED out a pretty comdor Malcolm Toon said Friday Soviet firefighters fighting a fire at the embassy last week apparently looted some offices, taking among other things a can of film of the television movie "Roots."

However, Toon told reporters he did not believe the security of the embassy had been compromised when the firefighters entered the upper floors of the embassy to fight the fire.

But a number of small items have disappeared and at least one of the embassy's steel safes has hammer marks on it, he said.

WHEN ASKED IF the looting was done by non-American personnel,

Toon said, "Yes." Address books, tape cassettes, rubber stamps used to mark documents as "classified" or "secret," a videotape film of one of the segments of "Roots," and a sterling silver medallion from his own office are missing, he said. The presumption is that "a degree of looting took place," he said.

There was a period of about 20 minutes during early last Saturday morning when Soviet firefighters were on the upper floors of the embassy without any American escorts, he said.

plete survey and wt are satisfied that nothing of consequence is missing," Toon said.

An eingeering survey showed that the eight-hour blaze did not affect the structural integrity of the ten-story embassy, Toon said.

Repairs to the building, which are estimated to cost $5 million, will take approximately three to four months, he said. Toon said embassy employes had been told they could request a transfer out of Moscow "without prejudice to their careers." He said two had requested such transfers because of fears about the hazardous working conditions in Moscow. THE AMBASSADOR said the precise cause of last week's fire had not been determined, but an electrical malfunction was still the chief sus-

He said he was endorsing the request of embassy employes that the hazardous duty differential paid in Moscow be increased from 20 per cent to 25 per cent during the reconstruction period expected to last until the end of the year.

"We are going to be cramped and crowded until then but we can live with that," Toon said.

End periodic reassessments: Tully

Cook County Assessor Thomas M. Tully Friday recommended the state end its periodic property reassessments and determine the value of property for taxing purposes only when it is sold.

"Under such a system, a man and woman who buy a home would not be hit by rising market values as the value of their home increases."Tully

Earlier this week, Tully announced

he will appoint a committee of business and tax experts to study how the property tax system can be improved. Large property tax increases, particularly in Chicago's northern suburbs, have produced widespread protests recently.

The assessor made his surprising recommendation during the taping of an interview on WBBM Radio. He said he would submit the recommendation to his committee.

If the Illinois Legislature would pass such a law, Tully said assessments probably would be frozen at the levels in force when the law became effective. The values could be changed only when the property is sold and would be based on the sale

He said the system he recommended would produce adequate revenue for governments and schools.

Businessmen back school busing plan

Business leaders urged support Friday for the city's voluntary student transfer plan, while parents of children involved in the desegregation program began receiving letters assuring them the pupils will be protected. The program "must succeed if Chicago is to achieve quality education and educational excellence for all its students," said Robert W. MacGregor, president of Chicago United. "Chicago United believes the time has come for all leaders in the religious, political, labor, education and media communities to support the actions of voluntary desegregation . . . . ' Among the 45 members of Chicago United are A. Robert Abboud, chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Chicago; Thomas G. Ayers, chairman of Commonwealth Edison Co.; Edward S. Donnell, chairman of Montgomery Ward; John H. Perkins, president of Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co.; and O. Clifford Davis, president of Peoples Gas.

Marquette Park march banned

A judge issued a temporary restraining order Friday prohibiting a planned march by a civil rights group to Marquette Park, the scene of past racial violence. The Rev. Alexander I. Dunlap, executive director of the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Movement, Friday morning announced plans for a march today to the predominantly white Marquette Park area. Cook County Circuit Court Judge Raymond K. Berg Friday afternoon forbade the group from conducting a "parade, march or demonstration on any public way in the city of Chicago without a valid permit." Dunlap said he would ask Gov. James R. Thompson, Mayor Michael A. Bilandic and Operation PUSH President Jesse L. Jackson to join the march. He said the march would be from coalition headquarters to the predominantly white Marquette Park area.

12,000 CTA workers get raise

About 12,000 Chicago Transit Authority bus drivers, motormen and other union employes Friday got cost-of-living raises that will cost the CTA about $4 million a year. Top scale was increased 12.5 cents an hour and other CTA employes will receive comparable increases. Top pay for bus drivers rose to $3.41 an hour.

Cab protest tangles up Loop

About a dozen cab drivers for the Checker and Yellow cab companies abandoned their vehicles Friday on Randolph Street in front of the Daley Center, causing a backup of noon hour traffic. Tow trucks hauled several of the cabs away. Checker cab driver Joseph Bailey, a spokesman for the group, said the drivers were protesting the encroachment of limousine and suburban cab services on the Chicago cab business. Bailey said the group wants Chicago Consumer Sales Comr. Jane M. Byrne to "do something" about the limousines and suburban cabs in Chicago.

Man found unfit for trial

A judge Friday found Miguel Valdes unfit to stand trial on charges of murder in the slayings of a doctor and his nurse, whose toes were mailed abroad. Valdes, 38, is charged with murder in the slayings of Dr. Jesus S. Lim, 40, and his nurse, Alicia Agsaoay, 36, April 5. A psychiatrist found Valdes "suffering from chronic paranoid schizophrenia . . . that began during his childhood." Cook County Circuit Court Judge Earl Strayhorn declared him unfit to stand trial and remanded him to the custody of the Illinois Dept. of Mental Health.

Rain dissipates oil spill in lake

The heavy rainfall that drenches Chicago also dissipated the remainder of an oil spill from the U.S. Steel Corp. South Works plant, a Metropolitan Sanitary District official said Friday. An estimated 2,000 to 4,000 gallons of fuel oil spilled into the Calumet Harbor and Lake Michigan Tuesday. About 90 per cent of the oil was cleaned up Wednesday, he said. About four inches of rain fell Wednesday night and Thursday, further dissipating the oil, he

Housing authority bond power hiked

Gov. James R. Thompson Friday approved a measure that hikes the bonding authorization for the Illinois Housing Development Authority by some $300 million. The signing into law of the measure boosts the authorized bonding level from $500 million to $800 million. It allows the IHDA to finance construction of up to 12,000 new housing units in the state for multi-family, mixed income occupancy. Thompson also said the hike in authorization will allow the IHDA's Loans to Lenders program to be reactivated. In an effort to combat loan redlining practices, the program makes funds available to banks and savings and loan institutions with the stipulation that the funds be used for loans in the area in which the institutions are located. The authority has financed 89 housing developments in 60 cities across the state to serve principally lowto-moderate income families and the elderly. The measure was sponsored by Reps. Cal Skinner, R-Crystal Lake; E.J. "Zeke" Giorgi, D-Rockford; and James Houlihan, D-Chicago and Sen. Jack Schaffer, R-Crystal Lake.

Girl found dead in Schaumburg; cause unknown

by ROBERT KYLE and PAUL GORES

Seventeen-year-old Kim Lyman left her Schaumburg home Friday morning to walk her pet poodle and was found dead about a half-hour later.

No one seems to know why. The Cook County Medical Examiner began an autopsy, but it was not expected to be finished until this afternoon. A spokesman said the body had "no external marks of violence."

MISS LYMAN, 934 Cardiff Ct., was found with blood on her face on a grassy knoll in a vacant lot near her home in Schaumburg's Sheffield Towne development.

Police searched the area for clues and found a rock near the body, but

Lt. James Dillon said it bore no traces of blood.

"Until we know the cause of death, we won't know what we have," he said. "It could be foul play or it could be natural causes."

Miss Lyman, a student at Harper College in Palatine and a part-time employe of the Schaumburg State Bank, was often seen walking her dog along a footpath west of the Sheffield townhomes.

SUSAN HAUGLANDS, 1805 Broraley Ct., said she spotted the body from a second-floor window in her home shortly before 11:30 a.m.

"I thought maybe she was just resting," Ms. Hauglands said. "But I came back five minutes later and she was still laying there."

Miss Lyman was lying on her face with her dog's leash trapped beneath her body, Ms. Hauglands said, and didn't respond when Ms. Hauglands spoke to her.

Ms. Hauglands and a neighbor, Claudia Oltendorf of 1816 Eromley Ct., then called the police.

WHEN THE AMBULANCE arrived, Miss Lyman was lying on her back, said Gary Hunt, a Schaumburg paramedic.

"She had everything against her." he said. "There was no pulse, her pupils were dilated and she was getting purple in the face. But she was still a little warm, so we picked her up and put her in the ambulance and hooked her up to the defibrillator."

When three electrical shocks failed to restore Miss Lyman's heartbeat. the police called in a physician who pronounced her dead.

Hunt and Nick Pishtos, an investigator for the medical examiner's office, agreed that the blood on Miss Lyman's face came from a nosebleed, not a wound.

SOME SHEFFIELD Towne residents suspected that Miss Lyman had been murdered and said police should question the teen-aged motorcyclists who ride on a hill near where the body was found.

Others thought Miss Lyman had died in a freak accident when she fell and strangled on her dog's leash. But the women who found the body said the leash was beneath it, the paramedic said the dog was nowhere in sight, and the police said the leash was wrapped around Miss Lyman's

Ms. Oltendorf said she thought the death was accidental.

"To me it looked like she was walking her dog and tripped," she said. "It looked like she hit her nose. But then others say it's murder."

"One of the worst things is that the whole neighborhood gets so paranoid," said one man. "You're going to hear a lot of slamming and locking of doors tonight."

Pastor sees blessings in the rubble

by NANCY GOTLER

The Rev. Harold Albert stood among the rubble of broken glass and bricks that had been his church and talked about blessings.

"In a sense we've been handed a favor," he said. "We have had the largest summer attendance in five years and a great project that's brought us all together."

The project is rebuilding the First Baptist Church of Arlington Heights, 1211 W. Campbell St., that was ripped by a boiler explosion during evening choir practice March 16.

ALTHOUGH WORK on the $102,000 reconstruction job has begun, progress was slowed by a long insurance company settlement and delays in the shipment of bricks.

Meanshile, parishioners have gathered for Sunday services in a bare room on the second floor of the municipal building that doubles as village board chambers and a courtroom. But the Rev. Albert is confident he will be back in his church to deliver the Thanksgiving Day sermon and says the expolsion brought with it some hidden blessings. "There is some good in all of this because it has stirred us to build the wing addition we had planned for the future and, more importantly, because planning the new building has brought the congregation together," he said.

MEMBERS HAVE volunteered to store equipment in their garages and basements and financial contributions have risen, he said.

THE REV. HAROLD ALBERT surveys the rubble at the First Baptist Church of Arlington Heights, 1211 W. Campbell St., which was rocked by a boiler explosion March 16. The congregation has been meeting in the Arlington Heights Municipal Building in the interim.

But there still is a lot of work to be done. The walls of the church, bowed by the explosion, were removed by workmen last week. Pews were lifted from their place along the aisles to a cluster in the center of the church for storage.

AND BITS OF broken glass, ladders and wooden boards lie on the floor in place of the lecturn, piano and altar. Special arrangements have been made to use nearby churches for haptismal ceremonies and a wedding was held on the grounds adjacent to the gutted building. Otherwise, not much has changed on Sunday mornings for members of the congretation and the Rev. Albert said the situation has been a learning experience for most of them.

"What we all have found is that the church has been able to function even without a building," he said. "The central thing in our services is the Bible and we learned that those teachings apply no matter what the

22 MIAs to be returned Sept. 30

The Vietnamese will hand over the bodies of another 22 Americans to a delegation of State and Defense Department officials in Hanol Sept. 30, the State Department announced Friday. Department spokesman Hodding Carter said names could not be released now, but that the 22 bodies were those which Vietnamese officials had promised to deliver during talks with U.S. officials last June. Carter said the United States would continue efforts to obtain a full accounting from Hanol of all Americans missing in action, calling this "an essential part of developing U.S.-Vietnamese rela-

The spokesman said the U.S. delegation was going to Hanoi solely to receive the bodies. "We do not intend to have substantive discussions there," he said. "The coordinating team will only be on the ground there a few hours." Carter said the Defense Dept. has been contacting families of those tentatively identified, but he added both the U.S. and Vietnamese governments agreed not to publicize the names until they had been positively identified by U.S. officials.

Powell stays man's execution

Supreme Court Justice Lewis Powell Friday stayed the execution of Edward Lincoln King, sentenced to die Sept. 13 for the murder of a Dallas policeman. The stay will be good until the high court acts on King's appeal from a decision last May 11 by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals affirming the conviction. Powell also extended the time for filing the appeal to Nov. 4 — 60 days beyond the date when the papers normally would be due. When the case was before the state court, King attacked the Texas capital punishment law and said he was denied proper instructions by the trial judge on circumstantial evidence. The fatal shooting of officer Leslie Lane occurred on March 2, 1974, during a police chase after King had stolen a police car.

Anita hits Mexico; no injuries told

Hurricane Anita swerved away from the south Texas coast Friday and roared into northeast Mexico with 186 mile an hour winds and heavy rains that forced thousands to flee their battered fishing villages. There were no reports of deaths or injuries from the season's first hurricane. But some of the more isolated Mexican villages lost contact as Anita slammed through, and officials said they had no reports on conditions there. Anita had threatened Texas residents from Corpus Christi to the border town of Brownsville for two days, but then veered sharply south and struck land 135 miles south of the Rio Grande, near the fishing hamlet of La Pesca, at 5:30 a.m. CDT.

Cuban group threatens bombings

A militant Cuban exile group that took credit for two recent bombings said Friday it had laid a string of bombs along a 14-mile stretch of U.S. 1 from Homestead to Key West, Fla. No bombs exploded. A man with a Spanish accent called UPI three times Friday saying the bombs had been planted along the "Overseas Highway" and demanding the release of "Cuban political prisoners" in the United States. The FBI and Dade and Monroe County authorities were notified of the calls, which lasted less than a minute.

Strike at Detroit News averted

Federal mediators averted a strike Friday night by truckers and circulation workers at the Detroit News, the nation's largest evening newspaper. Norman Walker of the Federal Mediation Service in Washington said negotiators for The News and Teamsters Union local 372 reached an agreement in day-long "crisis" talks. Walker said details of the agreement, which affects 700 employes, would not be immediately released. The workers had set a 12:01 a.m. Saturday strike deadline if no settlement were reached.

Everything 'go' for Voyager

Everything was in a "go" condition Friday for the Labor Day launch of the Voyager 1 spaceship on a journey to Jupiter, Saturn and the stars beyond. The craft is scheduled for launch at 8:56 a.m. Monday aboard a Titan Centaur rocket. "Everything is fine on the spacecraft and everything is on schedule," said John Casani, Voyager project manager. Most members of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory team working on the spacecraft were given the day off because there was so little to do.

Elvis gets VFW highest honor

Elvis Presley has been awarded posthumously the Veterans of Foreign Wars highest honor for patriotic and humanitarian service, it was announced Friday. Henry Bucklew, state commander of the VFW, said Presley, who died Aug. 16 in Memphis at the age of 42, was entitled to the award "both for serving honorably in the military service . . . as well as his often overlooked humanitarian service of giving his time and money . . . # Water discovered in Egyptian desert Geologists prospecting for oil have discovered a vast subterranean water reservoir, built by seepage from the Nile, in the barren, forbidding sands of Egypt's Western Desert, the Oil Ministry said Friday. Oil Ministry officials said the discovery, once exploited, will permit Egypt to irrigate and cultivate millions of acres of desert land. The geologists struck water after a year and a half of survey and field work aided by experts from the U.S. Agency for International Development. The water-bearing layers are estimated to range in depth from 5,000 to 10,000 feet and can yield at least 24.7 billion cubic feet of water with minimal salinity annually, the officials said.

Albania blasts Peking 'betrayal'

Albania blasted Peking Friday for "betraying" Communism by welcoming Yugoslav President Tito to China. Albania's official Voice of the People newspaper republished an article written by Communist party leader Enver Hoxha in 1963 attacking Soviet efforts to improve relations with Tito's maverick regime. "This is to refresh the memory of the people," an Albanian Embassy official in Belgrade said, suggesting the critical references to the Soviet Union in the article now also applied to Peking's new regime. Hoxha, who had in China his only ally in the world, has called Tito an enemy of "Marxism-Leninism." He disapproves of Peking's recognition of Tito as reflected this week in Tito's first visit to China.

Summer's carnival fades into fall

The summers of steamy evenings, dripping ice cream cones, sweaty skins, the traveling carnival shows...

Their night lights, calliope chords, corn dogs and cotton candy, their "3 for 50 cents" take-a-chance booths and whirling ferris wheels come rolling into town, are as surely a part of summer as a July thunder storm.

With them came the barker. His beckonings had persisted on those weekend stands. "Try your luck . . . fool the guesser . . . how about you. mam . . ."

And then like a disappearing

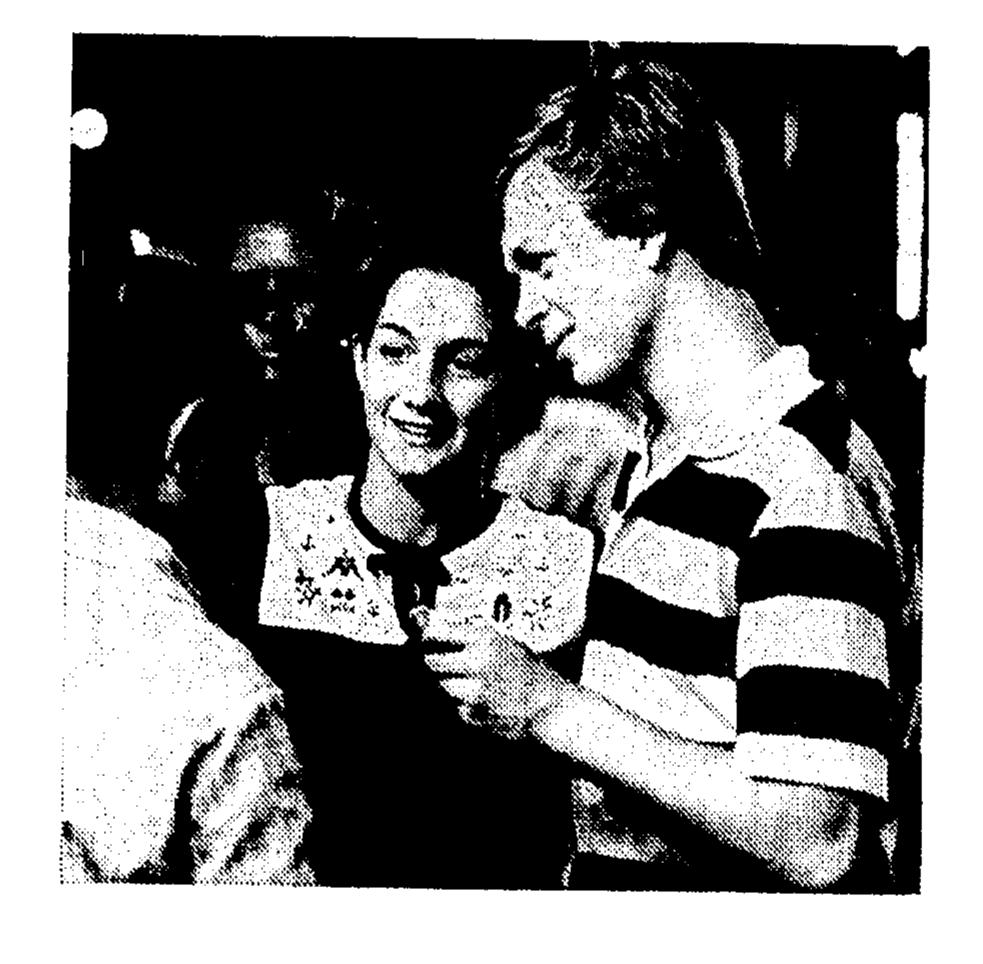

And then like a disappearing magician, the long, lazy days of endless summer are suddenly gone. Labor Day, back-to-school and good-bye to the late evening sunsets ... and to the carnival barker.

Now the parking lots are empty again, lying in wait for the chilling snows that will cover them in the months ahead . . . remembering the echos of a carnival barker and a summer gone by.

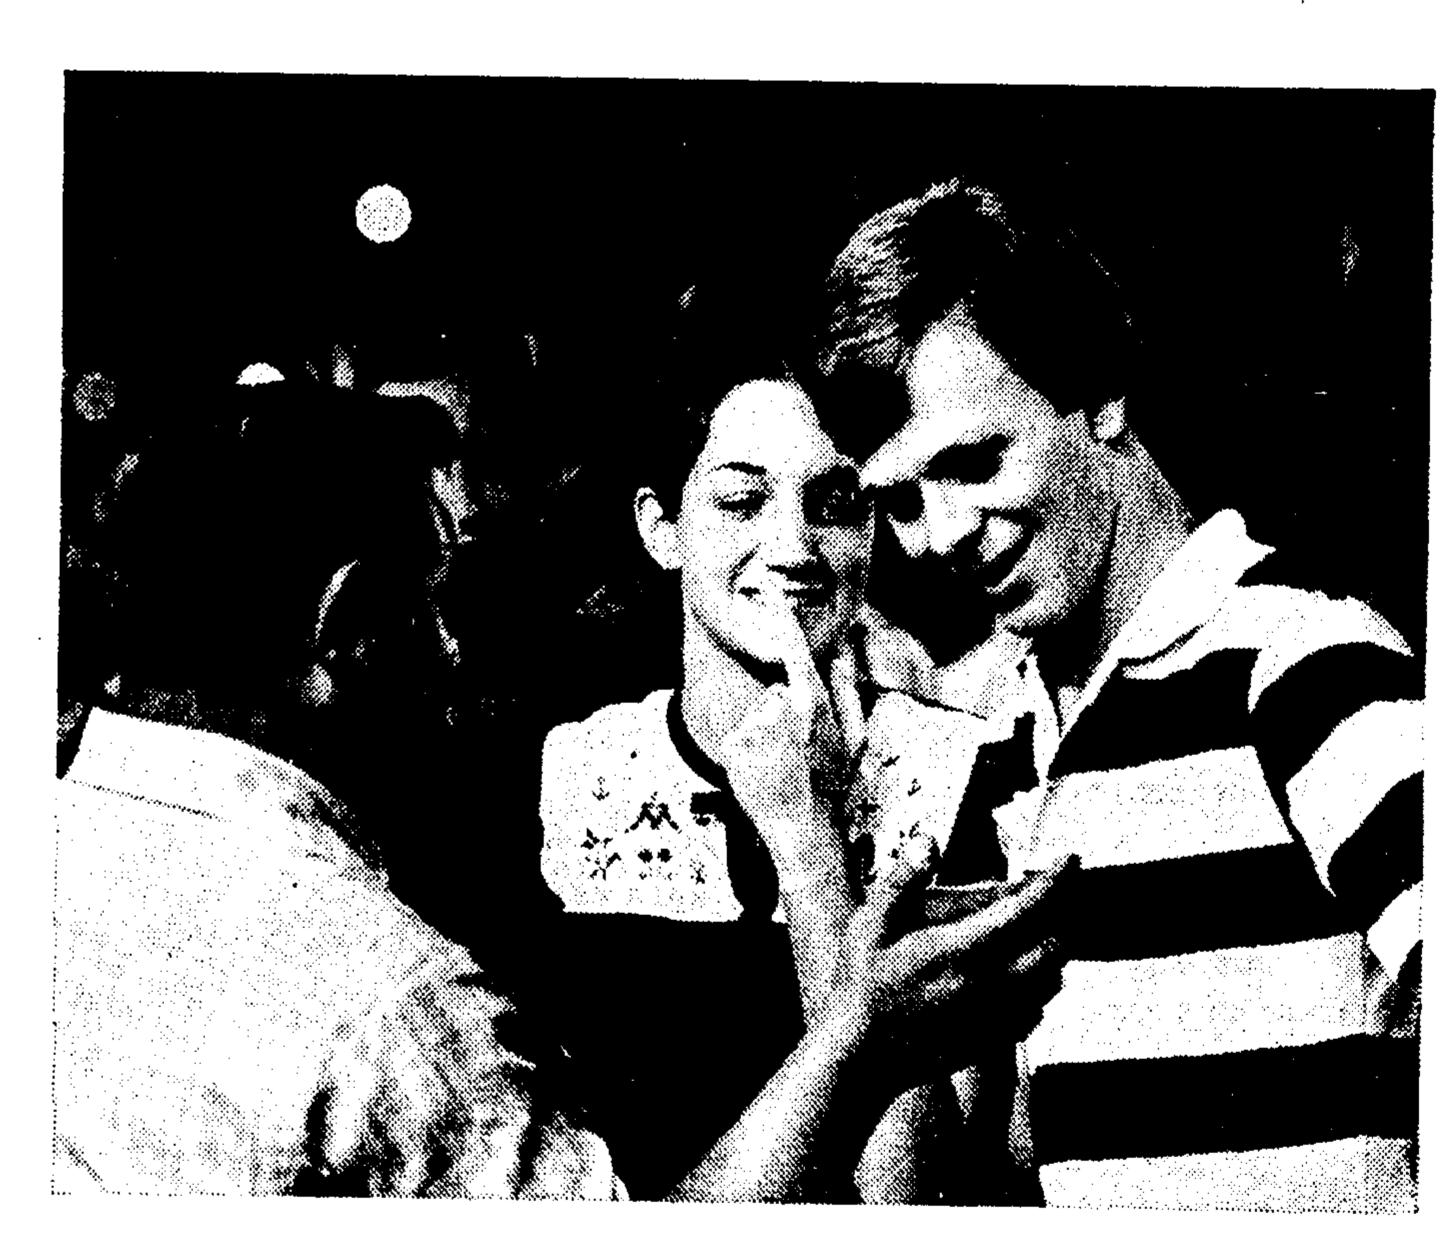

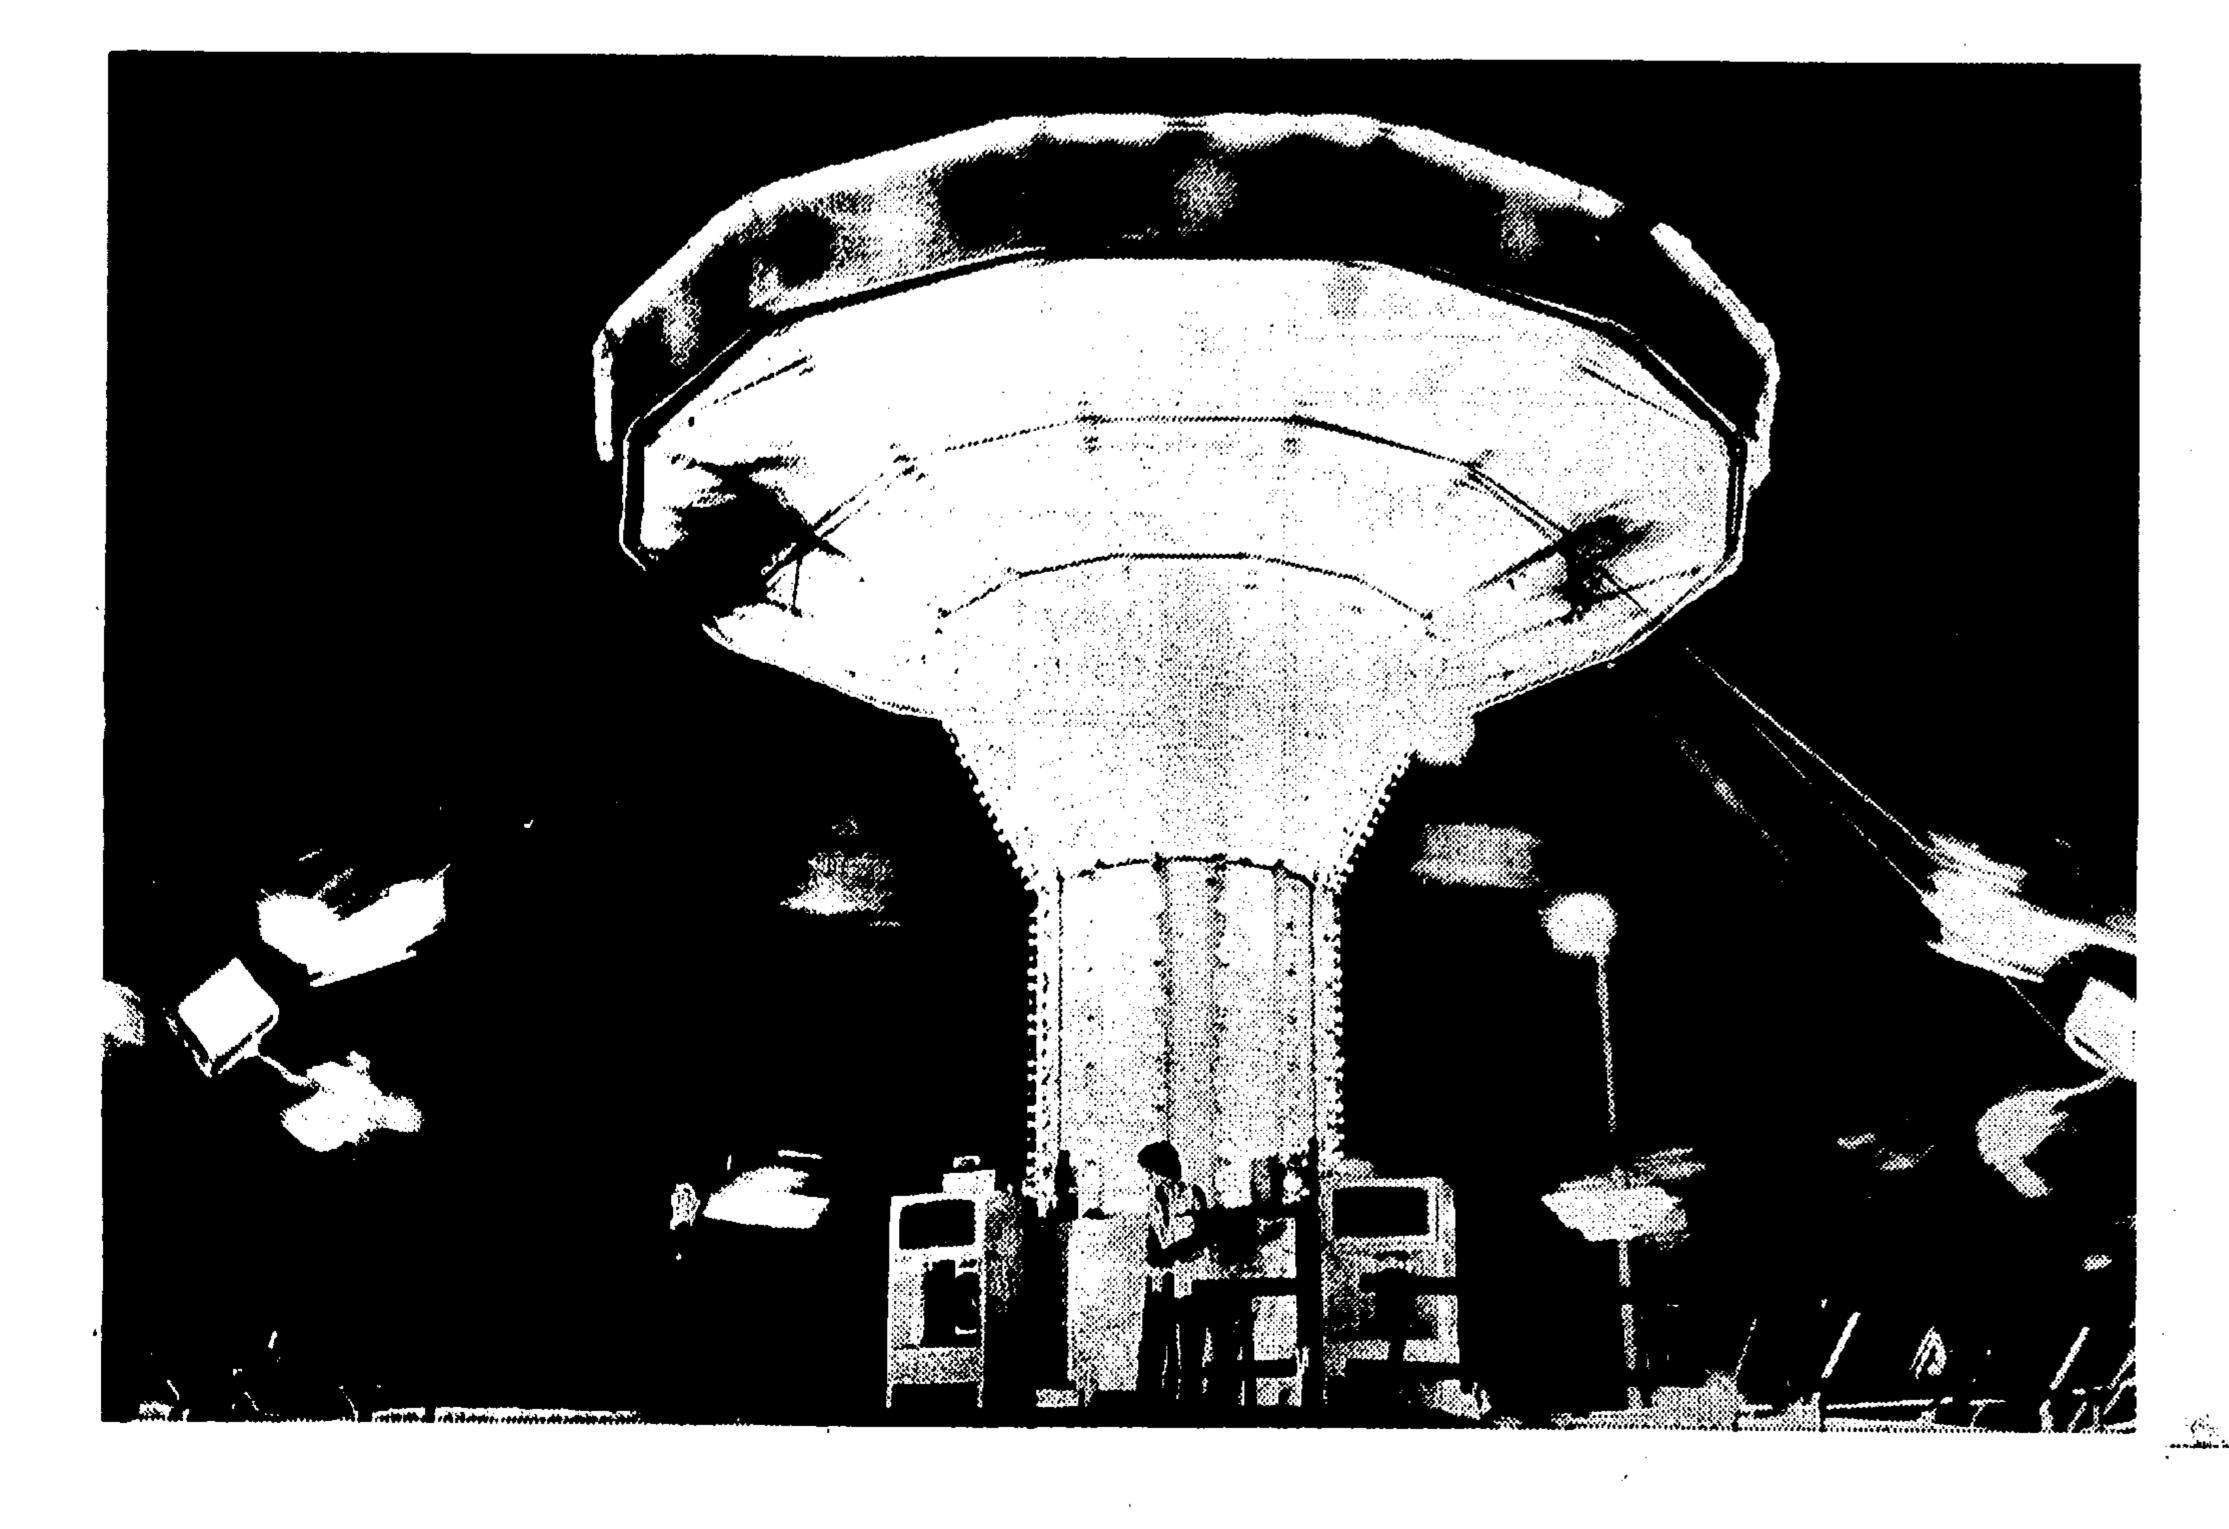

"You there," he called.

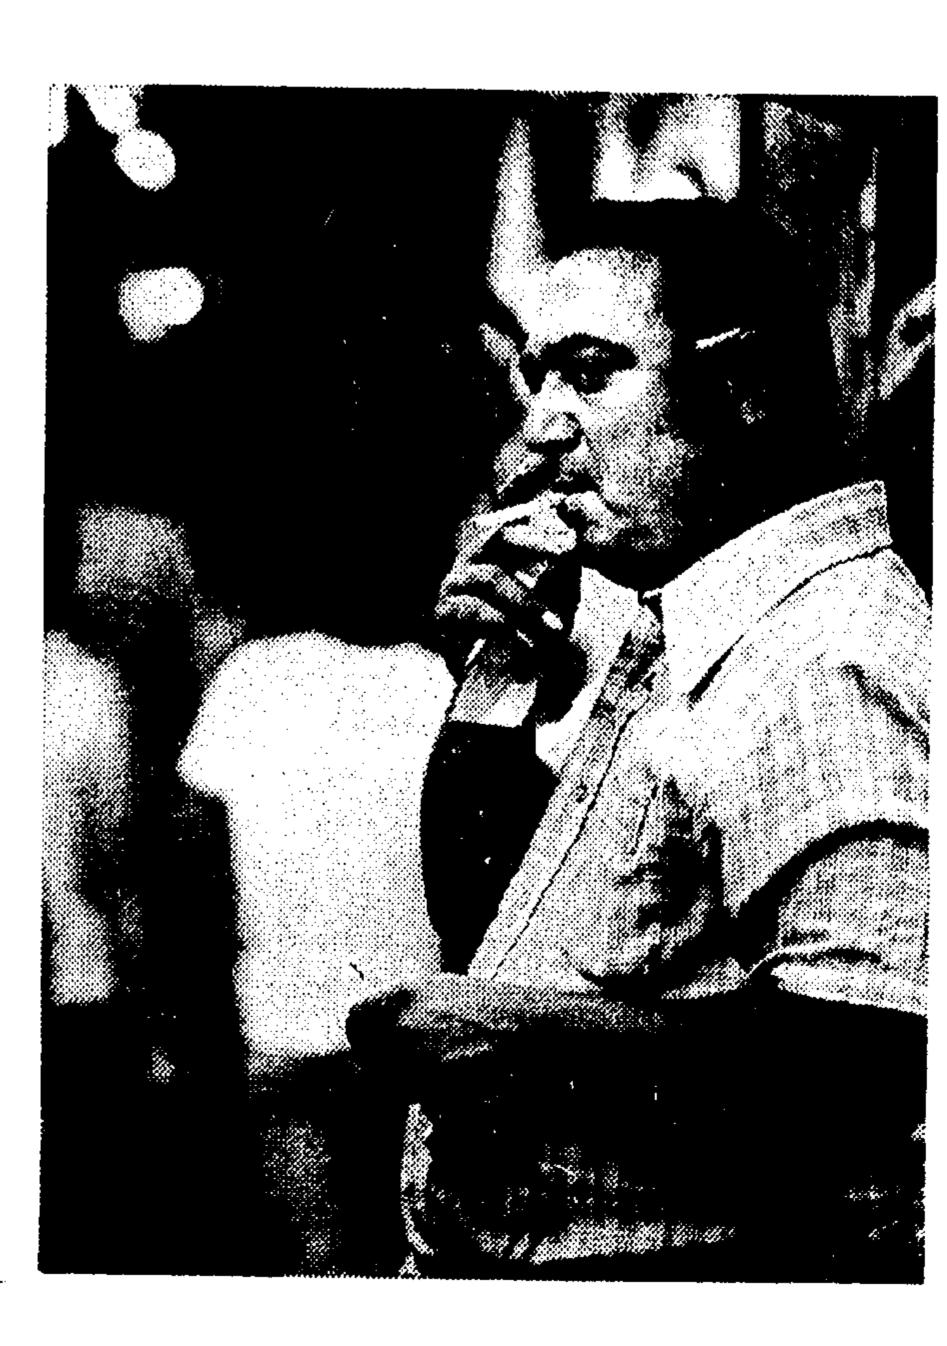

"Hey, sporty, bring your girl friend over here. Just a minute."
He says he knows more about you than you know about yourself. He'll guess your age, your weight, your marriage date.

Some pass him by.

Some stop.
And the sporting kind take him on. Fooled for $1.

The screaming thrills of the spinning swings, now packed away... and the maestro of mind, waiting for another season to come, as the final wisp of summer fun fades into fall. And so the carnival.

in smokestack

PORTAGE, Wis. (UPI) -- A helicopter lifted the second of two workers trapped 300 feet down a power plant chimney shortly before noon

saved by copter

Robert Silver, 46, Kansas City, Kan., had been trapped in the 650 foot tall smokestack since 7 p.m. Thursday at the Columbia County generating plant of the Wisconsin Power and Light Co.

"I'm OK," Silver said as he climbed out of the rescue basket. He was taken to Divine Savior Hospital in Portage for observation, authorities said.

Silver and Robert Ebeling, 47, Dieterich, Ill., went into the newly built chimney about noon Thursday, a spokesman said.

EBELING WAS taken out by helicopter at 3:40 a.m., a spokesman for the Columbia County sheriff's office said. He was taken to Divine Savior Hospital where he is reported in satisfactory condition, according to Don Piepenburg, director of public information for Wisconsin Power and Light Co.

"What happened was that three of their Skyclimbers (winches which raise and lower scaffolds) stopped and one kept coming," said Joe Guyer, superintendent of Gunite Construction Co. The firm for which the men work.

That caused the scaffold to tip, he

"They were hanging by their safety belts and onto one of the Skyclimbers," Guyer said.

The workers were painting a sealant inside the new smokestack, Guyer

Converters pose threat, scientist says

Carelessly discarded catalytic converters, the antismog devices installed on most new cars since 1975, post a serious threat of environmental poisoning, a California biochemist

Dr. Rajendra S. Bhatnager of the University of California, San Francisco, said the catalytic converters, attached to auto exhaust systems, contain the metal palladium which is harmless by itself, but extremely poisonous when converted to palladium nitrate or palladium sulfate.

Car owners should not discard catalytic converters along the road side he warned. "At the moment, we do not know if any of the poisons escape from the converters. We are concerned about worn catalytic converters that might leak and the careless disposal of old converters," Bhatnager told a meeting of the American Chemical Society in Chicago this week.

Declaring party on the way out?

Illinois voters may no longer be required to declare their political party when voting in primary elections after 1978 if a citizens watchdog group prevails in an attempt to reform the state election law.

The Coalition for Political Honesty next week kicks off a year-long campaign to put the open primary issue on the 1978 election ballot.

Patrick Quinn, secretary-treasurer of the group, said 625,000 petition signatures are needed to force an advisory referendum on the issue.

"It will take a lot of work and intensity. But I think the public will support us. The average citizen is well ahead of the politicians on this," Quinn said.

THE ILLINOIS LAW that requires primary voters to state whether they are Republicans or Democrats discourages voter turnout and can lead to intimidation and harassment by political bosses, Quinn said.

"It's really no one's business how you vote. The secrecy of the ballot box is violated when people are required to say which political party they are voting for," he said.

In Illinois only 30 per cent of the voters cast ballots in the primary election. In Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota, states with open primaries, a higher percentage of voters go to the polls, he said. The Coalition for Political Honesty last year collected 635,000 signatures in support of an ethics initiative that would have put three constitutional amendments governing the conduct of legislators on The November 1976 bal-

THE ILLINOIS Supreme Court ruled the proposed amendments unconstitutional. However, the coalition takes credit for forcing the General Assembly to end its 100-year-old practice of paying legislators' full annual salary in advance.

This year the petition drive is aimed not at enacting constitutional amendments but at calling an advisory referendum on the open primary.

Citizens can propose an advisory referendum on any question of public policy if they secure petition signatures of 10 per cent of the state's registered voters, Quinn said.

"We want to demonstrate the power of petition and the advisory referendum. The whole exercise is important as a means of teaching people that they can affect the politicians and elected officials in the state," Quinn

The coalition plans to use a bus that will tour the state collecting petition signatures. More than 12,000 volunteers participated in last year's political honesty initiative and many of them are expected to work this year in support of the open primary, Quinn

THE PETITIONS must be filed by Auk. 21, 1978, which is 78 days before the general election.

"I am very optimistic and hopeful about the outcome," Quinn said. "I think this is something that bothers a lot of Illinois citizens, both Republicans and Democrats.

"For 25 years reformers have tried" to get open primaries in Illinois and every time it was defeated by the political lobbyists," he said.

The petition drive begins officially Sept. 11.

Churches seek to invest in 'life-supportive' firms

During the Vietnam War churches and synagogues, first on the national level, became aware of the responsibility they had to manage their sometimes huge investment portfolios, not only in a fiscally responsible way but in a socially responsible manner as well.

Congregants opposed to the noises about the hypocrisy of deonominational stances against the war while pension funds and other church money were routinely being invested in firms with Defense Dept. contracts and therefore aiding the war effort.

Two strategies were devised to deal with the problem: to continue to hold stock in the questionable corporations and fight to change their policies, or to sell the stock in companies with policies the churches opposed and look for other nonobjectionable firms in which to invest.

SOME HAVE sought to find alternatives whereby people and institutions it," he said. could invest in corporations which were "life supportive" corporations rather than "problem" investments.

David E.

Anderson World of religion

Among the most successful of these alternative investment groups has been Pax World Fund, headquartered in Portsmouth, N.H., which just celebrated its sixth birthday. "The most remarkable thing about the Fund," said Jack Corbett, a United Methodist minister who was a founder of the Fund and sits on its board of directors, "is that we have discovered it is possible to invest in the life supportive industries and not go into weapons production and we are able to provide a normal return.

"People said that we couldn't do

The fund, established in 1971, has established some basic criteria for screening companies in which it invests. Primary considerations are that the firm can not be involved in weapons production or weapons-related production and that it must have strong fair employment policies and practices.

It also looks at the environmental impact of the company and such things as whether and to what degree the company is invested in South Af-

Despite the fund's success, Corbett said "generally we've been a little disappointed" in the number of institutional investors but he noted that most managers of institutional funds are "properly cautious" in their investment management.

"Our biggest unsolved problem has been to get listed in the daily newspapers," he said. It takes a thousand shareholders to be listed by the Wall Street Journal and 2,000 for the New York Times. Pax has about 700 shareholders.

Assets for Pax World Fund total some $1,721,836.

Amid the raised voices and controversy surrounding school busing in Chicago, it is good news indeed to hear of quietly successful school busing in the Northwest suburbs.

The busing occurred in Elgin Dist. U46, the district that . serves Elgin, South Elgin. Streamwood, Bartlett, Hanover Park and Wayne. The program involves about 300 elementary school children, half from minority groups, who are being transported from Elgin to five schools in Streamwood.

When the busing program was first announced last spring, there were some protests and some concern expressed by parents of the minority students about their children's safety.

And, just in case, Dist. U46 stationed top administrators on the first day of classes at each of the five Streamwood schools scheduled to receive the bused children.

The first day went smoothly, with no more than the normal anxiety among children who weren't sure they could find their teachers. Officials and parents in Dist. U46 were justifiably will prevail. pleased.

There are several reasons why the situation was so peaceful in Dist. U46. School officials point out that the busing, though it involved black and Spanish-speaking children, was not specifically designed to promote integration. Instead, it was set up to eliminate overcrowding of some schools.

In addition, the number of children involved is small, with no more than 77 newcomers at any one school.

It is possible that Dist. U46 will have more trouble when a full scale desegregation program must be implemented. A plan for desegregation is due this fall.

However, as long as Dist. U46 officials and parents continue to approach busing in the same low-key, sensible way they handled this first program, there is good reason to hope that calm

The example provided so far proves that busing does not have to be a traumatic trial for a community. It can be, instead, a simple fact of life.

Time to complete Rte. 53 extension

State policemen sit there in their cars where the road ends and wait.

They wait for speeders in the area's most notorious speed trap where every day thousands of cars are funneled into a single lane on Ill. Rte. 53 at Dundee Road.

It's a speed trap because Rte. 53 goes nowhere, and because motorists don't slow down as the road chokes itself from an expressway to a dead end.

Since 1970 the expressway has stopped at Dundee Road. And as Buffalo Grove and other communities in Lake and North Cook County have grown, the road has become more crowded. Today it's a bottleneck.

The state highway department, legislators, local officials and residents can't make up their minds whether the road should be built. Some want it as a freeway, others as a toll road. and still others don't want the road extended at all.

Long Grove officials say the road work ought to be scaled down to retain the rural character of the Lake County countryside. In the meantime, the state holds hearing after hearing on everything from environmental impact to local sentiment.

Maybe all of the officials involved in the hassle ought to get in their cars and drive along Rte. 53 during rush hour and then try to get off at Dundee. The jam-up might persuade them.

And the congestion is going to get worse. The Illinois Transportation Study Commission report shows that by 1995 an estimated 6,840 vehicles per hour or 95,000 vehicles per day will travel the road. The criterion required by the state for construction of a freeway is 2,500 vehicles per hour.

State officials ought to finish what they started and follow the recommendation of the state's study commission that the road be completed as a freeway.

It's time to get on with the project.

There's no rational case for a minimum wage hike

It's that time again, time to raise the minimum wage. A Democratic President has been elected and the labor unions that supported him demand it. No matter what the effect on the economy. No matter that the President's own economic advisers must cringe at the move. No matter what disruption it may work in the general economy or havoc it may wreck in the lives of the poorest, youngest, most frustrated and volatile people in the economic order. The minimum wage has got to be raised again. In a Democratic Administration, that's an article of faith. It's got to be, there not being much of a rational case for it left.

At least since Milton Friedman stopped being a maverick and founded a school, economists have been inveighing against the deleterious effects of a higher and higher minimum wage. Friedman was arguing as early as the '50's that the effect of overbearing union power "has been to make high-paid union workers higher paid at the expense of lower-paid workers" and that union power is "reducing the opportunities available to the most disadvantaged workers." A generation of reputable economists since has found in the workings of the minimum wage the clearest documentation of Friedman's thesis.

EVEN THE EDITORIAL writers at the New York Times, once adept at repeating the higher drivel of the day, have proven educable. In opposing the Administration's plan to lift the minimum wage from $2.30 an hour to $2.65, and to maintain it indefinitely after that at 53 per cent of average manufacturing wages, the Times bases its case on some primal economics:

"A business hires workers only if their labor produces earnings at least equal to their wages. If the business is compelled to pay $2.65, it cannot hire those whose work produces less thanthat. So although a $2.65 minimum would improve the lot of many who work below that wage today, it would at the same time destroy the jobs of those at the very bottom."

In addition to its generally inflationary effect, such a rise in the minimum wage might strike particularly hard at the young, the elderly, the handicapped, the poorly educated, all those who could not be hired profitably at an inflated wage rate. It might only compound the problems of those already discriminated against in hiring. Translated into statistics, it's estimated that a minimum wage of $2.65 an hour would cost the jobs of about 100,000 teenagers now working. Unemployment among young people seeking their first jobs is now estimated at 20 per cent, and at 40 per cent for black teenagers. Even that last, grim figure may be deceptively low in many localities since it is a national average. In the large metropolitan areas, the unemployment rate for black youth may be closer to 60 per cent.

THOSE STATISTICS help explain the welfare case load, the crime, the deteriorating social and fiscal conditions of America's great cities in general. It is difficult to see how anyone with a social conscience and access to a few figures can argue for still another rise in the minimum wage. As the good gray Times, as close to passion as it can get, concludes: "The basic effect of an increase in the minimum wage, then, would be to intensify the cruel competition among the poor for scarce jobs . . . Minimum-wage legislation has no place in a strategy to eliminate poverty."

The minimum wage law has become part of the problem it purports to solve. It seemed so simple: Want people to make higher wages? Pass a law. But can or should a law force employers to hire others at unprofitable rates? The result may be only more poverty, suffering and frustration. All in the name of social justice, of course. Just as leeches were once applied in the name of enlightened medicine. Though there is little excuse for applying the economic equivalent in this Age of Friedman.

Walter E. Williams, a continuing font of sanity as associate professor of economics at Temple University, noted in congressional testimony that once upon a time (in 1948) unemployment among black youths was roughly the same as among whites and that "historically, black labor force participation has always exceeded that of whites." Why has the gap developed? As Professor Williams notes, "it would be very difficult for anyone to sustain an argument which held that business and society have become more racially discriminatory than they were in the

Rather, Professor Williams points to the minimum wage law and a host of others that hamstring the very people they are supposed to benefit. An employer forced to pay artificially inflated wages will doubtless choose to let go those least educated and experienced, often those who most need a chance. Professor Williams isn't the first to make that point; Milton Friedman once called the minimum wage law the most anti-black law on the

WHAT SEEMS particularly to nettle Professor Williams, a black man, is that the failure of laws like the minimum wage and doctrines like Reverse Discrimination will give their ostensible beneficiaries a bad name, and make them seem people that no amount of favoritism can help:

"The point that I wish to make in the strongest fashion possible is that many laws, though well-intentioned, spell disaster for a large segment of black, Hispanic and other disadvantaged minority groups. The most tragic element of this is that society will come to view the difficulty that these groups have in fully entering the mainstream of American society (in spite of billions of dollars spent, in spite of civil rights legislation, in spite of thousands of civil rights litigation cases) as group incompetence, and as such the most racist elements of society will have their prophecies realized. Hardly anyone acknowledges that many, if not most, of the problems encountered are neither due to group nor individual incompetence but due to the excesses of government influenced by politically powerful interest groups."

With friends like labor unions, and help like this latest proposal to raise the minimum wage, those Americans desperate for an opportunity need no

Today's disputes recall Arlington's past

I have lived in Arington Heights many years and enjoy it very much. Recent events remind me of some past activities. When an office building on North Arlington Heights Road was erected there was a small uproar over the damage it would do to the neighborhood. There is little evidence that this "ugly old office building" has done any harm. When an industrial plant was built on Central Avenue, there was an outcry against an "Ugly Old Factory" that would pour its smoke into the air and ruin property values. This dire prediction has not been fulfilled.

A businessman complained to me about the cost of building some city public building. I asked him if he had voted in the last local election. He had not. He didn't have time. In effect, by not voting, he voted for the items he opposed.

Recently someone is upset because of an Indian Pow-wow held in Recreation Park. All kinds of horrible situations would be created. These Indians set up their teepees and at no time did I see anything deleterious oc-

There is an uproar because Arlington Heights Dist. 25 needs to close a junior high school and, perhaps, relieve its financial problem by renting the property to a senior college. Upper class college people are a fearful group who will simply raise a ruckus every day by running down pedestrians, destroying property, etc. etc.

In the last few years I have been on two candidate selection committees for the village. The committees met, heard the candidates and presented a slate to the voters. In no case did I find a prospective candidate to be repulsive or objectionable. In fact, they were all rather good people with a desire to serve the community.

Three times I was on a selection committee for Dist, 25. The committee, composed of good citizens, thoughtfully considered the candidates and presented a slate. Each candidate was a worthy citizen. The superintendent came and discussed the school system's needs and goals. He did not push or try to sway our decisions. He was a completely qualified and reliable adviser.

would assume that this school board, chosen by the democratic process of election, is capable of making proper decisions for the welfare of the schools, the children and the community. I would assume that it would accept suggestions and presentations from the community citizens and groups on any of its problems. Both assumptions are reasonable. I see, however, in the case of the closing of a school, a sustained bickering between two neighborhoods over which

There is also a sustained whoop-te-do over the tax bills.

I have noticed the election returns in local elections for years. It is evident the number of voters at local elections is not equal to or nearly equal to the number of eligible voters. Local citizens have spurned their right of local voting. I have heard people say, "I never vote in local elections. It doesn't mean anything." The fact is, that the local election is the one the results of which have the greatest immediate effect on the personal life of the voter.

If local voting is allowed to slip away from us by disuse, we are losing the greatest power of citizenship. We will continue, more and more, to be run by minorities and special interest groups, who, by shrieking, marching and threatening, take over the decision making role of the elected boards and bend it to their own particular needs and purposes.

Why not exercise the voting right each election? Why not exercise the right to present ideas and objections in a normal, quiet, intelligent manner, and back up these ideas with valid facts, not by threats and demands? Democracy starts on the ground floor of society. It starts here in this village. It starts with a majority of the voting citizens using the local voting

Why didn't driver stop for cat?

Sometime Sunday, Aug. 28, between 8:30 and 10 a.m., someone killed my children's pet cat. It was on a quiet residential street in Arlington Heights, but it would serve no useful purpose to pinpoint the exact location. The driver of the car alone knows when and where and must face that scene everytime he (or she) travels our street again.

The cat was a beautiful gray and white, gentle with children and adored by two little girls, ages 7 and 3. If she had a fault it was her innate desire to explore. She never did any damage, wasn't a loud neighborhood nuisance and rarely ventured out of her territory, our yard. Apparently, on Sunday morning she made her first mistake. And was killed for it.

Why didn't you stop to see if she was dead or merely injured? Maybe we could have saved her life. Why didn't you ring someone's doorbell and ask whose cat it was? Everyone knew her owners. Why were you so cowardly that you drove off to leave an injured animal alone in the street perhaps to be discovered by some impressionable young child? Why did you kill my children's cat? Why didn't you try and explain it to them; a simple explanation that it was an accident and you simply didn't see her would have been enough. Now they don't know the why's.

We buried her in her own yard, said some prayers appropriate for a cat's soul and, at our daughter's insistance, fashioned a crude cross nailed together from two rulers. How did you spend your Sunday, I wonder? By the way, in case you're at all interested, her name was "Flower." Please don't school should be closed. As for "Flower," well don't even give her a second thought. She'd probably just curl up in your lap, purr a little and quietly fall asleep. After all, she was just a cat. And now she's

'Rule hazardous'

In the last week my children and I have noticed signs painted on the sidewalks in downtown Mount Prospect stating "No bicycle riding on the sidewalks." As a parent of five children ages 8 thru 12 who ride bicycles, I am appalled.

I do not believe children should have to ride in the busy downtown streets of Mount Prospect which include highways. No child on a bicycle is a match for an automobile moving 30 MPH on busy streets. This not only endangers the life and limb of our children, but creates a hazard to those driving autos.

I do believe bicycles should not be allowed on state highways such as Route 83 and 14 which pass through downtown Mount Prospect. How can you expect children to safely travel to the grocery, drugstores and other shops in downtown Mount Prospect if they are not permitted on the sidewalks with their transportation (bicycles)?

Maybe King Lear knew about kids after all

Every time I read about King Lear moaning, "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is, to have a thankless child," I think, "Tough, Lear, you didn't raise your kids right."

AFTER THE LIGHTS went out Thursday, I discovered that my Mother's Day battery-powered radio didn't have any batteries in it and top that, Lear.

I was ready to disinherit the whole bunch of them. But then I remembered how much I hate to shower in hard water, drive to the airport and sleep in the basement. Besides, I may have been undu-

NOR IS IT their fault that I avoided using the plumbing and ate a cold supper. When the lights go out I always figure that the toilet won't flush and the gas stove won't work.

Or that, right after picking tomatoes, I had planned to start writing this column — on my electric typewriter.

Actually it wasn't all that bad and three hours isn't forever. I just seems that way. I penned my column by candlelight with the cowardly cat on my lap and it was all very cozy.

THEN THE lights went on, the radio started blaring that there was a 50-50 chance of rain and the cat when straight up in the air.

I could see again. I could see that there was tomato juice all down my front, candlewax all over my column and water seeping into the basement.

That's when the kids started calling to see if I was all right. And when I started reciting Shakespeare to the last one, the phone went dead.

Peaceful' Indian chief stands ground, won't sell

CHILOQUIN, Oregon — Edison Chiloquin is an Indian without a tribe, a chief without a people, a man of the past without a future. He lives here on the edge of privation, in the village of his fathers, a braided buckskinned, doleful reminder of America's original sin: its desecration of its aborigin-er de de de la regretation de la proposition de destant de la proposition de la financia de la completación de

Once and for thousands of years this part of the nation, southern Oregon, was Indian country. Four tribes - the Modoc, Shosone, E'ukskni and Plaikni - claimed an area from Crater Lake to the California border. The land was decorated with evergreen stands and rounded mountains; it was remote, secure, lovely and rich.

Too rich. When white men discovered the Indians of south Oregon in the 1800s, they saw not people but timber, hundreds of square miles of it, timber for fires, timber for homes, timber for industry. The federal government grouped the four tribes under one name - Klamath - and began negotiations to annex their properties.

THE KLAMATH failed to appreciate the negotiations, of course. But they were peaceful people; and, besides, they knew what had happened to other tribes thought by the government to be uncooperative. In 1864, a treaty was signed, giving the U.S. 200 square miles of Indian territory, and leaving 50 square miles for the tribes.

But unfortunately the nation was not satisfied with the agreement. For the next 80 years the Klamath's reservation was invaded and confiscated by loggers, settlers, railroaders and road builders. The Bureau of Indian Affairs was charged with guarding against this treaty-breaking encroachment; it did not.

Then, in the late 1940s, the encroachment issue reached the U.S. Congress. The lawmakers worried about the ability of the Klamaths to manage their remaining lands. They thought it would be better if the lands were fully purchased, and the money divided among tribal members who could then become part of the mainstream society.

MANY KLAMATH Indians balked at the idea of termination. It would mean the absolute destruction of tribal identity. It would mean the end to treaty rights, to the concept of federal "protection." Worse, it would likely destroy the already wounded culture of a people who predated Columbus in the New World.

And yet who could understand such complexities? Only about two dozen tribal members had high school educations. Moreover, there was as much as 50 per cent unemployment on the reservation, hence the federal payoff was sorely needed. In the end, 1959, all but 135,000 acres of Indian land was sold by some 2,260 Klamath own-

Tom

The remaining land belonged to 473 Indians who refused the deal. They said they'd rather have land than money. One of the 473 was Edison Chiloquin, the hereditary chief of the original Plaikni. He had just returned from World War II, the most decorated Klamath Indian to serve in the battles; he said he'd not sell his land - ever.

ACTUALLY, MOST of the 473 remaining landholders vowed to cling to their heritage. But over the next two decades events and circumstances corroded their resolve. In 1969, apparently because of legal confusion and misunderstanding, the remainder of the Klamath reservation was sold to the government at $103,000 a share.

Many of the sellers now say they did not want to sell. They say they merely wanted to end their relationship with an Oregon bank that was serving as their trustee. The government, however, says that when the Indians voted to do away with the trusteeship, it was the same as voting for termination and the sale of their property.

Only one man has protested this : government interpretation of the final sale. Edison Chiloquin. Though his · land has been taken with the rest, he refuses to acknowledge that it is no: longer his. For eight years now he has ; ignored the $103,000 payment. It is unclaimed in a bank, the last sack of silver for the last Klamath earth.

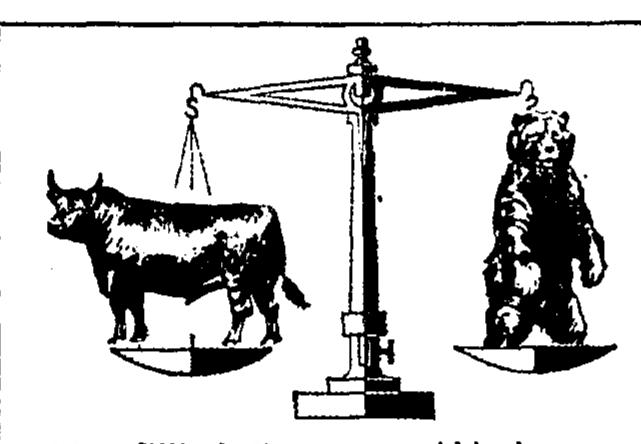

To be sure, Chiloquin could use the money. But there is a principle involved that he considers almost holy. By not selling out, the chief remains. the last citizen of a dead nation, the last Klamath Indian having treaty rights with the government. Ergo, the federal may have his land, but they do not have his soul.

PERHAPS EVEN the bureaucracy can recognize the poignancy here. Though it will not give back Chief Chiloquin's land, it does allow him to use the land for his own purpose. Chiloquin is now constructing an authentic Indian village on a parcel of the Sprague River, where visitors may see something of how it was in days gone by.

And how was it? Edison Chiloquin says it was raw and wild and fresh and sweet. Fish were in the water and corn was in the ground. The federal government was 3,000 miles east, and The Bureau of Indian Affairs was not in existence, and the only trees that fell were from the wind.

"Now do you see," asks the last of the Klamaths, "why I won't sell out?"

Ombudsman loss may plague Carter

The Carter administration has abandoned the ombudsman function in the White House in a move that is causing some congressional Democrats as much concern as the Bert Lance affair.

A Senate government affairs subcommittee with oversight over the White House organization has confirmed that Joseph Aragon, special assistant to the Presdient, is no longer carrying out the ombudsman functions to which he was assigned by President Carter last January.

Aragon now is an aide to Hamilton Jordan, assistant to the President, whose sphere of responsibility involves domestic affairs and politics.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that Aragon would serve as White House ombudsman was accompanied by explanations that this was an effort to bring the presidency closer to the people by providing a centralized ombudsman to receive complaints from the public, the Congress, and the press and to establish responsibility for following up on these complaints.

From the outset, Aragon's ombudsman functions were encroached upon and cut back by assignments from President Carter and Jordan. First, it was the many facets of the energy crisis. Before that was concluded, there were a host of other policy and political chores.

Aragon patiently tried to perform the nonpolitical ombudsman function as the watchdog for the President over the whole White House. But he was involved more and more in policy and political studies and making recommendations. This was totally inconsistent with the role of an objective, arms-distance ombudsman who must maintain a position in which he is not policing his own political judgements or policy recommendations.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, the subcommittee chairman, and his staff note that abandonment of the White

Most of us would agree that the drug industry is one industry in which quick decisions are not a good idea. It's far better to run some extra tests than put a new drug on the market that may turn out to be ineffective or

Unfortunately, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has taken this practice to extremes. New drugs that might have eased pain or cured illnesses have been held off the market for years while the FDA creaked through its laborious licensing proce-

What is needed is a more flexible licensing system that combines protection with timeliness — and apparently the FDA has found a way to make such a system work.

NEW DRUGS WITH "unusual potential" now are being cleared for use by the FDA without the usual seven years of testing and regulatory red tape. For example, a drug called Dapakene is being pushed toward production by a Chicago drug company, with the blessing of the FDA, because from experience abroad it appears to be the most effective treatment for 300,000 Americans who suffer from While President Carter's personal myoclonic epilepsy. Depakene has been used in Europe for about 10

The virtues of Depakene were demonstrated last month when a Columbus, Ohio optometrist took his epileptic daughter to England, where she tried the drug and soon thereafter stopped having seizures and fits.

In another recent case, Morris B. Abram, a former president of Brandeis University, seems to have licked leukemia with the help of a drug, not available here, imported from Israel with special government approval.

THIS IS NOT TO say that FDA should become a rubber stamp for the drug industry or a purveyor of quack nostrums to the public. This country, after all, was spared the tragedy of thousands of deformed babies in the early 1960s because an FDA doctor named Franced Kelsey became suspicious of a tranquilizer called thalidomide and urged that it be kept off the market.

What we need to recognize, though,, is that there are times when a drug is so promising — and its benefits so obvious — that more damage would be done by withholding it than by making it available for general use. At long last, the FDA now seems to know Kidnaping, transcontinental flights of escape and life in seclusion already have marred the bizarre child custody battle between the divorced parents of 7-year-old Wojciech Bejnarowicz.

On Friday, the fight took on a new twist — mystery.

Young Wojciech and his father, Park Ridge dentist Dr. Zygmunt Bejnarowicz, failed to appear in Cook County Circuit Court despite an order issued earlier in the week by Judge John J. Crown. And no one apparently knows where the pair is.

Even if the pair is found, however, attorneys said Friday there may be little they can do to require Benjnarowicz to return and surrender the boy if they are outside Illinois.

CROWN FRIDAY entered an order finding Beinarowicz in contempt of court for failing to appear and directed the Cook County sheriff's police to conduct a search for the two. The order came after a confusing, hour-long hearing in which Bejnarowicz's lawyer, his mother and a friend said they do not know the whereabouts of the oral surgeon and his

Under questioning from Mrs. Bejnarowicz's attorney, Melvin Sloan, Bejnarowicz's mother said the family has relatives in Toronto Canada. But Sloan later admitted that because the custody battle is a civil, not criminal action, authorities have no legal power to extradite Bejnarowicz should he be found in Canada.

"We have no idea (where they are)." Sloan said. "It is only a guess where they may be. We're going to take every possible civil discovery we can and press this matter until we find (them)," he said.

Bejnarowicz's ex-wife, Margaret, who had been awarded custody of the boy Monday by Crown, stood hushed beside her attorney following the hearing in which she had testified of waiting three fruitless hours Monday at her ex-husband's home for her allowed visitation with the boy.

FROM THE HEARING, she surrendered herself to begin serving a 30day jail sentence imposed by Crown for defying a court order and fleeing with the boy to England in 1971.

That episode resulted in five years of hiding for young Wojciech before his father, after spending $40,000 in a search for the boy, discovered his whereabouts and literally grabbed the boy from his mother on a London street in November.

Dream kitchen can be acquired

When was the last time an exciting new concept in kitchens swept you off your feet? And how often had you, to your chagrin, discovered that the "dream kitchen" pictured in a national household magazine was a one-of-a-kind, not-for-sale fantasy designed to showcase a home appliance manufacturer's wares?

Despair no more. With a little research, one can track down the components that, when assembled, duplicate every facet of the model kitchen. For example, consider the designs put together for Hotpoint and pictured

The modern kitchen offers freeflowing lines of integrated counter space, appliances and cabinets, creating a graceful harmony. Black Plexiglass contrasts artistically with almond-color appliances — an element lacking in most conventional kitchens.

ALSO NOTE the use of large, bulb lighting to illuminate the oven, storage area and refrigerator.

The Scandinavian kitchen incorporates tasteful simplicity in the use of natural wood shelves instead of the usual kitchen cabinets; butcherblock counter tops; parquet floors; and modern Scandinavian kitchen table and chairs.

Tall, angled windows and ceilings give the room flair, while taking advantage of a view for a northerly-facing window. The appliances mix colors, and the Rya rug picks up the almonds, whites and blacks of the appliances to coordinate them.

A LIST OF component manufacturers follows. But don't be afraid of being creative, using the dream kitchens pictured as a basis for a free flow of ideas.

Consider suspending plexiglass panels from the ceiling at various heights, for example with encased pressed ferns to create a blaze of all colors. Some ferns provide a natural veining so beautiful they look like an etching in which a master artist fashioned intricate line designs on each tiny frond.

Think of all the other inspirations a dream kitchen can give: super graphics painted on the walls, use of track lighting, mirrored cabinets, butcherblock hanging light fixtures with utensil hooks, cabinets that don't look like cabinets, secret porthole storage areas made of a myriad of materials besides wood.

And there's more in that dream kitchen to nudge creativity for many of us who are sick of the same bland

Mulch is beneficial for new lawns

Because a newly seeded lawn must be kept moist, it is beneficial to spread a mulch over it. This acts to prevent rapid evaporation of moisture from the soil, which in turn reduces the amount of sprinkling required, thus saving water.

Sphagnum peat is a good mulch for a new seeding provided you never let mulch drys out it becomes hard and almost impermeable to water. One other drawback is its cost. By comparison with other mulches you can use on your lawn it is expensive. Peat used as a mulch is usually spread to a depth of not more than one-quarter inch.

Under certain circumstances grass clippings make a good mulch — and

Creed

PERHAPS THE MOST satisfactory way to mulch your new seeding is to use straw. Straw is inexpensive and easy to handle. When you buy straw for this purpose make sure that it is clean, dry and free from fungi. Old straw that has been improperly stored is often dark in color and shows signs of mold (fungi). Spread straw to a depth of 2 inches loose measurement. If you use straw on a slope or in a location where it may be blown away you should provide a means of holding it in place. One way of doing this is to form a network of twine held in place with short stakes driven into the ground.

Burlap is a good mulch on short slopes where there is a possibility that seed might be washed away should other types of mulch be used. To keep burlap in place you will have to stake it — using short wooden pegs or spikes. What causes the bark on trees to

The three bedrooms open onto a private rear hall in which the well-appointed bath is located. The bath has been designed along Hollywood lines with a curved counter top, vanity, double-mirrored walls, Spanish grille window, separate water closet compartment and a molded plastic tub.

Each bedroom has more than sufficient closet space (one is a walk-in) and two of the three rooms have a unique side-by-side arrangement of window seats contained in a single exterior bay.

Exterior materials are stucco on wood frame, boulder stone, wroughtiron and Spanish tile roofing.

Watermelon man's return awaited

I waited for him, but he never came

We had a brief encounter - I bought a watermelon. I thought surely I would see him again before the end of summer. Than I could talk in depth with one of the last of a dying breed - the tailgate farmer.

Here is a man who sets up shop in a strategic parking space where he sells his stuff right off the tailgate of his truck.

Fred Rowlee is a tailgate farmer who travels 350 miles a day round trip to sell his produce off the back of his truck in my town. (And you thought you had a long drive to work!) Perhaps it was too long a haul, or business got better closer to home, but he hasn't been around lately.

FARMER FRED has been raising watermelons up north since 1935 -Georgie-type watermelons — those big round ones with the dark green stripes. Fred said people are buying fewer and fewer whole watermelons in supermarkets these days because they don't know how to choose a ripe watermelon and don't want to get stuck with 40 pounds of overripe mush.

So they buy halves or quarters, covered with cellophane. But it isn't the

The watermelon man said he doesn't put much stock in the old "thump" method of testing watermelons to see if they're ripe. With this technique folks rap their knuckles on a watermelon and if it results in a dull thump sound similar to that of tapping the heel of a shoe, it's ripe.

Hogwash, according to the longtime northern watermelon grower. Rowlee said if you're trying to determine the better choice of two melons of equal size, lift them. The ripe one will be heeavier. An overripe, mushy melon will be lighter in weight because it is drying up on the inside. He said a ripe watermelon feels bumpy when you run your hand over the exterior. If a watermelon feels smooth, it's not yet ripe.

IN THE FIELD, the watermelon man said that he looks down the row of melons, and if he sees a yellow streak of color along the rows, he knows it's time to get the truck started. The color streak is actually the top leaves of the watermelon vine dying off — a signal to pick. He said that another field sign is this: A thin

I was anxious to pursue other facets of watermeloning. What brings out the flavor better - putting sugar, salt or catsup on the slices — or leaving it alone, au natural. But I never got another chance.

Maybe I scared him away by badgering him with fruitless fruit-growing questions, while he was busy trying to sell his truckload of produce.

If he'd only return, I just want to ask him one more little question why doesn't he let me rip the husk off the sweet corn, so I can tell if it's wormy, horsey or ripe? If there is a better way to check corn than puncturing the kernels with a fingernail, I wish he'd tell me!

And what about those cantaloupes? Shake, rattle or roll 'em? Rub the stem end to see if it's smooth? This man has a lot of information he may be withholding from the press! The public has a right to know! Has anyone seen this truck moving quickly away from my direction?

The doctor says

Low blood pressure better for health

What should my blood pressure be? I am 51 years old. I have been taking Hygroton for a long time now. Are there any side effects? The doctor I go to seems to think I'll have to take it the rest of my life.

There is a common misconception that your blood pressure should be 100 plus your age. The truth is that if your blood pressure stays on the low side you will have a better chance for a long and healthy life. That means your blood pressure should be below 140 over 90 for the two readings, for optimal health.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-8, Blood Pressure, to give you more information on what controls your blood pressure and what it means. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Hygroton is a diuretic that helps to flush out sodium from your body and with the sodium some water. This action helps to lower the blood pressure some in many individuals with moderately elevated blood pressure.

The Health Letter I am sending you explains that if you have any excess pounds of fat, elimination of it will often lower your blood pressure. Avoiding coffee, tea and such stimulants plus avoiding obesity and getting regular exercise often go a long way toward controlling mildly elevated blood pressure. If that doesn't do the job one of the mild diuretics often helps. When taken in moderate amounts and the person gets enough potassium, as from drinking a couple of glasses of orange juice a day, these medicines have few if any side effects.

During a recent medical examination everything checked out okay except for my "BUN" which was too high. The doctor said it was only three points above the normal level and didn't seem too concerned about it. He said it has something to do with the kidney function, but I didn't understand. He is a very busy man and I didn't push him further, but I am still curious. Maybe you can explain it to me.

BUN merely stands for blood urea nitrogen. Urea is a compound the body forms of two ammonia radicals. The ammonia radicals come from stripping them off the amino acids. The amino acids make up the protein you eat. Simply stated, if you eat a lot of protein you will have an increased amount of urea to eliminate through the kidneys. This is particularly true if your body doesn't need a lot of extra protein as is usually the case in most normal adults. Most healthy adults eat far more protein than the body really requires.

The common blood test measures the nitrogen in urea. When your kidneys are functioning well, they will usually filter out any excess amout of urea that accumulates in the blood. However, if you happen not to have been drinking enough water, or have lost body water through sweating, or any number of factors the blood urea may be a high normal and it may have no important significance at all. Just improve your daily water drinking habit and forget about it.

Because of the volume of mail Dr. Lamb cannot answer your letters personally, but he will answer representative letters of general interest in his column.

Learn car care or make monthly station visit

In this day of gas-and-go stations, "penny-wise and pound foolish" perhaps applies to great numbers of us. Without certain precautions, saving pennies at these or at self-service facilities could result in havoc to car engines and costly repairs later. Those who regularly fill their tanks themselves had better learn how to read an oil dip stick, know how to tell if there's enough water in radiator and battery, and be able to recognize proper levels of fluids in automatic transmission and master brake containers. Or, people should add at least one monthly visit to a full-service station so a trusted attendant can check levels of various fluids - and tire pressure — for the car's good health and, ultimately, the family's safety.

Dear Roberta: What do you sugggest for getting rust stains out of a permanent press shirt?—Mrs. James Wiader

Try a commercial rust remover. The one I use is a tube of iron rust "soap," containing oxalic acid. Or you can buy oxalic acid crystals and dilute them in a glass or enamel container — one tablespoon per cup of water. Follow directions, as these are potent and poisonous. If these popular methods don't work, please write again, as the list of remedies for such stains is too long to print.

Dear Roberta: The spray recommended for killing Japanese beetles doesn't work for us. I read somewhere that a bucket of kerosene will do them in, but I'm not keen on having kerosene around. Is there any other option?—Meryl Heck

That pesticide doesn't work for me either. For a while I despaired: Our garden seemed to be the convention center for all the Japanese beetles in the area. Don't bother with the kerosene, at least until you've tried a method proved effective by an experienced staffer of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service. This is to go out early in the morning, before 7 a.m., while the beasties are still sluggish, and brush them into a pail half-filled with water. They should drown in the pail. If not, only then resort to adding a coating of kerosene to the water.

(Mrs. Mathews welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Roberta Mathews in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Seating moves to center

HERE'S A NICE way to keep guests and conversation in hand — tighten up the seating. Group shown features Selig's corner and armless teammates with a pair of ottomans thrown in for supporting roles.

Want to get it together? Try arranging all of the important seating pieces right smack in the center of a space. It's worth a try, and the exercise will be good for you.

For years we've been addicted to what we call "perimeter" decorating. Until recently, all furniture — whether it was high, low, clunky, seethrough or refined — wound up against a wall somewhere. Our favorite complaint was "There are too many windows and doors in this room." We all wanted more "wall" space.

Well, we needn't be concerned about door and window placement if we start utilizing the central floor space for our major furniture groupings. And that can include storage systems, too, if we're daring enough to try.

The room shown today tackles only the seating components and their accoutrements. But it's a giant step away from traditional furniture arrangement.

FIRST STEP in furnishing this room was the installation of a low-pile plush carpeting that has a suede texture — not too bouncy or too likely to catch heels and furniture legs.

Second decision was where to position the seven-unit sofa components by Selig. The U-shape was a natural decision, although the same modular pieces might have been left open on two sides, rather than allowing only the one access, as shown. Sofa-back tables come into play here, and a pair was nestled behind each side of the arrangement.

Ottomans can be pulled close or pushed away, to form another seating area against the back wall.

There was only one large window with a view in this apartment living room. So, to create a bit of space illusion, narrow panels of mirror were applied in a repetitive series on two of the walls. Now, no matter where one sits, there's the feeling of horizon, with reflections "baffling" the real limits of the room.

PROBABLY THE MOST interesting aspect of this kind of center stagery is the traffic pattern it encourages. Instead of walking right through the conversation area of the room, family members slip by without interrupting conversing guests. And there's an intimate quality about this concentration of seating. No shouting across the room to include a lone, isolated vis-

Comfort is naturally a factor, and double-duty is possible with this Selig grouping. The seats are deep enough for sleep service, once the big back cushions are removed.

Knights Templars shed armor, keep chivalry ideals

by ARLETTE BAUDET

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) -They no longer wear shining armor as in the Middle Ages, but the Knights Templars still exist, preserving the same lofty ideals of chivalry as when their order was founded 859 years

Alfred Zappelii, their Grand Prior, lives in Geneva. He wears a dark grey suit, is softspoken and modest.

"I am discreet," he said. "I would prefer to remain anonymous as I don't want any publicity for myself." As Grand Prior, he holds one of the al.

three highest positions in the order of the Knights Templars. The others are the Grand Master and the Regent. A Swiss, Zappelli, in his sixties, joined the order 10 years ago. He is a financial consultant and manages a bank which is strictly reserved for members of the order. He also is president of the Geneva-based International Federation of Knightly Or-

NOTHING ABOUT his downtown Geneva office resembles a priory except for two white flags with embroidered red Templar crosses and a few decorations on the walls.

But he is, all the same, deeply attached to the medieval knightly tradition and agrees with the Templars' official historian, Nicolas Haimovici, that the order is experiencing a reviv-

"With wars and economic instability, people nowadays are completely disillusioned," Haimovici said. "They are looking for something to hold on to, like moral guidelines."

Haimovici, a 49-year-old French doctor, became a knight in 1971. He runs the Templar Center for Philosophical and Estoreric Studies.

For him, the order is not a remnant of the past but a way of ilfe. He says that unlike many current spiritual movements, "we have the advantage of a long and solid tradition behind

CREATED IN France in 1118 during the crusades, the order's aims were both military and religious.

It began with a band of nine knights sent to Jerusalem to protect pilgrims and the holy sites from thieves. Ten years later, they received papal support at the Council of Troyes and rapidly became one of the most powerful organizations in Europe, with as many as 9,000 branches known as "commanderies." They brought treasures back with them and established the first European banks by the end of the 12th century.

The order's financial contral over Europe aroused the jealousy of King Philip IV of France, known as Philip le Bel ("The Handsome"), who persecuted them, confiscated their riches and banned the order.

The Grand Master, Jacques de Molay, was burned at the stake in 1314 along with many other knights.

The order has survived, however, in secret up to the present day.

ZAPPELLI SAID, "There is nothing occult or satanic in the order and it hat nothing to do with freemasonry." "We are proud of being Knights

Templars but don't believe in propaganda," he said. Men over 25 may become knights but Haimovici said "our rules are very strict and require a certain maturity." The candidate must hold a social position "worthy of a knight" and must not have a criminal record.

Some 50 applicants will become knights at the next annual international meeting of the order to be held in the Swiss medieval town of Fribourg this month.

THE CEREMONY will take place in a cathedral and the rites will be exactly the same as 800 years ago, Zappelli said. Knights will wear long white robes with, on the left shoulder, an embroidered red cross.

A knight can be expelled from the order if "he causes public scandal, betrays his country, threatens social order, does not abide by the laws of his church and refuses to pay his annual dues of Swiss francs ($83)."

The order is no longer restricted to Roman Catholics. All that is necessary now is to believe in one God.

Most knights come from the uppermiddle and upper classes. They are bankers, business executives, professors, doctors and artists. The order is anticommunist in outlook. The movement has spread from western Europe as far afield as Africa, Latin America, Canada and the United States, where there are 70 commanderies with between 50 and 200 knights in each.

TWO OF THEM were founded in the U.S. last year, one in New York and another in New Jersey. Haimovici often flies to New York to give lectures on the history and philosophy of the Knights Templars.

"We believe the order will flourish in America because people over there are always looking for new ideas, even medieval ones," he said.

Sox left in pieces as Orioles win 6-5

by BOB GALLAS

All the king's horses and all the king's men couldn't help the White Sox put one past Baltimore Friday night as the Orioles triumphed 6-5 at Comiskey Park.

Manager Bob Lemon used 20 players but in the end it was a Baltimore rookie, playing in his first major league game, that sent the Sox reeling to four games behind Kansas City in the A.L. Western Division.

Down 6-4 in the bottom of the ninth, a walk and a hit puts the first two men up on base. Chet Lemon, sacrificed them to scoring position. Bring on pinch-hitter Oscar Bamble, who bloops a one-out single to short right, and you have a tie game, right?

WRONG.

Ralph Garr scores from third as Gamble's hit falls out of reach of second baseman Rich Dauer. Sox pinch runner John Flannery, also making his first major league appearance, is waved home by third base coach Bobby Knoop.

But right fielder Mike Dimmel, who entered the game only the inning before, comes up with the ball, and throws a one-bounce strike home to easily nail Flannery. Lamar Johnson strikes out to end the game and leaves Knoop to explain.

"The field is wet, the ball is wet and on a soft hit like that I figured he (Flannery) could make," said Knoop quietly. The play almost ended the game as Gamble, going for second on the throw, was safe by a hair, though the Orioles argued bitterly he was

"IT WAS A big game for both clubs," said slugger Richie Zisk, who drove in the first four Sox runs with a homer, single and sacrifice fly before retiring with a pulled abdominalmuscle suffered while making a running catch in the eighth. Zisk just missed a fifth RBI when his blast into the jetstream in the seventh was blown back onto the field for a sacrifice fly instead of a two-run homer.

Zisk was right. It was a big game for the Orioles, who moved into second place past Boston and kept pace with the Yankees by winning their fourth straight. But the loss meant the Sox dropped 11/2 games to the Royals, who beat Milwaukee twice Friday.

The Sox are now in second just percentage points ahead of Texas but trail K.C. by four games. Coupled with the fact that the South Side Hitmen have lost 20 of their last 31 games, things were a little quiet in the clubhouse.

"One mistake. I hang a slider, (Lee) May hits a two-run homer and we lose," said Lerrin LaGrow, who took the loss in relief of Steve Renko when he grooved one to May, who broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth.

RENKO DIDN'T feel much better. He didn't give up a hit until the fifth when Ken Singleton doubled off Chet Lemon's fingertips in short center. Two ground outs later, Singleton advanced on a ground out, then scored on another but Bannister booted the potential third out, then threw wildly into the dugout to put Kiko Garcia on second. Dave Skaggs singled in Garcia to tie the score.

The Sox had taken an early lead on Zisk's 27th home run, which came with Chet Lemon on base in the first.

Zisk's single gave the Sox a 3-2 lead in the fifth, but Baltimore went ahead 4-3 in the sixth when they routed Renko, who almost escaped the inning.

Renko yielded two singles to open the frame, but Lamar Johnson snared a sharp grounder, tagged first then cut down the runner at second for a double play. Two singles later, Renko had to ponder his misfortune from the

"THEY HIT a couple off the end of the bat, then a couple of good ones and that's all it takes," Renko said. "It's a game of inches. Longer fingers on the outfielders' gloves or a little more break on some of my pitches tonight, and I'm OK."

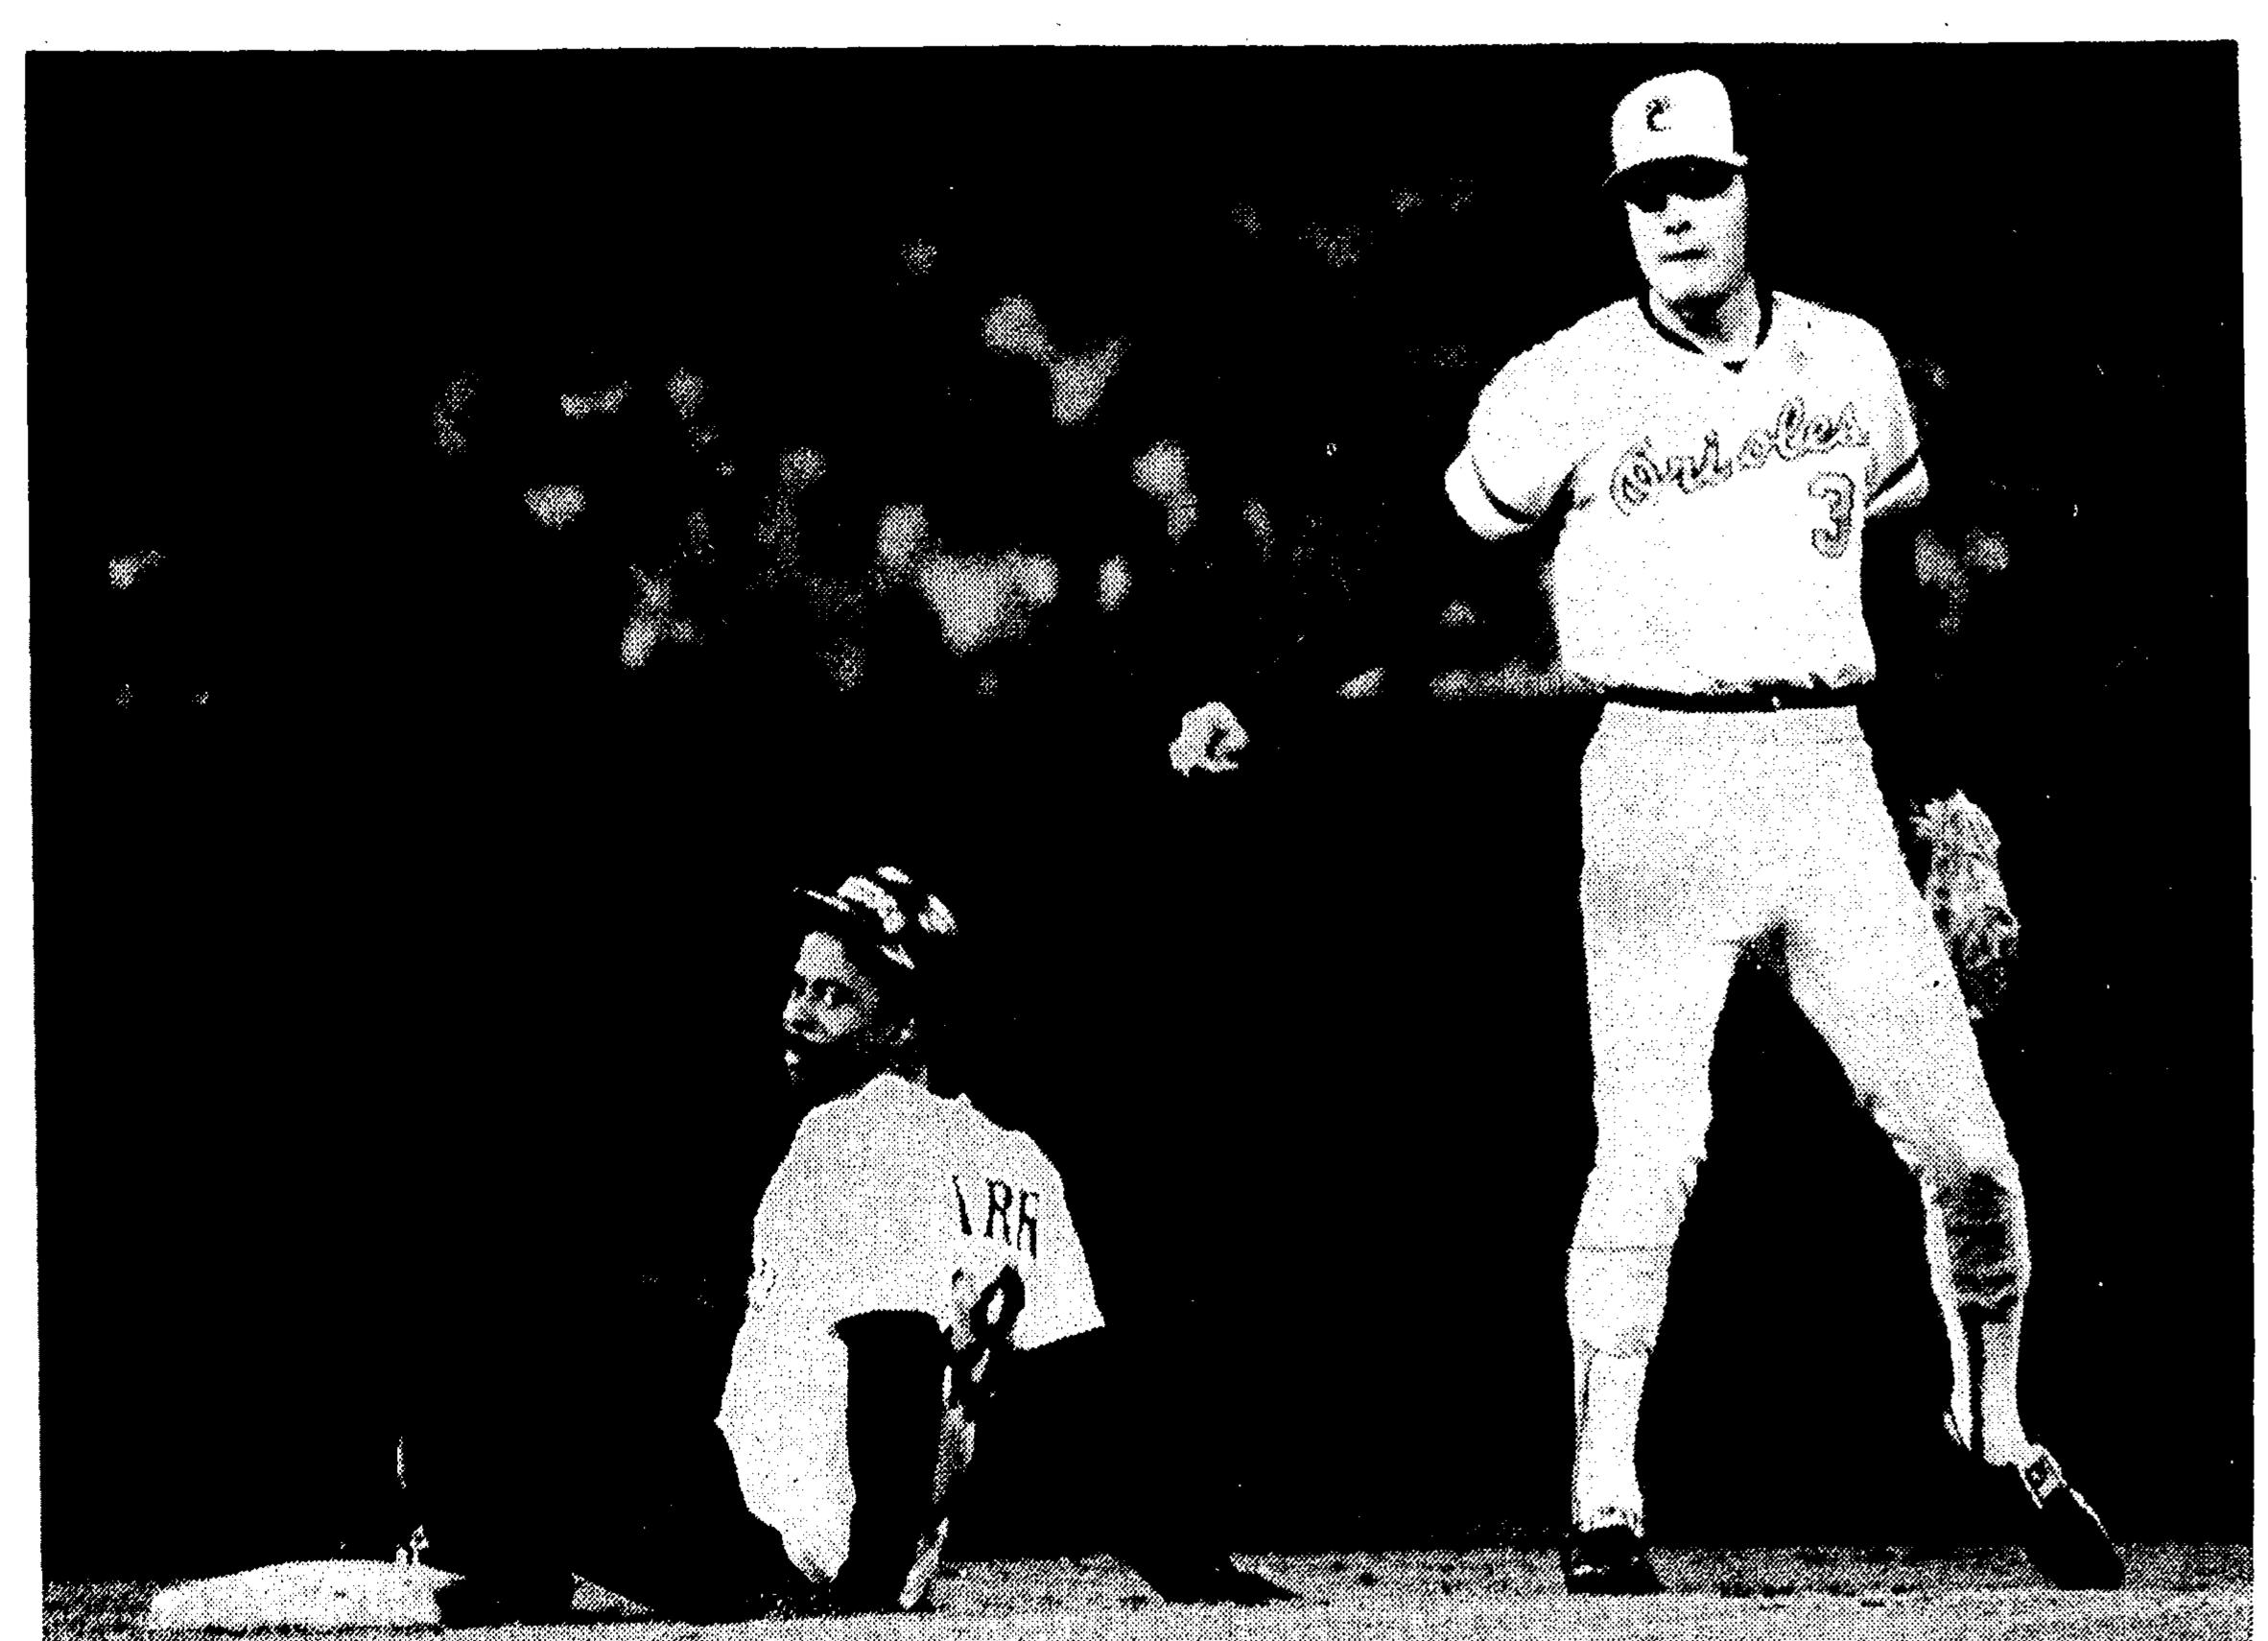

Zisk's sacrifice fly tied it at 4-4 in the seventh, but Richie couldn't help thinking about what might have been, had it not been for a stiff wind blow-

"With a little wind behind it, even with no wird at all, that one was out," said Zisk, who reinjured an abdominal pull suffered in Cleveland earlier this week. "I'll ice it down all night and maybe I can DH tomorrow."

Can't take the Hart out of St. Louis

Bears don't count against Cardinals

ST. LOUIS — the Bears' now-familiar -second-half rally never materialized here in St. Louis Friday. enabling the Cardinals to win their first exhibition game of the season, 23-14.

Having scored most of their points in the final two quarters so far this season, the Bears (3-3) did score once early in the third quarter to pull to within two points at 16-14, but that was as far as the surge went.

A 95-yard touchdown pass from Jim Hart to Ike Harris moments later smashed the Bears' chances to get back into striking distance.

A devastating ball-control offense by the Cardinals was the key to their victory. From their opening scoring drive of 53 yards in 15 plays to several lengthy fourth-quarter drives, the Cards moved through the Bears' defense with ease.

The Cards struck swiftly on the Bears early with a 53 yard drive in 15 plays for a touchdown after the opening kickoff. Jim Otis plunged over from the one-yard line for the score. Jim Bakken booted the extra point.

Following that drive, which used over half the first quarter, the Cards came back in the next quarter with another scoring drive of 83 yards in 16 plays. Terry Metcalf scored from two after. yards out, and the conversion failed. Bob Avellini, who played the first three periods at quarterback, finally got the Bears' offense in gear following the Cards' second touchdown.

USING SOME timely passes and the running of Walter Payton and Roland Haprer, the Bears scored near the end of the half on a two-yard burst by

Payton. Bob Thomas added the point

Hart engineered a quick drive in the final minute of the half to set up a 31yard field goal by Bakken, giving St. Louis a 16-7 lead.

Avellini, who was seven-for-nine for 120 yards passing, hit Johnny Musso with a 39-yard touchdown pass on the opening possession of the third quarter to pull the Bears closer. Thomas again added the conversion.

The Cardinals were forced into a third-and-12 situation deep in their own territory later in the third quarter, but Hart rolled into the end zone and found Harris open up the middle for the decisive 95-yard touchdown

HART PLAYED the entire game, finishing with nine completions in 13 attempts for 184 yards.

The game was played conservatively with running plays making up most of the offensive attacks. It was speculated neither team wanted to show the other too much Friday, since the teams meet again in three weeks in a regular season game. The Bears conclude their preseason schedule by hosting the Cincinnati Bengals at Soldier Field Saturday.

Jones, Fingers team in 5-0 victory

Backsliding Cubs fall to Padres

Wheeling ready to try spot at top

SAN DIEGO — The Cubs may not have fielded the ball very surely Friday night, but they didn't hit it either and the result was a crushing 5-0 defeat at the hands of the San Diego

Former Cy Young Award winner Randy Jones combined with Fireman of the Year Rollie Fingers to blank the Cubs on six singles. It was the Padres' 60th win of the season, Jones' sixth victory (he's lost 11), and Fingers' 31st save.

FOR THE CUBS, now 11 games behind division-leading Philadelphia, the loss was just another in the team's rapid slide out of contention in the East. The Cubs are now only 10 games above the .500 mark.

Padre shortstop Bill Almon shared the hitting heroics with teammate Dave Winfield as San Diego handed Cub righty Mike Krukow his 12th loss in 20 decisions. Almon singled and scored on Winfield's fourth-inning base hit and homered for the second time this season in the sixth.

Winfield added a solo homer in the eighth off reliever Dave Giusti when the Padres scored three times to pad the lead.

Krukow had coasted through the first three innings without yielding a hit, but Almon bounced a high hopper to the left side of the infield leading off the fourth that somehow eluded both Steve Ontiveros and Ivan De-Jesus. Almon stole second and took third as Mike Ivie grounded out. Then George Hendrick reached first on an infield single when Bill Buckner took his grounder but had no play as Almon held third. Krukow had fallen running toward first when Buckner made a move to throw to the plate.

WINFIELD PROMPTLY dumped an RBI single into short center field, but Krukow retired the next two batters to get out of the inning trailing just 1-0.

The Cubs, whose string of scoreless innings reached 19, came close to scoring against Jones in the second. Jerry Morales opened the inning by rifling a shot off third baseman Tucker Ashford's glove for an error. Bobby Murcer followed with a single and, when Ontiveros grounded a hit to left, third base coach Peanuts Lowrey waved Morales home. But left fielder Gene Richards' throw to the plate was in time to nail the Cub runner as Dave Roberts applied the tag.

Almon, a lanky righthanded hitter, hit his home run to left field leading off the sixth.

Jones had come off the disabled list July 30 and his seven-inning stint was his longest since that time. He allowed just five hits. The lefthander had undergone arm surgery following the 1976 season, when he was 22-14.

Fingers, the top reliever in the majors this year, pitched the final two innings to get the save. He contributed a two-run single in the eighth, his first major-league base hit since 1974 when he was with Oakland.

Splittorff's near no-hitter powers Royals to 3-0 win

KANSAS CITY (UPI) - Paul Splittorff pitched 7 and two-thirds innings of no-hit ball then settled for a one-hitter Friday night to power the Kansas City Royals to sweep of their double-header against the Milwaukee Brewers.

Hal McRae ripped a pair of runscoring doubles and Al Cowens added an RBI single to lift the Royals to a 3-1 first-game victory behind the combined four-hit pitching of Andy Hassler and Doug Bird.

Splittorff, a product of Arlington High School, was bidding for the third no-hitter in the major leagues this season before pinchhitter Charlie Moore lined a single to left with two out in the eighth. The left-hander struck out nine and walked three as he improved his record to 12-6.

Consecutive singles by Frank White, Joe Zdeb and McRae gave Splittorff the only run he needed in the third inning off Bill Travers, 4-8. The Royals added two more runs in the fourth on a single by Amos Otis, a triple by John Wathan and a sacrifice fly by John Mayberry.

PAUL SPLITTORFF

by KEITH REINHARD Probably the only salvation in finishing last with a 0-9 record is that you have limited the number of directions you can travel the next time around. Wheeling High School coach Jerry Clinnin is only too familiar with this unenviable situation: "Yeah, only the guy who tried to pacify us with that kind of talk two years ago forgot to the entire season. mention that up isn't the only way you can go. There's always sideways." Going into his third year now at the helm of the Wheeling Wildcats Clinnin has gone the downward route and the sideways route and he's pretty anxious to try on the upward route.

AND AS LONG as his club can stay away from injuries, the enthusiastic coach feels the time for elevation has arrived.

"We're small in numbers but we have the right people," Clinnin said. "Overall, we have better talent now and this group has the best attitude of any in the three years I've been at Wheeling."

Injuries, then, are the key.

"We've already lost a couple of kids that way. Both were starters too. We certainly can't afford anymore."

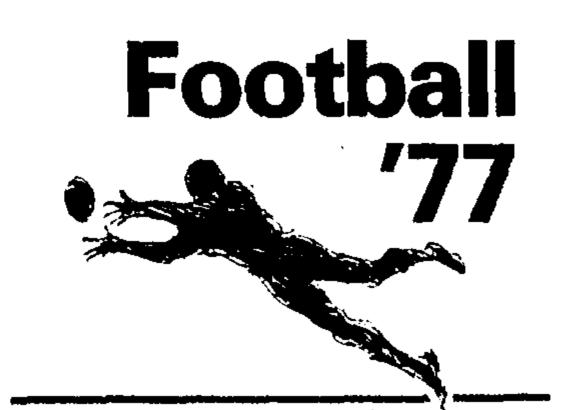

Clinnin welcomed 39 players to camp this fall, including a dozen experienced lettermen. Now guard-linebacker Rick Boone and junior split end-safety Jim Sabal have hand injuries that could keep them sidelined STILL, CLINNIN is excited. Among his healthy returnees are Dave Anderson, a 5-10, 191-pound conference allstar who will be seeing duty as both a tackle and defensive end.

Others likely to see two-way duty all vets — are backs Jeff Starke, Tim Miller and quarterback Steve Majkowski and center-tackle, Ray Waymel (6-2, 192).

The three backs create a special excitement since they hold promise of generating a solid 'Cat offense. Last year this was not particularly Wheeling's forte with only 57 points scored all season.

Majkowski is definitely the key. The 5-11, 170-pound senior was eighth in the conference in rushing.

the league last year in passing yardage and Clinnin sees that mark only improving.

"STEVE'S A SOLID kid with a good, strong arm and I really feel we have the material to utilize his talents this year," he said.

Wingback Miller (5-8), 152 and fullback Starke (6-0, 200) will be joined in the offensive backfield by Bob Steinberg (5-8, 160) another veteran with plenty of potential. Out of the first half of last season with an injury, Steinberg still managed to carry for nearly 300 yards and ranked 20th in

Other targets Majkowski will have to work with include returnees Scott Shirley, a 5-9, 150 pound split end and possibly Joe Wajerski, a 140-pound, 5-10 receiver who will also be utilized at safety.

Rounding out Wheeling's list of vets are linemen Bob Faith (5-7, 150), Tom Gable (5-9, 171) and Bob Milz (6-0, 180). A move-in who could possibly bolster the Wildcats up front is 6-4, 225-pound senior Len Schlangen.

"The league is going to be just as strong as it was last year and probably just as balanced," 'clinnin said. "If there's going to be any difference in the Mid-Suburban from '76 to '77, I'd like to think it will be the big improvement our team is going to

$75,000 and $100,000 purses spice holiday races

Arlington Park's final holiday weekend of racing will be spiced with the presentation of the $75,000 added Matron Handicap today and the $100,000 added Arlington Handicap Monday.

E. A. Cox. Jr.'s Regal Gal, heroine of the Aug. 6 Sheridan Handicap and Crimson King Farm's T.V. Vixen head the list of nominees for the Matron, a 1 1/8 mile tussle on the turf for fillies and mares. T.V. Vixen has won 18 of 22 lifetime starts, and the 4-yearold daughter of T.V. Lark has earned well in excess of $300,000. Regal Gal also captured the July 3 Martha Washington Handicap at Arlington.

G. A. ZIMMERMAN and E. J. Zwiesler's Go On Dreaming is another possible Matron starter. This 5-yearold Dewan offspring led until the final 40 yards of the Sheridan before yielding to Regal Gal.

Prospect grad faces uncertain future

Kingman strikes out with Padres

by MILTON RICHMAN

UPI Sports Editor NEW YORK - Dave Kingman is about to move on again.

The San Diego Padres are asking irrevocable waivers on the big, soul searching longballer and what that means in simple language is anyone in either league can wrap him up and take him home for a mere $20,000.

Kingman (who went to Prospect High School) has been with the Padres 78 days now and they have been no more successful at signing him than were the Mets, with whom he started the season asking for a multi-year contract in excess of $2.5 million.

By this time, the Padres have concluded they can finish fifth in the National League West with or without Dave Kingman and since he still hasn't signed his contract and will become a free agent in the next four weeks, they figure why not try and pick up $20,000 rather than let him go for nothing.

KINGMAN HASN'T exactly been a ball of fire with the Padres.

He's hitting less than .230. Now and then he delivers the long ball, but 20 home runs and 67 RBI still don't add up to $2.5 million.

Chances are some club will pick him up. Maybe the Reds, Pirates or Dodgers for the stretch run. Or maybe the Cubs. General Manager Bob Kennedy says he thinks Kingman would go well in Wrigley Field.

The Red Sox, struggling to catch the Yankees, are another possibility.

DAVE KINGMAN Traveling man

Especially with that left field wall of theirs.

THERE'S ONLY one hitch. Kingman has to clear National League waivers first before any American League club can claim him.

This raises the intriguing question of whether after all the mental anguish he has gone through, Kingman will wind up the season in the same place he started — with the Mets.

According to waiver procedures, the Braves have first call on Kingman's services because they own the lowest percentage in the league. They don't seem too interested in Kingman. That leaves it up to the club with the next lowest percentage, and that's the

Before they dealt Kingman, the Mets offered him $200,000 a year with a contract for anywhere from two to six years. He said no, they weren't even in the ballpark with that figure.

SO THEY dealt him to the Padres and when he was told of the trade, he was so emotionally overwrought, he cried. Less than a week later, he asked the Mets whether they would be inclined to take him back next year if he was still a free agent. They said they'd consider it.

About a month ago, the Padres made another effort to sign Kingman. He was playing for $75,000 and said he'd accept $200,000, the same figure the Mets had offered. The Padres told him straight up and down he wasn't worth it. They offered him $90,000, take it or leave it. Kingman left it.

Last year, Kingman hit 37 home runs for the Mets in 123 games, missing part of the season because of a broken hand. With visions of 50 or more homers dancing in front of him, he made his pitch for big money last winter, and when he couldn't get it, he said he wanted to be traded.

He got his wish. Now he wouldn't mind coming back but the Mets aren't sure they want him.

WE'RE THINKING it over and haven't made up our minds about it," says board chairman M. Donald Grant. "We're not interested in paying $20,000 just for him to finish out the season. If he wanted to sign up, that would be different."

That could be a general foreshadowing of what the free agent market will be like this winter. A few free agents, like Lyman Bostock of the Twins or Richie Zisk of the White Sox, perhaps, may still be able to get themselves sizeable multiyear contracts. For the most part, though, the clubs seem more inclined to invest their money in the development of their own players.

"Any owner who looks at what's happening in the market today at California, San Diego or even New York for that matter, would conclude that developing his own players is far more preferable than paying prohibitive prices for players without asking what loyalty does the club get back in return," says Pete Bavasi, Toronto's executive vice president and general manager.

"The development of your own players is the time-honored foundation of this industry. If we keep signing all these free agents and forgetting about the development of their successors, there won't be any future for base-

I go along with that completely. The Kingman case offers an excellent illustration and if the owners have any common sense at all, they should take a good, hard look at it. Knowing them as I do, though, I have every confidence in them they won't.

West race has 4 game gap

From Herald Wire Services

Capping a doubleheader win over the Milwaukee Brewers Friday night, the Kansas City Royals widened their American League West Division lead to four games over both the White Sox and the Texas Rangers.

with a sacrifice fly off reliever Tom Burgmeier in the ninth.

IN TORONTO Bill Stein had three singles and dreve in two runs, including one with an eighth-inning sacrifice fly that broke a 3-3 tie and gave the Seattle Mariners a 4-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

With the score tied 3-3, Danny Meyer led off the eighth with a single. With one out, shortstop Dave McKay booted a grounder, allowing Meyer to reach third. Stein then stroked his sacrifice fly to score Meyer.

IN DETROIT Rusty Staub drove in three runs with a double and a single to lead the surging Detroit Tigers to a 6-4 victory over the Oakland A's.

The victory was the fifth in the last six starts for the Tigers, who moved within four victories of the .500 mark. Oakland suffered only its third loss in nine outings.

After the A's took a 2-0 lead in the second on a double by Jim Tyrone two out in the eighth to chase Goltz. and singles by Manny Sanguillen and bucky Dent drove in the fourth run Tim Hosley and an error, Detroit rebounded with three runs in the third. Ron LeFlore drove in one with a single and Staub doubled in two others. Aurelio Rodriguez hit his 10th homer in the fourth to give the Tigers a 4-2 lead.

IN CLEVELAND Andre Thornton hit his 27th homer and relievers Pat Dobson and Jim Kern stopped a seventh-inning threat as the Cleveland Indians scored a 3-1 victory over the California Angels.

Paul Dade opened the first inning with a double and two outs later Thornton drilled a shot into the left field stands off starter Paul Hartzell, 9-6. Rick Manning added a run-scoring single in the eighth for Cleveland.

IN ARLINGTON, TEX., Jim Sundberg drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a bunt single to lead the Texas rangers to a 6-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Mike Hargrove and Bump Wills singled to open the fifth. Claudell Washington's attempt at a sacrifice bunt was fielded by Ferguson Jenkins, 10-9, who threw it into left field, allowing Hargrove to score. Sundberg then scored Wills with a sacrifice fly.

IN THE NATIONAL League, Bake McBride, a last-minute starter, drove in three runs with a home run and a pair of doubles to spark the Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Lonborg.

Ted Sizemore walked to open the third inning, moved up on a sacrifice bunt by Lonborg and scored on McBride's double. The Phillies used the exact same sequence of plays to score their third run in the seventh inning. McBride connected for his 13th home run of the season for the second Philadelphia run in the fifth inning and Lonborg held on to pick up his 10th victory in 13 decisions. Mario Soto, 2-4, went six innings and took the loss. The victory was the 15th straight at home for the Phillies, breaking a club record set in 1890. IN MONTREAL Jose Cruz hit a two-run homer and J.R. Richard fired an eight-hitter to lead the Houston Astros to a 5-2 victory over the Montreal Leading 2-1 in the sixth, Houston added two runs when Enos Cabell was safe on Chris Speier's throwing error and then stole second base. The steal gave Houston 150 for the season, tying the club record set last year. Cruz then sent his 13th home run of the season over the right field fence off loser Stan Bahnsen, 7-7. IN NEW YORK - Rowland Office, Pat Rockett and winning hurler Buzz Capra each drove in a fifth-inning run to give the Atlanta Braves a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets and a split of their doubleheader.

The Mets took the opener 4-0 on Pat Zachry's five-hitter and Steve Henderson's three RBI.

Health insurance needed for premium Conant year

by BOB GALLAS

"We have to stay healthy." That's the key to the hopes of success held by the Cougars of Conant High School, according to head coach John Ayres, as he enters his third year at the helm of the school's football program. After suffering through an 0-9 opening campaign, Ayres guided his school back to football respectability with a 4-5 mark last season. He hopes this year are based on the fact that he'll finish the season with the same players he started with.

"We don't have a lot of numbers," explained Ayres, who faced one of the lowest area turnouts this season. Only 40 hopefuls turned out for the Cougar varsity. But there is a wealth of experience among that 40, enough to win some games if no one gets hurt.

THE COUGARS' record last year is deceptive for two of those losses were by one point. The other defeats were by six, seven and eight points.

In other words, the Cougars were never out of a ball game and proved Ayres' rebuilding program has been effective.

"We feel we can play with anybody in the conference," said Ayres, a coach known for his ability to lift sagging football programs. "We couldn't say that a couple of years ago." The Cougars' main strength may be the offense, specifically, the offensive line, where an all-senior lineup with plenty of muscle will hold forth.

STEVE HERRING (6-3, 235) and Paul Beckman (6-2, 210) will anchor the group at the tackles. Ray Hagen, a 5-10, 195 pound center and tight end Brad Goodman, (6-3), 183) will also return to help the Cougar running attack move.

At quarterback, Rocky Pugliese (5-10, 165) will move in from the running back spot he occupied much of last season. Junior Dan Fasig, (6-0, 180) is also in the running, but will probably end up earning a spot on defense. Pugliese was listed as the backup quarterback last season though he didn't see any action at the position.

Probably the only junior to start on offense will be Tim Carroll, a 5-10, 175 pound I-back. Seniors John Fiddler and Al Barnhill are neck and neck in the race for the fullback slot. Mike Walston (5-9), 155) is expected to open at flanker.

The Cougars will also feature good size defensively with the likes of defensive end Dave Brumm (6-3, 208), and linebacker Jack Kerr (6-2, 211).

The Cougars open the season Sept. 9 with a home, non-conference game against Mundelein. Conant has been ending the season with a non-conference matchup the past few years. Ayres is pleased his club will be able to shake out the bugs of a non-conference game before plunging into the conference season.

"THERE WILL BE no easy games this season. The conference is very balanced," said Ayres, whose Cougars will be tested early. Following Mundelein will be a Mid-Suburban league crossover at Arlington, then Elk Grove will visit the Cougar field.

"We've had good practices. The cool weather has given us time to teach and get enough conditioning in," said Ayres.

Now, if only everyone can stay healthy.

WHAT GIVES. Wild-tempered Ilie Nastase always finds something to complain about. This time, the height of the net in a second round match of the U.S. Open Tennis. Natase lost the argument and match as he was upset by Italy's Corrado Barazzutti, 6-4, 6-4.

Borg, King survive; Nastase falls hard

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. — Courtside temperatures neared the 110degree mark and dozens of fans succumbed to the heat and humidity Friday at the U.S. Open Tennis Championships as top-seed Bjorn Borg survived another painful test of his shoulder, Ilie Nastase wilted and Billie Jean King "gutted out" a two-hour, three-set thriller.

On the anniversary of the day that he shook up Forest Hills with an embarrassing display of temper, the real Ilie Nastase never had a chance to make an appearance today when he meekly fell victim to Italian Corrado Barazzutti, 6-4, 6-4, in a major upset of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. Borg, two-time Wimbledon champion from Sweden, showed no visible signs of pain as he battled past Australian John James, 7-5, 6-4, but he admitted before the match that his injured shoulder was still not even 50 per cent perfect.

"It hurts to lift the arm," Borg said and then went out and showed what he meant by serving softly to the 26-year-old, who beat him three years ago on grass at the Australian Championships.

King, playing here for the first time in two years after missing a year with an injured knee, barely escaped the youthful attack of 13-year-old Anne Smith of Dallas with a 6-3, 3-6, 7-5 victory.

Moses hurdles U.S. to track lead

DUESSELDORF, West Germany -- Edwin Moses got the United States off to a good start at the World Track and Field Cup Friday when he won the 400-meter hurdles in just a fraction of a second over his own world record time.

The Atlanta, Ga. physics student was clocked in 47.58 seconds to give the United States a maximum nine points in the first event of the three-day competition, being contested by eight continental and national teams.

Juantorena, the world record-holder and Olympic gold medalist, was in front going down the back straight and the Kenyan moved in behind him immediately. Coming off the final bend with the rest of the field struggling, Boit moved up alongside Juantorena and they fought for the tape together. But the Cuban's giant 10-foot stride took him ahead with five meters to go and the grimacing Boit had to settle for second place.

Three share golf World Series lead

AKRON. Ohio (UPI) - Tom Weiskopf and Hale Irwin rolled in long birdie putts on the final hole Friday to tie Ray Floyd for the first-round lead in the $300,000 World Series of Golf.

Both Weiskopf, who also birdied the 17th, and Irwin, winner of last week's Hall of Fame Classic at Pinehurst, N.C., holed putts of more than 20 feet as they finished their first 18 holes on the rugged 7.180-yard Firestone Country Club South Course at three under par

Floyd, brushing off what he described as "a couple lapses of concentration," had concluded his round earlier at 67 and looked like a good bet to finish with a one-shot lead.

But Weiskopf and Irwin, playing in the last of 10 twosomes, took care of that. The three leaders have a one shot leader over Mark Hayes, who holed a chip shot for a birdie on the 18th for a 68.

MANCHESTER, N.H. - Teams from Boyertown, Pa. and Lewiston. Idaho were the first two baseball clubs eliminated Friday from the 52nd American Legion World Series.

The Pennsylvanians earned their early exit bowing to Trumbull, Conn., 1-0, in the second game of Friday morning's doubleheader. In the first game of the day, West Palm Beach, Fla. ousted the Region Seven champions from Idaho, 7-5.

In the first of two winners' bracket games Friday night, Rapid City. South Dakota met Hattiesburg, Miss. The second game of the twinbill featured defending champion Santa Monica, Calif. against South Bend, Ind., at night.

Hambletonian attracts fast field

DU QUOIN, Ill. - The luck of the draw and size and quality of the field could produce a long afternoon of racing Saturday when 16 colts go to the post shooting for the richest Hambletonian purse in history.

Had one oore 3-year-old trotter been entered in the 52nd edition of the premiere stake, the field under race rules would have been split into two divisions giving the favorites more racing room.

But in the crowd, the Billy Haughton favored entry of Green Speed and Cold Comfort, rated at 8-5 at the pari-mutuel track, could have some tricky traveling ahead in the first heat.

Will they come to area?

Switch in sites could save Storm

How many people out there know that the Chicago Storm finished its infant season with a 22-34 record? Or that slugger Benny Holt wound up with 89 home runs? Or that the Storm is a 12-inch, slow-pitch softball team with professional status?

Don't feel bad if those little-known (and even less-publicized) facts slipped by you this summer. The Storm quietly and obscurely ended its first schedule by dropping three of four games at Cleveland during the last weekend of August.

But the Storm isn't about to fade away without at least one more shot at winning the attention of sports fans in the Chicago area.

FRANK MARIANI, the Storm's general manager, has a dream of success. To get one step closer to the realization of that dream, Mariani hopes to secure a new home site somewhere in the Northwest suburbs for next sea-

"I would like to play in our area," said the Rolling Meadows resident. "We're shooting for Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines or someplace close. A move like this would help tremendously because the game is already played in this area."

The playing facility was probably the Storm's biggest problem this summer. The team held its games at the

Don Friske

Byline report

Windy City complex in Bridgeview, a Southwest suburb that prefers the bigger 16-inch softball.

That alone could explain the dismal attendance average of a little more than 1,000 a game. The Storm conducted its activities in an unresponsive market area.

In other cities, the people became interested.

MARIANI TALKS about how the Storm played in a steady rain while 6,000 people sat in the Detroit stands where the average attendance was 8.500 for the season.

The Cincinnati Suds averaged 5,000, the Cleveland Jaybirds had 4,500 and the Storm had troubles.

"The facility was our No. 1 problem, plus the lack of knowledge on 12inch ball," Mariani explained. "I never saw a 12-inch game until our preseason began. Those were our biggest drawbacks."

Aside from that, the Storm was being managed by a former major league pitcher who had trouble balancing his time between the team and his new business. With almost two months left in the season, Mariani replaced Milt Pappas as the team's field leader.

"LET'S JUST say Milt's new job demanded a lot of his time and he didn't give us as much attention as we would like," Mariani said.

So Mariani also has the responsibility of finding a new manager for next year. He is also hoping to have a radio station broadcast Storm games, and he said that one AM outlet looks "real good."

The team already has the respect of its league opponents, even though it finished last with only 22 victories. Most of the players around the league figured the Storm would do worse because Chicago is mostly known for 16-inch softball.

"They didn't think we'd win more than five games in the league," Mariani said. "They were very, very surprised."

HOLT, WHO WAS primarily a 16inch player before signing with the Storm, showed that the transition in ball size doesn't necessarily have to affect one's ability. He had a .609 average and 187 RBIs to go with his 89 homers and he has a good shot at winning the league's most valuable player award.

The Storm catcher is the type of player who deserves more than the mediocre following the Storm had this year. A move to the Northwest area could do wonders for Holt and the rest of the team.

"They have a nice complex in Rolling Meadows. I haven't talked to anybody about it, but I've had my eye on that one for a long time," Mariani said. "Another possibility is the Maryville Academy, where we might put in our own field. If we have to, we'll put up our own field, but we're hoping for one that already exists."

Mariani added that he'd like to see next summer's attendance jump to an average of about 3,000, regardless of where the team plays. He thinks this could be achieved if the Storm can find a new home in this area.

"IF THE PEOPLE out there would like a professional team, we'll move in. That's important to us," Mariani

The sport is interesting and the players are colorful. But they need a little backing when they play their home games.

For Mariani, the search has begun. He said he hopes to have something within four weeks. The result will reveal much about the Storm's future.

Tennis play continues; Paddock finals Monday

The 17th Annual Paddock Publications Tennis Tournament will begin its second weekend of action today at 9:00 a.m.

Twenty-one divisional winners will be crowned during finals play Monday at the Arlington High School courts.

Few returning winners are entered in this year's tournament and those who are will again be seeded in the top spot.

The boys' 16-18 singles and doubles divisions could be the most interesting high school athletes competing in singles and another 18 teams in doubles. "The quality of play that you find here in this division comes from some of the best high school players in the area," Mel Timmons, tournament director, said.

"The winner or winners will be decided by how well one plays on that particular, day. They're all that close in talent."

Timmons announced that for the final matches Labor Day, Chicago Tennis Officials will officiate. The group of the weekend with 43 outstanding of officials is organized by its president, Bill Marsh, of Buffalo Grove.

Line makers may follow spider up the waterspout

How can the spider's unique web building skills benefit fishermen? The answer to that question promises to have profound effects on new lines fishermen soon will be using.

To understand the technological significance you must go back 40 years — to the time when chemists first discovered how to create a new "synthetic silk". Fishermen were quick to benefit from this development as these new synthetic molecules called nylon were spun into fishing lines to replace the braided silk counterparts.

These first nylon monos weren't the ultimate. They were stiff and wiry but they did not rot and they were transparent.

LITERALLY THOUSANDS of different kinds of nylons have subsequently been developed to replace cotton, jute, pig bristle and other natural fibers and the markets they occupied. The search for a better nylon for monofilament fishing line continued.

Now, after a dozen years of research, a team of fishing scientists in Spirit Lake Iowa believe they have found the answer by going back to nature and the engineering solution nature uses for solving tough problems.

Their research led them to the unlikely field of entymology and the remarkable spider. Not well recognized, and totally baffling to the chemists, the spider has the incredible capacity to spin a web of a natural fiber not unlike the chemical structure of nylon. But a spider's silk is far stronger than any yet synthetized in a labora-

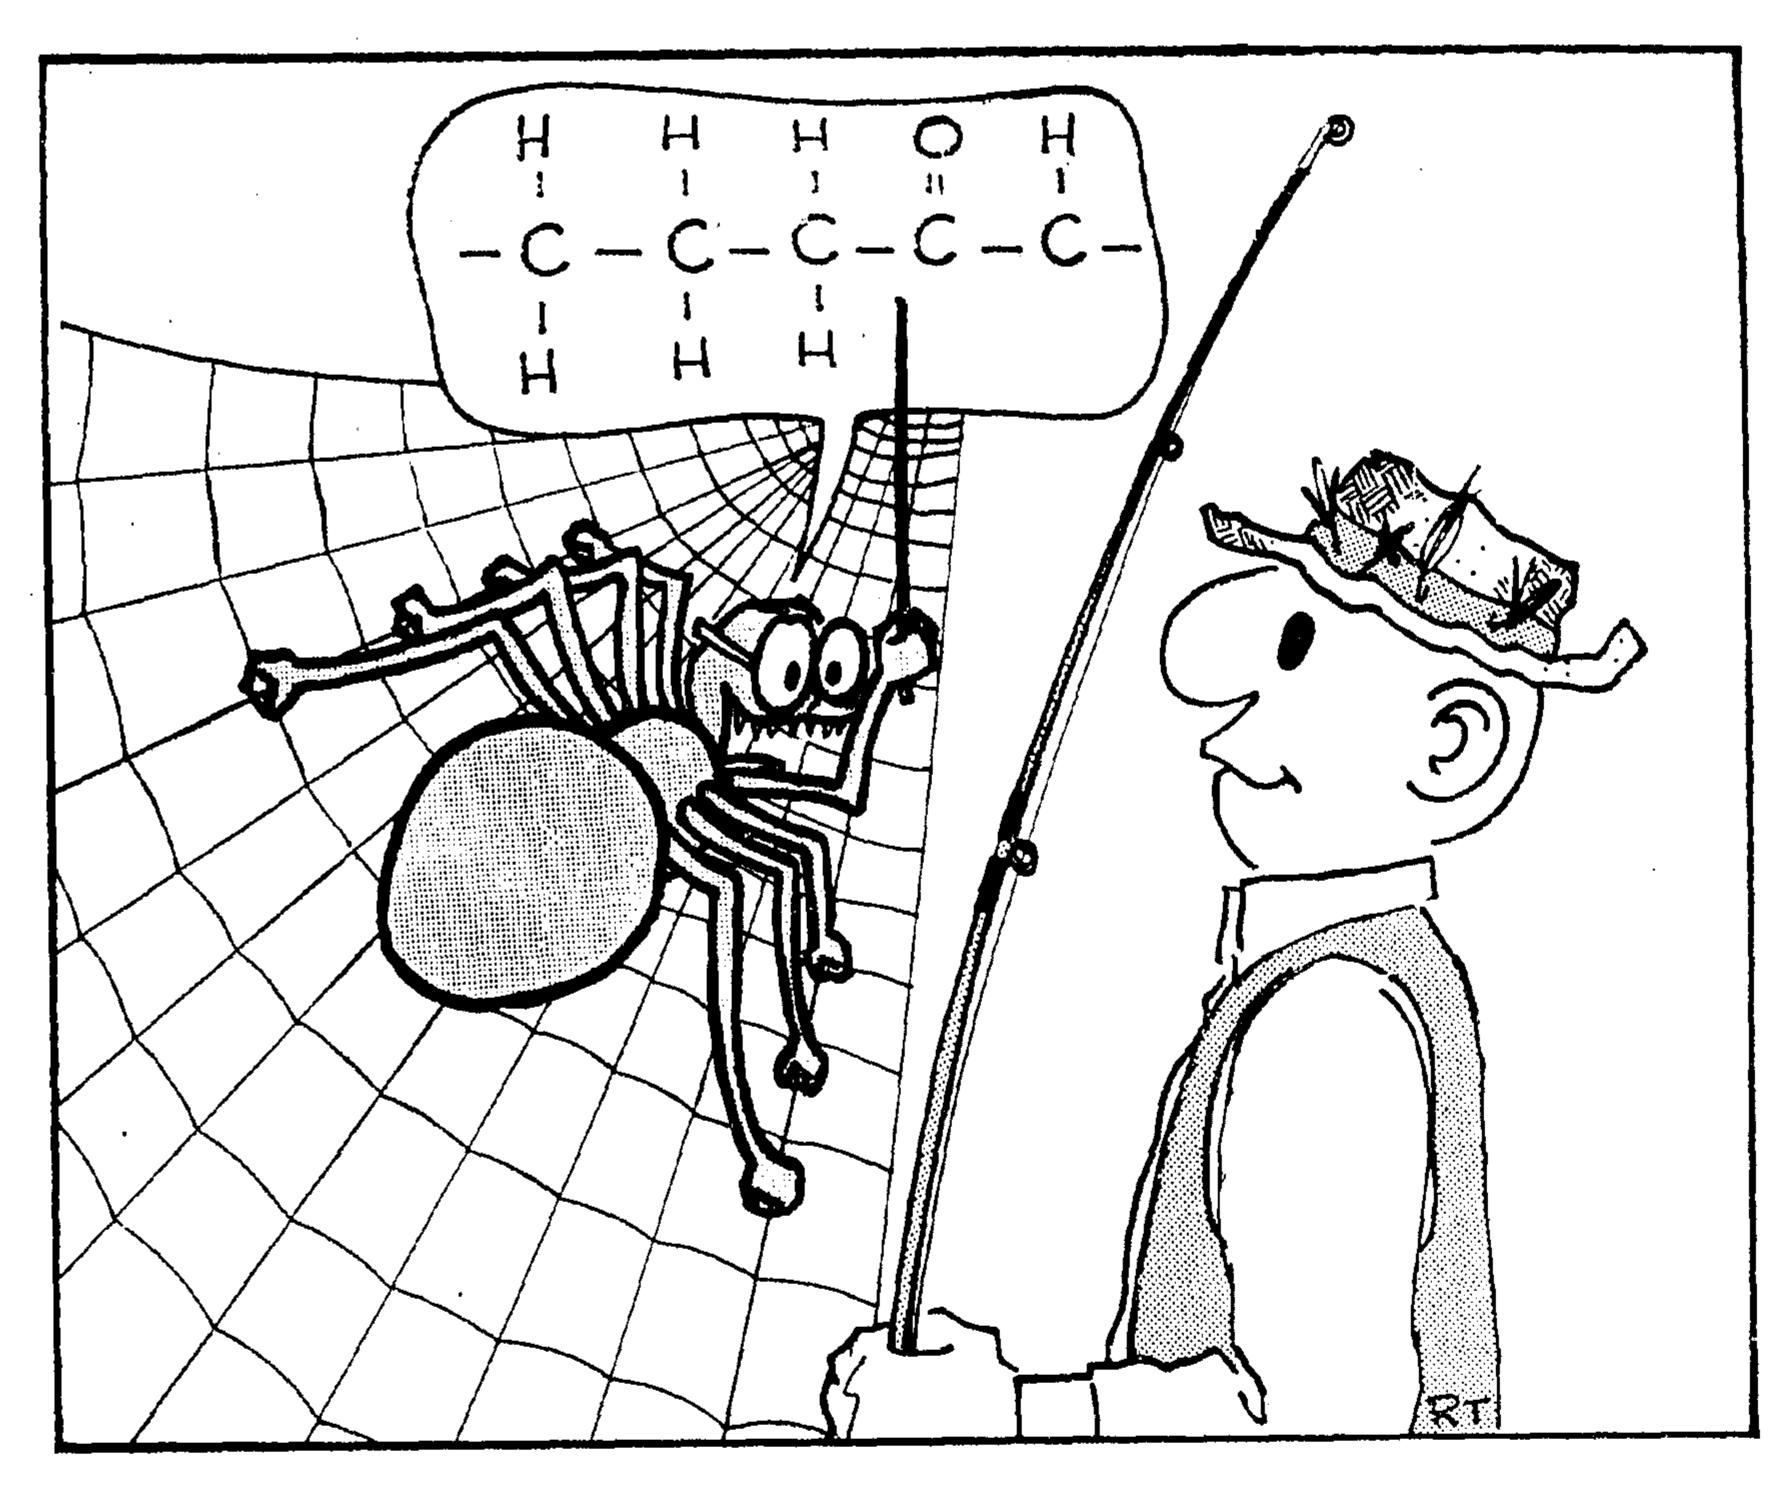

Some have tried to commercialize this fiber for applications such as the cross-hairs in microscopes and telescopic sights. It has been estimated that to produce a meager 1 lb. of spider's silk would require the sustained co-operative efforts of 670,000 spiders! Aside from the production output problem, a spider factory would also have the logistic task of providing an ample menu of flies to feed their

BUT IF YOU could convert this 1 lb. of spider's silk into a 1" diameter line you'd discover that it would have a break strength of more than 74 tons. That's three times stronger than a 1" steel rope.

But even more impressive is the spider's engineering abilities to utilize it's home-made nylon fibers. For the strong support strands of its web the spider generates one formulation of natural nylon. For the sticky, elastic cross-member strands it creates a different nylon formulation.

The spider routinely uses a principle that fishing line manufacturers have totally overlooked: that nylons can be tailored to perform specific functions, but more importantly, no one nylon can satisfy all needs.

Scientists applied the spider's engineering approach to their search for a better fishing line. The fisherman's engineering demands for southern bass fishing were distinctly different than those of the steelhead fishermen of the northwest. It was obvious that no one nylon could do the job. In fact, field studies confirmed that three distinct nylon monos would be needed to adequately match the diverse needs of today's sportfishermen.

Spiders use a principle that fishing line manufacturers have overlooked.

Outdoor club plans hunting, fishing

Sports is Walker's new platform

A club catering to sportsmen who wish to have all arrangements and reservations made for hunting and fishing trips and other outdoor activities in Illinois has been formed by Dan Walker, former Illinois governor,

The Dan Walker Outdoor Club has leaded thousands of acres of prime hunting and fishing sites throughout Illinois for exclusive use by club members.

Walker, an outdoorsman since youth, organized the club he said because "many people who enjoy outdoor activites; particularly hunting and fishing, often don't know where to go or don't have the time to make the necessary arrangements.

"What makes this club different," he said, "is that members need only call us; we take it from there. We find the right locations for the type of hunting or fishing trip requested and we make all the arrangements, whether motel, guides, dogs - anything needed for a successful outing."

The club has leased a variety of farmland and private preserves for hunting pheasant, dove, quail, duck, squirrel, rabbit and other game.

FISHING LOCATIONS feature bass, bluegill, coho, walleye and catfish.

"We can't assure members of making their limits," Walker said, "but each area is checked to make sure game is present before a member sets foot on the grounds."

Trips will range from one to three days. Each will be separately priced, costing approximately $50 to $150 per person. Initial fee is $250 for individual or family membershis and $500 for corporate memberships.

by the club, members will receive newsletters detailing up-to-the-minute information about outdoor activities throughout the state. A poll-free hotline is available for members' use.

In addition to trip services provided

Walker said unusual outdoor activities such as frogging, jugging for catfish and turtle hunting also are on the club's schedule.

Applications for membership are available by writing: Dan Walker

New lake fishing can be a-lure-ing

The secret to locating fish in a new lake is to have your lure in the water. You must know how to make the best use of your time.

Obtain advance knowledge about the lake by writing state and regional agencies for maps, brochures and other information. A detailed map is probably the most important tool you can have, for it allows you to determine the underwater topography of a lake and to plot areas which are suitable for the type of fishing you intend to do.

When you arrive at the new lake, do not hesitate to ask questions. Probably no one will tell you exactly where to fish, but you are sure to pick up tips about water temperature, clarity, types of baits currently hot, and areas which would definitely be unproductive. Show the dock operator your marked map and ask for his suggestions. He's going to help all he can; after all, he wants you to have good luck and return.

Of equal importance is the need to restrict your fishing to one or two carefully selected areas. Try to pick sites where the natural features are similar to those at home, and where you think the fish are likely to be. Do not waste time running from one spot to another.

variations in retrieves. Rely upon knowledge from prior fishing experiences to guide you in lure selection and action. It is also a good idea to use a water temperature gauge and a depth finder to locate structure plotted on the map. Marker buoys are handy for determining the path of submerged creek beds, cliffs and other underwater features that are likely to hold fish.

The task of finding the most productive fishing areas on an unfamiliar lake is simplified if you plot the best sites on a map, limit the area you fish, use all the tools at your disposal, Fish your test sites thoroughly. Try and be thorough in your fishing meth- Outdoor Club, 1 W. Old State Capitol

No static if you plan before taking CB to Canada

by GENE W. HINTZ

Fishermen or hunters need not leave their CB radios at home when they cross the border into Canada.

A license is needed, but it's easy to get, generally coming back faster than the U.S. license from the FCC. And the radios can prove to be extra helpful on a trip to the wilds, where bear, moose, deer and fish vastly outnumber humans.

We found that out on a recent fishing trip to Cliff Lake, a large body of water 200 miles north of International Falls, Minn., in the heart of eastern Ontario.

THE FIRST problem was the li-

We had heard — and it was true that CB radios were being picked up at the border if they were not licensed in Canada and returned on the trip back over the border.

So, the question was how to get licensed.

There is one requirement. You must be licensed in the U.S. by the FCC. After that, it's a simple matter either to call or write the appropriate regional superintendent of telecommunications regulation of the Canadian Dept. of Communication.

Regional offices are located in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver and elsewhere.

TIME WAS quickly closing in, so we called Toronto, giving our U.S. call letters, license expiration, names and addresses. Ten days later the licenses, good for the term of our FCC licenses, were in hand.

We had two parties of three in two cars and two boats. The trip north proved easier than it was in the past, with little time wasted by stops to consult about the need for gasoline, food or rest.

But the real values of the CBs were shown on the water.

I had rigged my boat — a 16-foot runabout — to use the C8 from my car, drawing on the boat's batteries and using a no-ground plane marine antenna. The other boat, a smaller fishing boat with no antenna or battery, kept contact with a handy-talky.

Each had to call on the other for emergency help when the other was out of sight.

ON THE SMALL boat, spark plugs fouled, causing misfiring and stalling. The occupants had a plug, but no wrench to put it in or take the other one out. A call to the larger boat soon brought a wrench.

On the larger boat, the ignition key broke off in the lock. A call to the smaller boat brought instructions on how to get the motor started.

More fishing territory was covered,

Sheehan's catch wins Bluegill class in contest

Mike Sheehan, 1806 S. Fernandez, Arlington Heights, has won a first place trophy in the junior division of a nationwide fishing contest sponsored by Daiwa Corp.

Sheehan took top honors in the Bluegill category, with a 3 pound, 1 ounce, 10-inch fish caught at Florida Lake, using a Daiwa 500 and 202 Series.

He was among 81 winners in the contest, which had categories for major fresh-and salt-water game fish available in the United States. Winners must have been using a Daiwa rod or reel when catching the fish.

Winning fish were judged on weight, length and girth. Judges were a panel of fishing and outdoor writers from all areas of the country, members of the Outdoor Writers Assn.

since the two boats could split up, calling the other if a particularly hot spot or school of fish was discovered. the radios also came in handy for conferences on where and when to have shore lunch and when to call it quits for the day. The drought, as in the United States, has been a problem in Canada and there were questions whether the big boat would be able to negotiate some of the shallow, twisting, lengthy channels between lakes.

It proved to be no problem, however, as the small boat went ahead as a scout craft radioing back conditions and enabling the bigger boat to elude rocks and logs across the stream.

THE FAVOR was returned on open water, where the bigger boat could go out and survey and then radio back the wind and wave conditions to those in the smaller boat.

Regulations in Canada are much the same as they are in the United States, though the Canadian rules ban "transmission of a frivolous nature" and "communication used in itself as a diversionary of recreational activi-

That means "hobby talk" or chitchat about your rig, station's performance and the like are out.

Calls to "all stations" are generally frowned upon except in case of emergency and Canadian officials demand that those using the General Radio Service behave at all times like "professional radio operators."

The emergency channel, as in the United States, is Channel 9.

Trump eases communication

Sometimes dummy's trumps are needed to ruff one of declarer's losers. On other occasions they may be needed to keep the defense from getting control of the hand. A third and rare use is to enable declarer to get back to his hand in order to lead up to dummy for a second or third time.

South wins the club lead with his ace. If he always draws trumps when he had full trump control, he plays out three or four trumps and leads a low spade toward dummy.

If West just ducks the hand collapses. South will try to get back to his hand with a diamond. His king will lose to West's ace and a second club lead will knock out dummy's king and South will wind up losing one spade, two diamonds, a club and his partner's good opinion.

South can afford one trump lead. Then he plays the spade. West ducks, but now South can use dummy's other trump to get back to his hand. He plays a couple more trumps, leads a second spade and eventually will get to discard his potential club loser on dummy's king or queen of spades.,

Extend input limit on saccharin ban

The Food and Drug Administration Friday extended unitl Oct. 3 the time period in which it is accepting comments on its proposed ban on saccharin. The original comment period was to have expired Aug. 31 but the Calorie Control Council, representing the makers of diet soft drinks, went to court on Aug. 18 to obtain certain documents from the FDA under the Freedom of Information Act. In a notice published in Friday's Federal Register, the agency said it granted the council an extension of time because th court case is pending. It aded that it had now decided to extend that same action to all interested parties.

Indian Coke bottlers seek help

Indian bottlers of Coca-Cola asked the government Friday to allow importation of raw materials needed to bottle the drink and save them from financial disaster. A spokesman for the owners of the country's 22 bottling plants said the bottlers had agreed to distribute the Indian-made substitute cola if Coca-Cola is forced to shut down its operations in India next year. But they said the substitute drink will not be ready until next March and because of the government's refusal to let the materials for Coke concentrate be imported, they now have nothing to sell and their 6,000 employes are idle. The government announced last month that the soft drink firm's branch must close unless it turns over 60 per cent of its shares here to indians and hands over the "sectret formula" that gives the drink its unique flavor. Coke has refused to yield control of the formula.

10,000 Ford workers to be idled

About 10,000 hourly employes at two Ford Motor Co. assembly plants will be idled next week due to a shortage of engine components. Raymond L. Logue, Ford vice president of manufacturing, said Friday the firm's Wayne, Mich., and Mahwah, N.J., assembly plants will be closed for one week starting next Tuesday. All plants are closed Monday because of the Labor Day holiday.

British cash reserve boosted

Foreign money continued to pour into Britain in August, pushing the nation's currency reserves to a record $14.49 billion at the end of the month. This was an increase of $1.394 billion over July's figure and more than three times the reserve total at the beginning of 1977. The favorable reserves report came on top announcement by the government's price commission that Britain's rate of inflation has fallen to 11.7 per cent on an annual basis.

Firm asks labor violation review

J. P. Stevens and Co. said Friday it will seek a U.S. Supreme Court review of a federal appeals court decision earlier this week that called the textile maker the "most notorious recidivist in the field of labor law." A three-judge panel for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 2nd Circiut found Stevens in contempt of court Aug. 31 for "ignoring" orders to comply with provisions of the national labor relations act at six plants in the Carolinas. "We sincerely believe the court of appeals' decision to be erroneous on both the facts and the law," a Stevens spokesman said. "Under the circumstances we have no alternative but to seek to have the supreme court reversed that decision."

Allstate Staple is at 706 W. Algonquin Rd.

Baltimore Canyon drilling planned

Oil companies say drilling for oil and natural gas in the Baltimore Canyon area off the coast of New Jersey and Delaware could begin by the end of the year. The companies - Exxon, Mobil, Shell and Continental — made the prediction this week after the 2nd circuit U.S. court of appeals unanimously reversed a lower court ruling Feb. 17 that voided the sale of $1.13 billion in leases for 93 undersea tracts. An Interior Dept. spokesman said drilling could begin whenever the Environmental Protection Agency moves on granting exploration permits, but he said "real production" will not begin for four to six years.

Jobless rate up 7.1% nation; Chicago unemployment at 4.7%

Unemployment rose to 7.1 per cent in August as the jobless rate for blacks returned to a post World War II high set in the depths of the recession nearly two years ago, the U.S. Labor Dept. reported Friday.

Unemployment in Illinois increased slightly to 5.1 per cent of the population during the month of August, the Illinois Dept. of Labor announced Fri-

The state unemployment rate in July was 5 per cent.

William G. Bowling, director of the Labor Dept., said though Illinois had an increase by .1 per cent, he expected unemployment to decrease in furture months. "While we are distressed, we feel that the general work climate wil stabilize soon," Bowling

UNEMPLOYMENT IN the six-county Chicago area rose to 4.7 per cent from 4.5 per cent in July, and the jobless rate in Peoria increased to 5.1 per cent from 5 per cent.

Unemployment has been hovering U.S. for the past five months, with a low of 6.9 per cent in both May and August's developments were bad news for President Carter, who is beginning to suffer the political consequences of a stagnant jobless rate. The report is expected to fuel already vocal criticism of blacks disappointed with Carter's economic policies.

The .2 percentage point increase in unemployment the nation's in August was concentrated among black workers. Joblessness for blacks rose to 14.5 per cent — a post-war high established in September 1975.

Black teen-agers suffered an unemployment rate of 40.4 per cent in August, with indications that all of the stubbornly around 7 per cent in the newly created summer jobs went to young whites.

> Unemployment was 11.5 per cent for black men and 12.2 per cent for black women.

WHITE WORKERS benefited entirely by a 210,000 increase in total employment during August. Total employment rose to 90.8 million after a pause in July, but the increase in total jobs was wiped away by a larger 390,000 jump in the total labor force.

Unemployment rose by 180,000 to 6.9 million in August, primarily because so many people lost their jobs. The percentage of job losers among the nation's unemployed rose for the second consecutive month to 47 per cent.

The disparity between black and white unemployment rates grew in August. Joblessness was 6.1 per cent among whites, 4.5 per cent among men, 6.3 per cent among women and 14.7 per cent among teen-agers.

The latest five-month lull in unemployment followed a dramatic drop in unemployment from 8 per cent more than the preceding five months. But blacks and Vietnam veterans did not benefit much from that improvement

Union membership declines 4%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Dept. Friday issued a special Labor Day survey showing union membership in the United States dropped 4 per cent to 19.4 million between 1974 and 1976 — the first decline since the early 1960s.

The survey showed declining union membership in manufacturing was partially offset by increased membership in white collar jbos, particularly in state and local government. Women's membership in unions declined.

Much of the over-all union drop reflected high unemployment in the heavily unionized manufacturing and construction industries during the period. At the same time, the total labor force continued to grow to nearly 97 million in 1976.

TOTAL DOMESTIC union membership dropped by 767,000 between 1974 and 1976, the first decline since the 1960-62 period. The percentage of union workers in the labor force fell from 21.7 per cent in 1974 to 20.1 per cent in 1976.

Asked about the decline, AFL-CIO Pres. George Meany said trade unions never have represented a majority of workers. He said the unions nonetheless help all workers by supporting decent wage standards.

Meany and Teamsters Pres. Frank Fitzsimmons, in Labor Day messages, lashed out at an upsurge in "union busting." Presdient Carter's message for the observance spoke of the grit and determination of the American working man.

AFL-CIA unions said their membership has fallen from 16.9 million to 16.6 million in two years. The federation now represents 78 per cent of all union members, excluding such big unions as the Teamsters and the United Autoworkers.

This was the summer when soggyminded social theorists told us that the Biblical commandment against stealing did not apply when the unemployment rate went above 6 per cent. (They didn't say it quite so straightforwardly, of course — they never do — they just let it be known that looting during a power blackout was the most natural thing in the world, given the economic condition of the country.) Those who (1) worked and (2) eschewed thievery must feel a little silly to have missed such a wonderful protest, not to mention a splendid op-

If the typical private citizen whose small expense account is now under governmental siege smells a strong whiff of hypocrisy along the Potomac, why, he just doesn't have the spirit of the season, does he?

This was the summer when it was disclosed that working people with savings came very low on the priorities of the nation's largest city when it was trying to peddle securities to them and thus finance ever larger benefits to the unemployed and those

> At a time when everybody wants to hear about his (ever expanding) rights, but nobody wants to take any jazz about responsibilities, and when the work ethic is a joke, it's a wonder we even bother to commemorate Labor Day at all. # Stock market scores its first gain since mid-July

by FRANK W. SLUSSER UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market scored its first gain since mid-July this week. But the turnover was the second slowest of the year, indicating investors remained uncertain about the Carter administration and the economy.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had lost 70 points in the previous five weeks, gained 16.89 points to 872.31, the first weekly gain since it rose 17.47 points in the period ended July 22.

The New York Stock Exchange common stock index rose 0.73 to 53.33 and Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, containing some over-the-counter issues, rose 1.39 to 97.45.

Advances topped declines, 1,145 to 638, among the 2,094 issues crossing the composite tape.

THE BIG BOARD volume of 87,020,240 shares was the slowest fullweek turnover since 86,103,460 shares changed hands the week ended April 1. This week's volume compared with 94,205,400 last week and 77,463,150 traded during the same week a year

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 101,948,370 shares, compared with 110,128,030 last week.

Analysts generally attributed the advance to bargain hunting and shortcovering — replacing borrowed shares sold earlier - prior to the three-day Labor Day weekend. The market will be closed Monday.

Wall Street, still disturbed by a leading analyst's prediction of a looming mini-recession, was jolted Tuesday by reports the Carter administration was thinking about asking for wage-price "standards" in specific industries because of high inflation.

The next day, a spokesman for President Carter, who promised in "controls," said the Chief Executive was unaware of any study of wageprice standards.

Investors were curious about what really was happening because there were signs inflation and interest rates were leveling off. The August wholesale price index rose a scant 0.1 per cent following two declines. Farm prices fell 3 per cent.

INTEREST RATES held firm, even though the Federal Reserve Board Monday raised its discount rate a half point to 5% per cent. The move had been expected because banks had borrowed heavily from the Fed lately.

In other developments, the White House Friday said Carter would take necessary steps to stimulate the economy if it slows down too much. Rep. Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said he favored a tax cut.

Government reports confirmed the slowdown.

The July index of leading economic indicators declined 0.2 per cent, the third consecutive slide.

July factory orders dropped 3 per cent, durable goods orders 5.1 per January not to impose wage-price cent and nondefense capital goods orders 9.7 per cent. New construction declined 0.6 per cent. The August jobless rate rose to 7.1 per cent from 6.9 per cent.

Observers said Wall Street has discounted much of that news in the slide over the past several weeks and now is ripe for a rally. But they also noted congress reconvenes next week from its summer recess. And anything could happen.

NEW YORK (UPI) - The stock market finished its first winning week since mid-July with a sharp gain Friday. But the trading was slow as investors prepared for the Labor Day weekend.

Banks' backrooms opened by Lance disclosures

WASHINGTON - Bert Lance's wheeler-dealer banking activities have opened the door on the tight and protected world of banks and bankers, in which a double standard allows them to get away with murder.

For the moment, this politically oriented city is preoccupied with a guessing game: What are Lance's chances of survival after exposure by the Comptroller of Currency — not of offenses punishable by jail, but of dealings that raise questions of propriety, ethics, and morality?

Some of the shrewdest politicians will be able to hang on to his Office of Management and Budget job, albeit somewhat tarnished.

FOR EXAMPLE, Robert Strauss, former Democratic National Committee chairman and now President Carter's adviser on trade, tells me that in his judgment, Lance can continue, despite "mistakes in his background as there are in everyone's."

In Wall Street, the verdict on Lance is almost wholly negative. "He's lost respect," says one financial man. "Our relationships (with him) can never be the same."

Having enjoyed Lance's breezy believe, for what it's worth, that if no style and ready accessibility in a role new serious charges turn up, Lance which made him the second most important man in Washington, I regret that I must agree with the latter assessment.

HERE IS A MAN who arrived with a reputation as Mr. Fiscal Integrity himself, emphasizing prudence and the overriding virtues of a balanced budget. His philosophy was epitomized by his remark, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it" - ironically, a response to a question on the need for tighter bank regulation. In practice, Lance played the cautious counterweight to liberal economic adviser Charles Schultze, and in essence was Carter's ambassador to the business community.

There's more: over a 4-year period, Lance, his wife LaBelle and other relatives regularly overdrew their personal accounts at the Calhoun National Bank when Lance was in charge. At times, Mrs. Lance was overdrawn by $110,000, a practice ended only after intervention by federal authorities.

Despite these and other details in the Heimann Report, Carter seized on the Comptroller's conclusion that no criminal prosecution was warranted.

The President ignored Heimann's key line: "This recurring pattern of shifting bank relationships and personal borrowing raises unresolved questions as to what constitutes acceptable banking practice." The average citizen also knows that if he writes "rubber" checks, for which he has no money in the bank, they will bounce, and he might well

You noted in a previous "Moneywise" column that Series E Savings Bonds mature in five years. I bought $1,300 worth of E-bonds from 1942 to 1956. Should I leave them in my safe deposit box for another three or four years or redeem them and buy certificates of deposit paying 61/2 per cent interest? I don't know what interest the E-bonds have been paying.

Regardless of when you bought your E-bonds, they continue to draw interest at 6 per cent. All of your bonds have matured. Whether you redeem the E-bonds and invest in CDs will depend on your need for income and your income tax position. As long as you hold the E-bonds, they continue to accrue interest tax free. When you redeem them, you will have to pay income tax on the full accumulated interest. Or you may exchange the full redemption value of the E-bonds for equivalent H-bonds and defer paying income tax on the accrued interest until the H-bonds are sold. If you are working, you may prefer to postpone redeeming the E-bonds until your income tax liabilities are small or nonexistent. If you need the income, exchanging the E-bonds for H-bonds probably would provide more spendable dollars than investing the aftertax proceeds from the E-bonds in

I moved to California from the East Coast two years ago. In the two years I have been here I have seen the price of two-bedroom condominiums increase from $32,000 to $55,0000 or $60,000. A furnished apartment now rents for $200 but probably will go up to $250 or $300 shortly. I have about $20,000 in savings and earn $21,000 a year. Should I buy a condominium or a house as an investment and to avoid collecting rent receipts?

-G.H.L. If you believe your job situation is stable, I suggest investing in a house rather than a condominium with a minimum down payment. Your equity investment will be more likely to grow faster than inflation and, thus, protect the buying power of your savings. Also, you can control your cost of housing. A small house or a larger house that would permit a partial rental would keep your costs for housing to a reasonable proportion of your income. I would avoid buying a condominium because of the possible problems of common areas — and the high price.

Editor's note...

The star-filled heavens will probably always remain a marvel to man. Despite moon walks and planet exploration, the twinkling night sky captivates and fascinates. Adler Planetarium has opened a unique observatory where the public can view the galaxies Friday nights after the planetarium sky show. City Editor Gerry Kern was there for the grand opening of the Doane Observatory and tells its story on page 7.

Things to do......9

Diehard ballpark fans in Chicago may not recognize the name Lenford Leake but any regular will be aware of the singing peanut vendor. At both Comiskey Park and Wrigley Field, Leake entertains the masses as he sings his peanuts salespitch. Mount Prospect municipal reporter Marsha Bosley tracked down Leake. Page 4.

Day after day of fun and frivolity take place during the annual Oktoberfest in Munich, Germany. Visitors can content themselves with the parades, carnival and beer gardens in the city for the September festival or venture into the castle country or see the city's sights. Travel Editor Katherine Rodeghier captures the spirit of Oktoberfest on page 10.

The tortoise always wins in Wheaton's annual race

by Nancy Waclawek

It's probably the only shell game with a mind of its own, and picking a winner is enough to stump the keenest betting minds.

But turtle racing is fun, and that's what Wheaton's Jaycees have provided every Labor Day for the last ten years for their city merchants and residents.

Between 130 and 150 merchants participate each year in the race, and for about one hour each merchant competes against others in his class on a battlefield he can't control.

The participants are divided into competitive categories — such as real estate brokers, grocery stores, pharmacies — and the turtles are placed under a wash tub in the center of a circle 30 inches in diameter. At a signal, the tub is raised and the turtles — their owners hope — dash madly to the edge of the "race track." The first to cross the line is the winner. The races are divided into heats, with about 15 participants in each. Each heat lasts two to three minutes, and the finalists compete against each other for the grand prize. Trophies go to the first three winners in the final race. The whole thing takes about an hour.

The turtles are painted turtles about eight inches long, and they come from Wisconsin, supplied by friends of Jaycees members or through the local pet store.

For eight years, Besser's Pet Shop in Wheaton provided the turtles and kept them until they were distributed to the merchants. That meant feeding the reptiles every other day with mackerel — about six cans of mackerel, according to Glenn Besser — and keeping them in large wash basins in a couple of inches of water.

About two or three days before the race, the merchants receive their turtles for a $25 donation, along with care and feeding instructions provided by the Jaycees. In case you're wondering whether you can "train" a turtle before the race, you can't.

Steve Dauw, an employe at the Wheaton Pharmacy and son-in-law to the pharmacy's owner, Andy Loiacono, said he has participated in the race for the last two years and the store's turtle hasn't won since 1974.

"We've tried psychology and engineering but there's no truth to the rumor that we've written to NASA asking for information," Dauw said. "Everybody works to make the turtle win. We tried decals once to try to psych the turtle into thinking he was fast, but that didn't work." Wind resistors from broken model kits in the store also didn't do the trick — they just fell off, Dauw said.

Vern Kiebler, who owns a company that supplies electric telecommunication equipment to Illinois Bell Telephone Co., has participated in the race the last two years. He has yet to win, but his strategy is to keep the turtle in a neighbor's bathtub. Jaycee Bo Roberts admitted that he heard the best strategy to come out with a winner is to keep the turtle wet as long as possible.

If the turtle races aren't enough, there's always the turtle beauty contest. Some turtles have appeared in beards, in full firetruck regalia and in suits and ties. One chic turtle even came scantily dressed in a crocheted bikini.

One of the brains behind the turtle race was Bob Marsh. He said he and two friends thought up the idea of a turtle race to raise money for the Jaycees over hamburgers one day back in 1967. They got Phil Georgeff, Arlington Park Race Track's announcer, to call the first race, and the Jaycees were off with a crazy money-raiser.

Up to a thousand visitors have come to the Jaycees Labor Day activities, to be conducted this year from noon to 5 p.m. at North Side Park in Wheaton. Besides the turtle races and beauty contest, the wives of the Jaycees will have booths for the children, a bake sale and puppet shows. In case of rain, all the activities will move to the county fair grounds.

Participants in the turtle race get green turtle stickers for the front doors of their places of business to remind them of the annual crazy afternoon.

The turtles?

They get sold back to the supplier, probably mystified about the weekend's activities and glad to go back into their shells on their private lily pads. §

CANCER DETECTION HEART ATTACK PREVENTION

A resting electrocardiogram is taken at the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. to detect any heart abnormalities.

Of every six people who get cancer today, two will be saved and four will die. Of the four who would otherwise die, one might be saved with earlier diagnosis and prompt treatment. (According to American Cancer Society publication '76 Cancer Facts and Figures.)

The health examination services available at the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection include all cancer detection procedures recommended by the American Cancer Society, Illinois Division.

Heart Disease accounts for nearly half of all deaths each year. Unlike most Cancer, Heart Attack can be postponed through reducing one's risk factors such as diet, exercise, blood presure, smoking, etc. Dr. Morris Collen, a well-known specialist in preventive medicine, was quoted in the January, 1977 Issue of FORTUNE "if one has a checkup every year or two at age thirty-five and thereafter, directed at postponable diseases, the mortality rate from those diseases after seven years is approximately 50 percent of what it would have been without exams."

The Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. offers a preventive health screening examination designed for three purposes:

- 1. To establish a health profile for each individual to be used as a baseline for future care.
- 2. To analyze an individual's risk factors for heart disease and cancer and statistically forecast probable life expectancy and suggest ways it might actually be increased by reducing the risk factors found.
- 3. Screen for treatable disease. Early detection and prompt treatment increase the probability of a favorable outcome.

This meticulous 3 hour, low cost examination includes a computerized medical history, health risk analysis, physical examination, proctosigmoidoscopy, chest x-ray, electrocardiogram, blood pressure, over 30 chemical determinations on blood and urine, vision, audiometry, spirometry, glaucoma test, body measurements. Women also receive a pap smear and instruction in breast self-examination. Exercise stress test, 24 hour holter monitor, and echocardiography are available as options.

Give yourself the best protection available today against cancer and heart disease by calling your physician or the Northwest Center for Early Disease Detection, Inc. located at 1000 Grand Canyon Parkway, Hoffman Estates, Illinois (Near Woodfield Mall.) # Singing for his sales Lenford Leake moonlights at Comiskey Park and Wrigley Field selling peanuts in the stands. But he's not your typical hustling vendor. He works his job with a smile and a song.

by Marsha S. Bosley

They hawk their wares feverishly, trying to make a few extra bucks on the side in a matter of just four maybe five hours.

It's a competitive and fast-paced racket. At any given moment one will be selling his goods not more than fifty feet from where another is pushing the identical product.

They're a rare breed — a seasonal group without whose services any professional sporting event in the world would be downright boring. They're the ball park vendors.

Some sports fanatics will insist they're nothing but a nuisance — nowhere to be found when you want a beer and always blocking your view when the bases are loaded with two outs or on the fourth down with inches to go. But just try to sit through a game without a single bottle of brew or hot dog.

Vendors, no matter how bothersome, can be saviors.

While many Chicago hawkers are hassling with rowdy impatient crowds, there is one Windy City vendor winning his way into the hearts of those he meets and doing it with his own unique, mild-mannered style.

Lenford Leake is a quiet modest man. When he's not on duty as a U.S postal clerk he likes to relax on the golf course or in the living room of his South Side two-flat strumming old favorites on his six string guitar.

He is shy and has a surprisingly soft voice for a guy who is 6-feet tall and 210 pounds. But it's all left behind when he emerges from that shell to peddle his peanuts. He becomes a totally different character. He's Chicago's "singing peanut vendor." And the fans love him.

The mystical transformation occurs within minutes. Wearing sport clothes, a white tennis hat and the "most comfortable shoes I can find," Leake waits in line to check in

THE HERALD

With the union steward before nearly every Cubs or Sox home game. At 67, he's among the older ball park vendors. Most are college students working summer jobs.

With a duffle bag in one hand and his neatly pressed blue uniform folded over his arm he heads for the vendor's locker room. "I have to go in now and put on this tuxedo," he quipped. "I'll be right back."

Then it happened. The door opened and there he stood. Donning a baseball helmet and his work clothes, he looked like any other vendor. That is, until he opened his mouth. "On a Clear Day Rise and Look Around You." The sweet baritone sounds began and would continue throughout the day.

"The songs I sing depend on the type of day and the type of crowd," said Leake, who has been vending at Chicago ball games for 12 years. "Why do I sing? Well, I found it's a lot easier than hollering. I'm off and running."

He strolls through the aisles, snapping his fingers, bopping his head and swaying to his own music coupled with that provided by the ball park organist. "You can take peanuts out of the country but you can't take the country out of peanuts — oh yeah." He makes parodies out of cigarette and soft drink commercials, jazzing them up with his own lyrics. "Things go better with peanuts. Peanuts taste good as a peanut should."

For a moment he's serious — serenading a teenager with "The Shadow of Your Smile," and a senior citizen with "Baby Face, You've Got the Cutest Little Baby Face." Then it's time again to sell. "What the world needs now is peanuts more peanuts," Leake's rendition of a popular Bert Bacharach melody.

The crowd is pleased. They've already gotten their money's worth sometimes even before the first pitch is ever tossed. Some can't help purchasing peanuts from Leake, even if they don't have the munchies. Others, who might be craving for a bag of salted in the shells, will wait as long as they have to for the "singing peanut man" to return to their section before they would buy from anyone else.

"I Left My Heart In San Fransisco,"
"Oh You Beautiful Doll," "Summertime,"
"More," "Alfie," "For Once In My Life," and "Take Me Out To The Ball Game."
All are among Leake's repertoire.

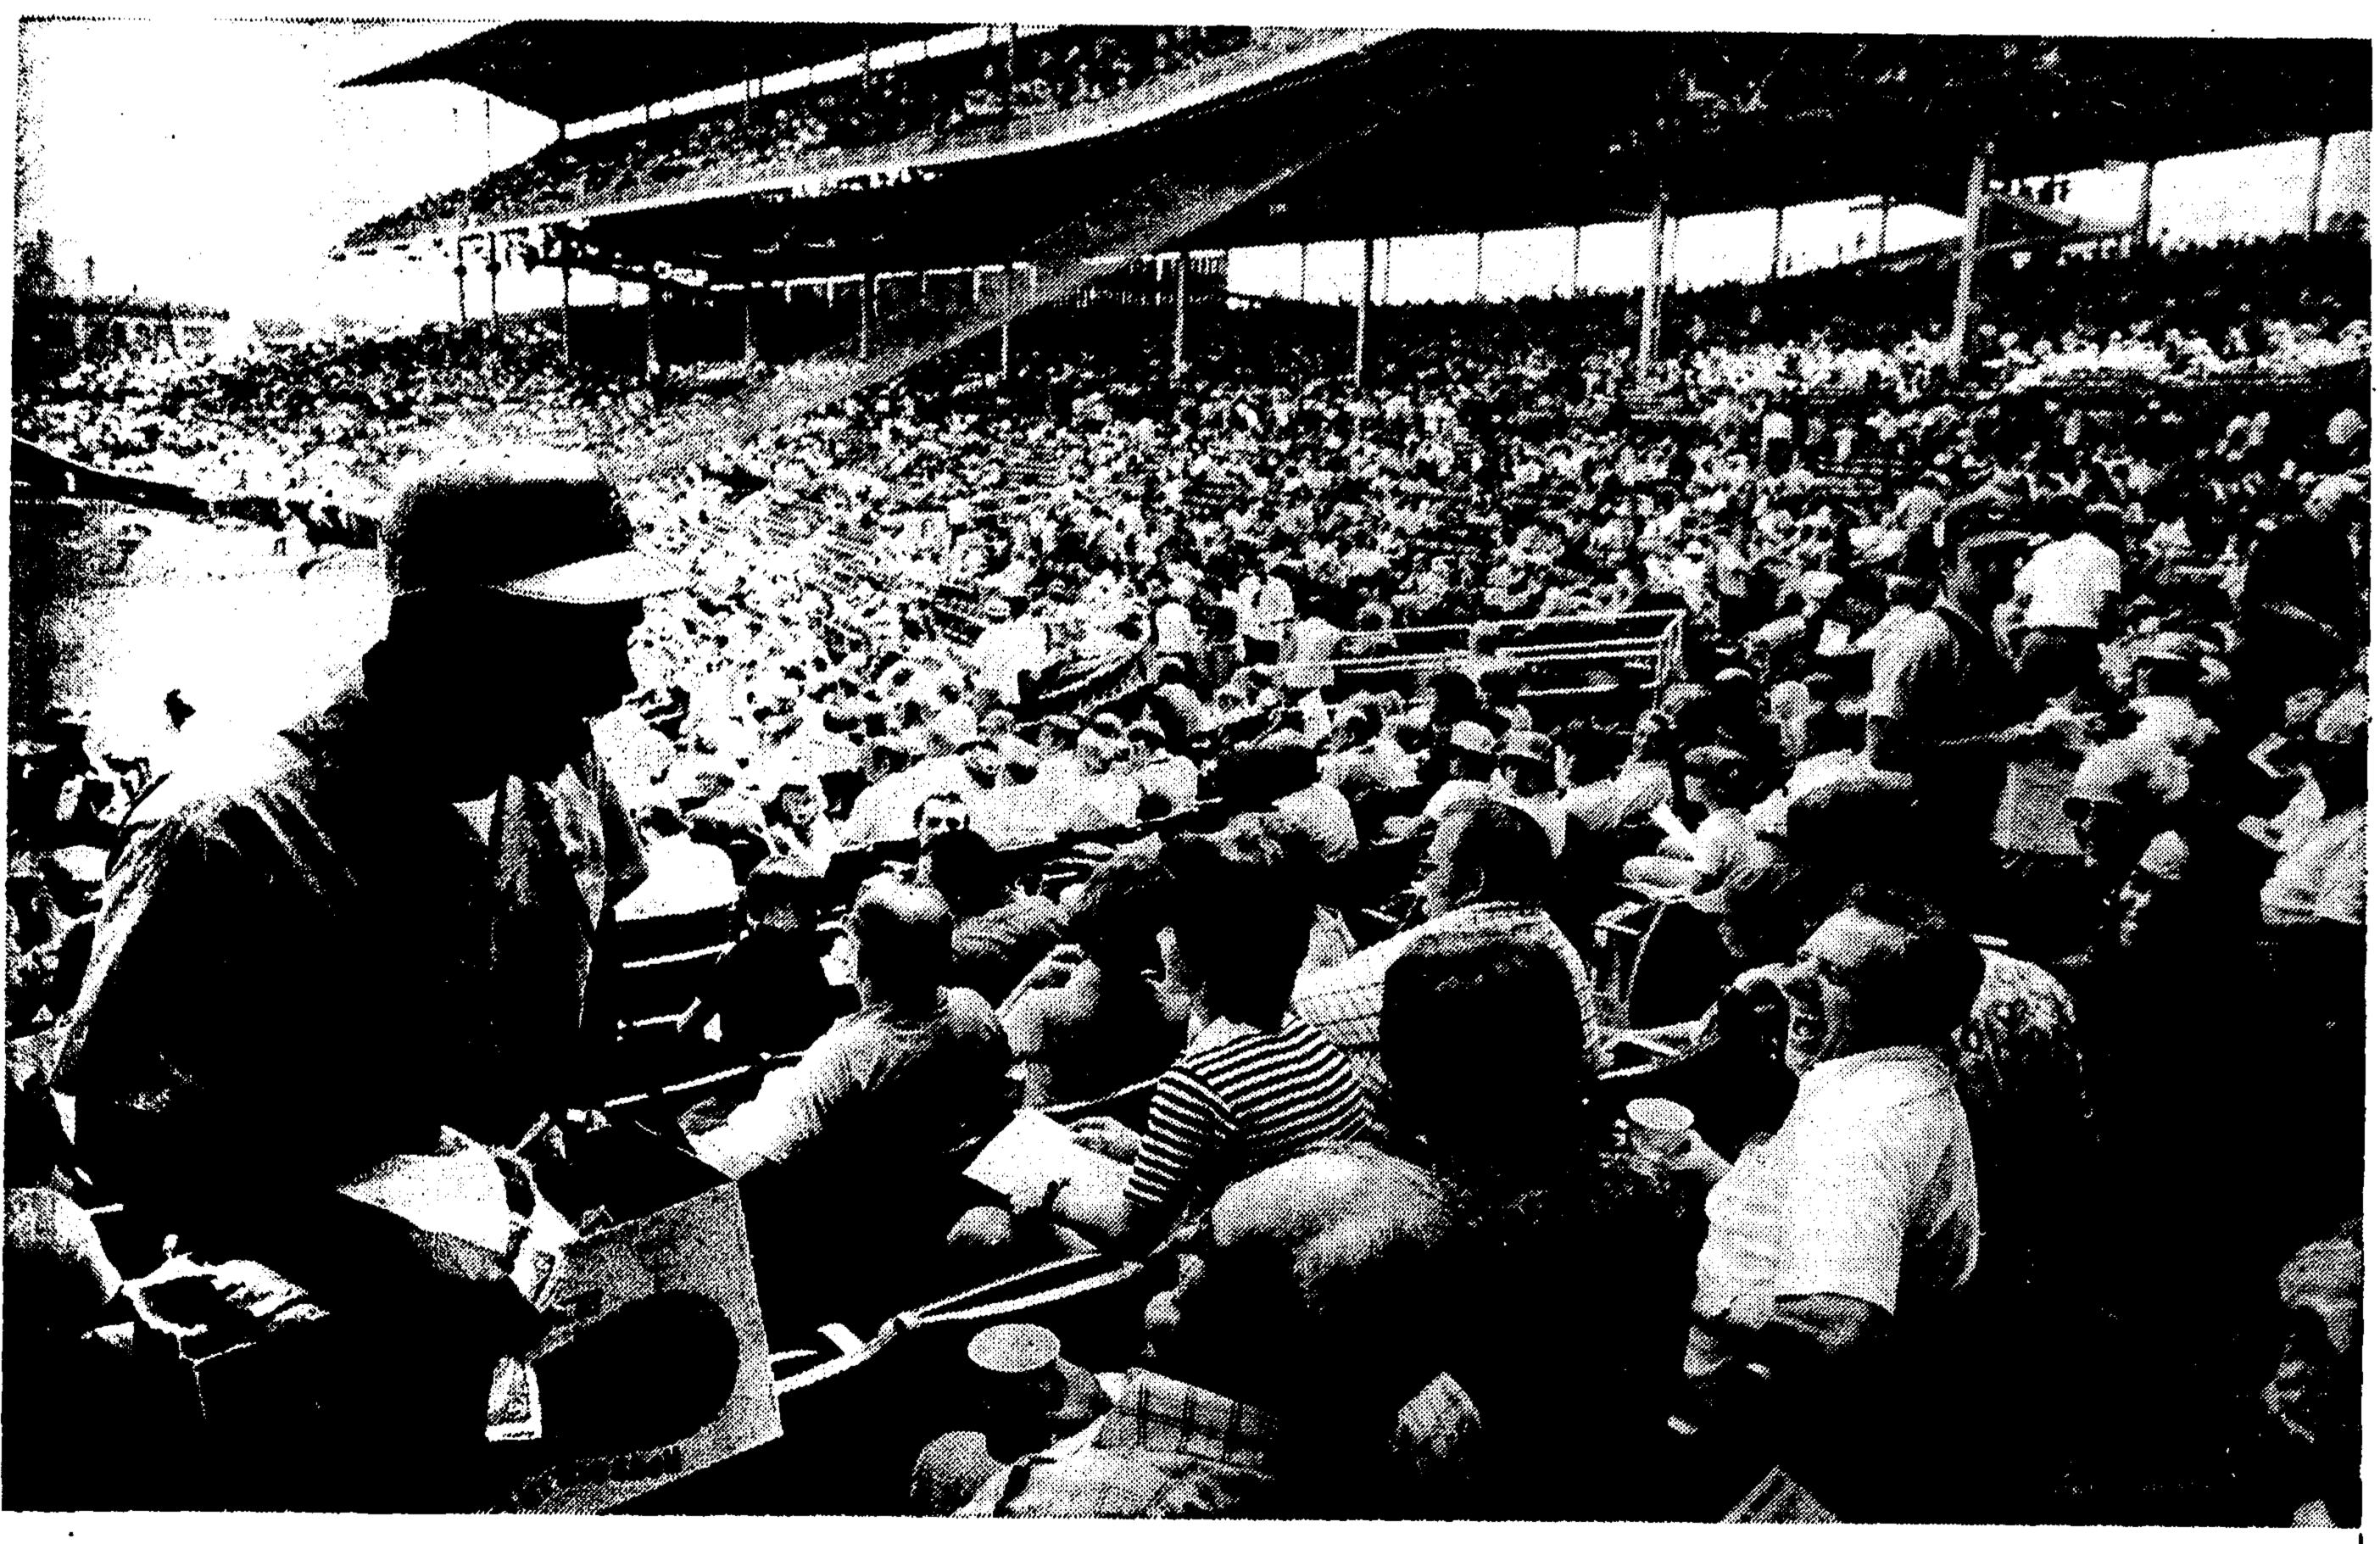

He charms his patrons and croons whatever tunes they request as he worms his way through the lower deck stands from left field to right field. He'll begin with a few beautiful bars then suddenly break into a falsetto, "Peanuts," mimmicking Flip Wilson's Geraldine.

The crowd roars and applauds for Leake as if Chicago had just won the World Series. "You don't strain nearly as much when you say something in that high voice," he explains. "It's a lot easier."

Leake, a native of Centralia, Ill., has been a musician most of his life, playing night clubs, weddings and private parties with a jazz combo comprised of himself, his brothers and cousins. And he's got a song for everyone. For the kids, it's "Mickey Mouse." For the Bleacher Bums it's "Song Sung Blue" or "Southern Nights." They join hands and sway in unison heralding his visit to the outfield. "Hey there's the peanut man," yells one fan as he sees him coming. They dig into their pockets for change. "Peanuts for everyone," cries a generous fan. They cheer for the man in the helmet — their friend.

says the vendor would look like Ernie Banks if it weren't for his Clark Gable like moustache. "All right. Oh yeah. I feel like I'm 16. Three bags? That's a triple. Four bags? That's a grand slam. All right." It's all relative.

Pizza, bottle of beer, red hots. Those pitches from nearly 200 other barkers are muffled by Leake's melodic delivery. "Times Are Gettin' Tough." He begins another song yet manages to concentrate on giving his customers the correct change and meticulously folds his bills between his thumb and two fingers.

"Cubs gonna win today? Why sure," Leake guarantees. "Oh yeah. We're gonna win." A few bags of peanuts later, though, he admits he is less interested in the game than he is in those who have come to watch it.

"I enjoy people more than they think I do," Leake said. "Some you see over and over again. It's nice to be able to reach a kid and then you reach their parents or any other grown-ups and you make them smile. The more kids I have around, that's when I have the most fun."

Ironically, Leake and Clara, his wife of 42 years, have no children. They are content with themselves, others they meet through their work and their 10-year-old talking myna bird, Scotty.

His eyebrows are raised, his veins are bulging from his neck, he winks and he belts out another one for the crowd's enjoyment. They sing along with him. A woman hands him a piece of fried chicken. Someone offers him a sip of beer. Then the ultimate. A fan gives him some peanuts. "I love them," Leake said. "They energize. But now it's time to go to the store and get some more." Leake's way of saying his bin is empty and he must return to the commissary for a refill. "I'll be back." The fans are comforted.

Leake's first experience with vending came in 1965 when some of his friends at the post offices told him how they were moonlighting at it. The first year he sold soft drinks but gave that up because, "It soils your clothes. I don't sell pizza or beer because it's too heavy. These peanuts weigh about 10 pounds. That's not very heavy."

Leake admits to having fantasized about the vending business a few years back. "I remember seeing a movie with Dan Dailey and he was a vendor," he recollects. "And the manager asked him about a play and he told the manager what to do and they won the game. Wow. But I can't remember the name of that movie. Anyway, I never get that close to the teams."

He works Comiskey Park at night and Wrigley Field on the weekends. His responsibilities to the postal service come first. But Leake's peanut hawking doesn't end with the baseball season. When the Bears are in town, he vends at Solider Field. He rests through basketball and hockey. He's never been to Chicago Stadium.

"In a few more minutes I'm going to get myself a beer," Leake says as he wipes his perspiring brow with the terrycloth face towel he carries on hot muggy days. "It's like my security blanket. Let's go back into the shade."

Leake says the upper deck ordinarily is not his territory. However, he recalls one time "I went up there for about 15 or 20 minutes to entertain some retarded kids" from a local institution. That's just how he is - perhaps the only vendor in town who would rather make someone happy than make a few dollars. He ends up about $50 richer after every game, working at least 125 matches each year. But Leake is not into vending for the money. While the others are sprinting around the stadium trying to sell as much merchandise as they possibly can, Leake takes it all at a leisurely stride stopping to shake hands and chat with the many people he meets.

"I'm not like that other peanut vendor they call the Road Runner," Leake said. "They just call me Peanuts. And wherever I am meeting people and talking with them that's when it's most fun."

"Yesterday, all my troubles seemed so far away." It's time for another tune. Someone in the crowd asks him what's on his mind. Leake says "nothing," and it's good to keep that on your mind. He is thinking about the future — but not about the end of the day. He's not tired. In fact, he says he's feeling pretty good. He might even go play nine holes after the game. He's thinking about three years from now, when he plans to retire from the post office and call it quits as well with his vending career. "It's those people," he sounds again like Lenford Leake not the singing peanut man. "I'm really going to miss them."§

Focusing on the heavens at the Doane Observatory

by Gerry Kern

The blue and orange hues of sunset filtered in through the big slit above and onto the slick white shell of the telescope.

The voice of astronomer Larry Cuipik echoed off the aluminum walls as he checked the alignment of big instrument and adjusted the electronic gadgetry attached to it.

"Those clouds are starting to move in. I hope we get something tonight," he said.

Cuipik crained his neck to peer over the telescope and through the opening in the dome. He spotted the bright star Vega, almost directly overhead, and wheeled the instrument around on its perfectly balanced axis to focus on his target.

Slowly, the image of the star appeared as a bright white spot on the gray background of the television monitor below. The camera was working.

The evening was somewhat special. It was the first time the public would be allowed inside the new $300,000 Doane Observatory behind Chicago's lakefront Adler Planetarium. Although it had opened a few days before, early August weather had been uncooperative. It had been rainy and overcast.

This night was a little better, but not perfect. The darkening sky was laced with drifting white wisps of clouds, and the city haze closed in all but a patch of blue overhead. Inside the planetarium building, the evening's show was finishing, and visitors would soon make the walk back to the observatory to see the new instrument. Whether they could see anything in the night sky would depend entirely on the weather conditions in the next few minutes.

Bugs still existed in the delicate television system hooked to the telescope, and the staff still had not perfected its routine. Disregarding the opening night jitters, and the marginal weather, Cuipik gave the signal to his assistants. The show would go on.

Inside the dark dome, bathed in the low red night lights, Cuipik fiddled with the controls on the instruments. The murmur of the 40-odd visitors could be heard as they filed onto the outside observation deck.

The osbervatory is a marriage of concrete and aluminum. Perched on the ledge above the lake, the building faces eastward. Sweeping concrete walls cloister the observers below the angular aluminum dome which guards the fragile instrument. An arc cut into the wall permits the star watchers to gaze out over the lake, and above, while screening them from the orange glow of the city lights.

It's like standing on the deck of a ship.

The Doane Observatory is unique. It is one of the few in the United States which is devoted entirely to public use. On clear evenings throughout the summer and clear Friday nights the rest of the year, visitors to the 7:30 p.m. skyshow performances under the dome of the Adler Planetarium are invited outside to the observatory where they can see celestial bodies first hand with the aid of staff astronomers. From now until June 15 of next year, the observatory will be open to the public only on Friday nights, weather permitting.

Construction was made possible by a grant to the Adler Planetarium from the estate of Ralph G. Doane, former owner of a Mundelein label-making firm. When Doane died in 1972 shortly after selling his business to Xerox, the family donated the money for the observatory as a gift to the City of Chicago.

But the observatory is unique for other reasons. It's not the place where visitors take turns peering into the eyepiece of the massive telescope. It would take too long for a group of up to 100 to look at stars, planets or galaxies in that way.

Instead, two television monitors on the observation deck broadcast what the telescope sees so that the entire group can watch at the same time. The television system also has another advantage. It can amplify and magnify electronically the images, enhancing the delicate spirals of distant galaxies, the craters of the moon and the smudgy "canals" of Mars.

The 16-inch telescope — described by the Planetarium staff as a "light bucket," gathers 2,300 times as much light as the human eye. With the aid of the television system, objects which are more than 10,000 times more faint than the naked eye can see, can be displayed on the monitors.

The telescope is powerful too. With the aid of the electronic equipment it can magnify up to 1,000 times. On clear nights it can discern the finest detail on the surfaces of planets, or the wispy filaments of nebulae. It can resolve detail as small as .3 seconds of arc — about one-third the diameter of a penny when seen with the unaided eye two miles away.

Although the telescope is a powerful one, it is not large enough for the kind of intense scientific work conducted at the nation's major research observatories. It is designed strictly for the layman with limited knowledge of astronomy, and used in several of the planetarium's basic astronomy courses. For those purposes it is more than adequate. Because so few instruments like it are made available to the public, the telescope and the observatory, are a significant cultural addition to Chicago.

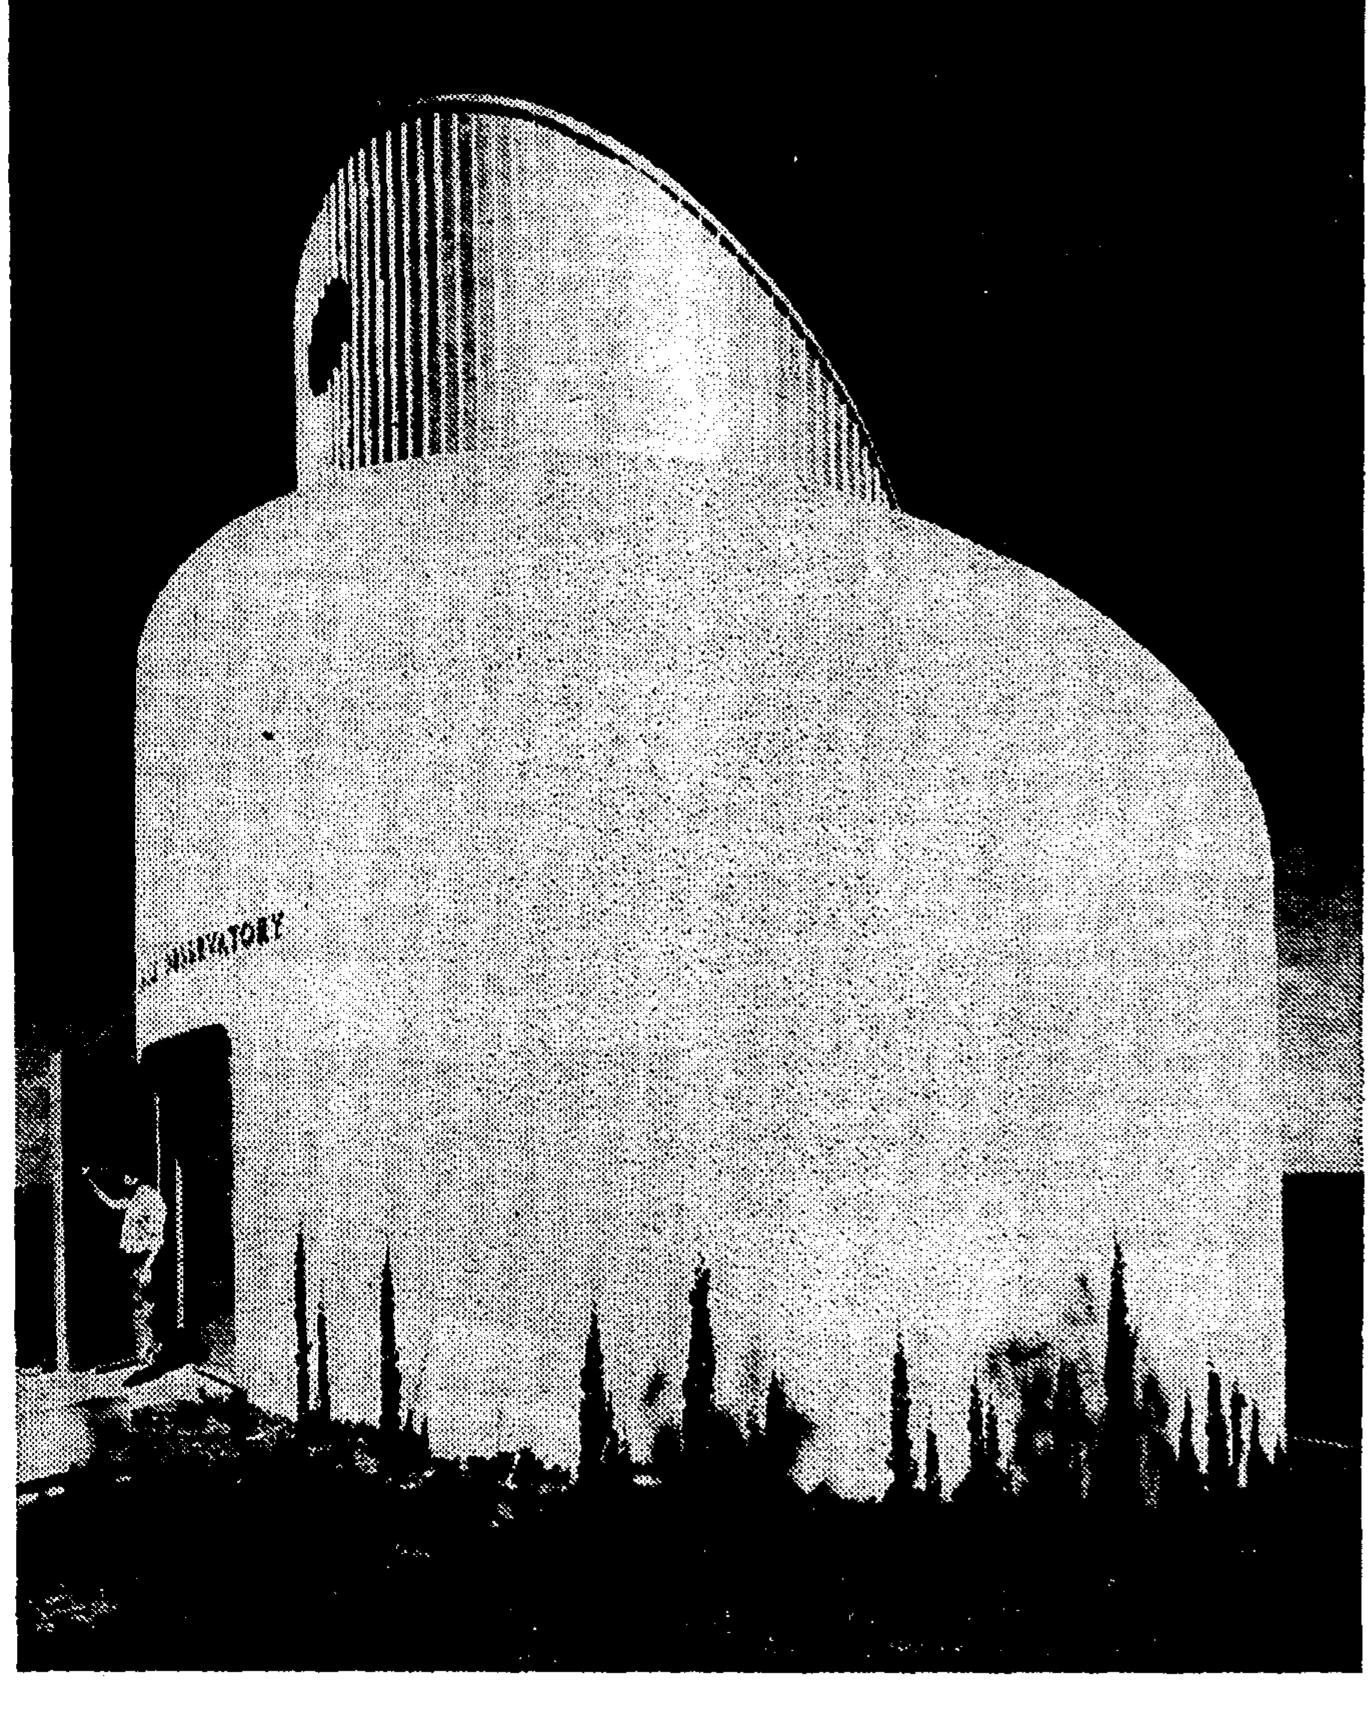

Outside, the crowd gathered around the guide who pointed to the stars above.

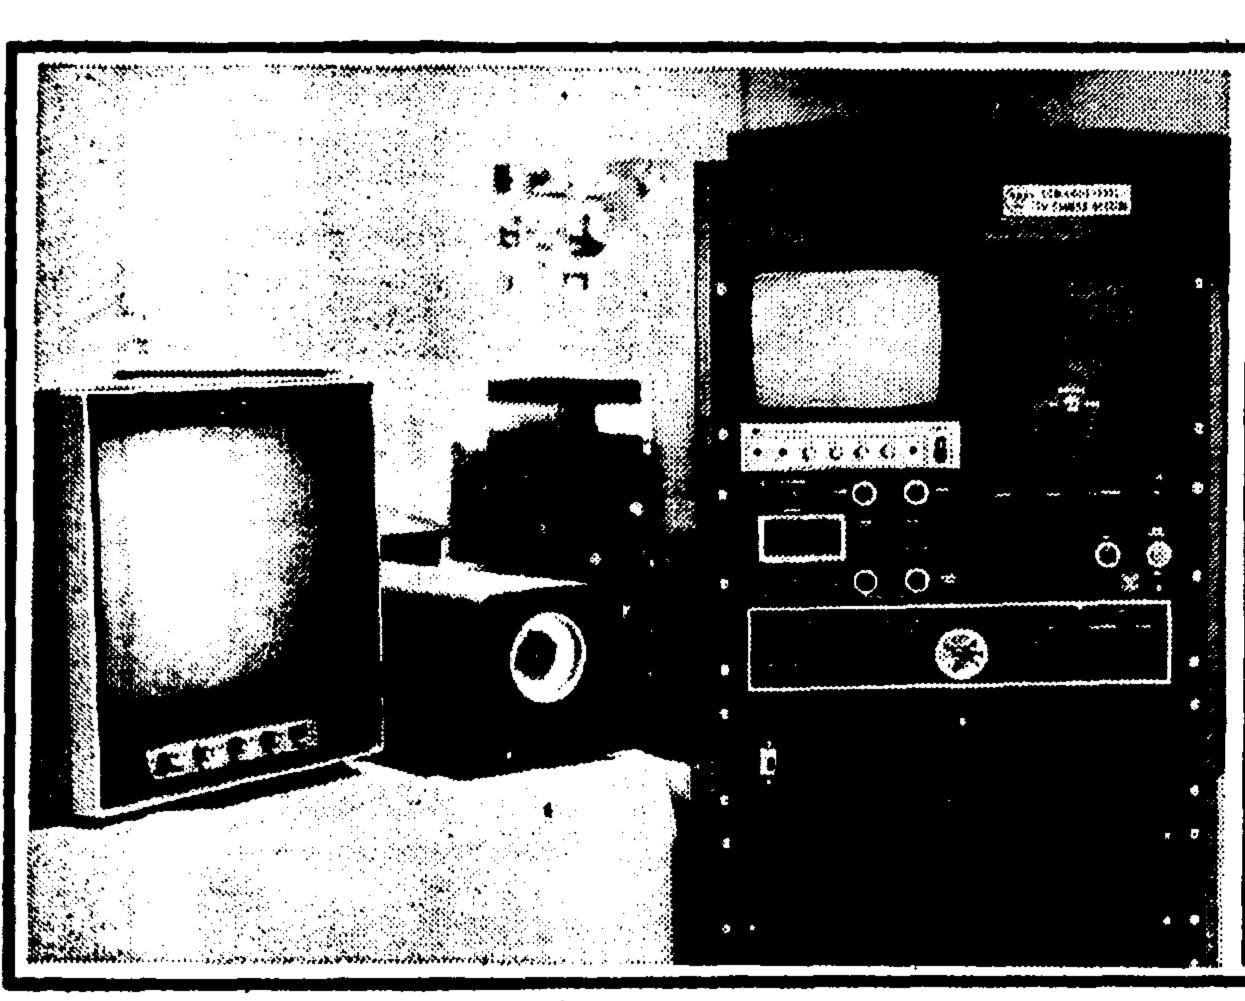

"The three bright stars you see form what we call the Summer Triangle," the guide explained. "Deneb is in Cynus, also called the Northern Cross, Vega is in Lyra and Altair is there in the constellation Aquila."

As the guide explained the current configuration of stars, Cuipik tried to lock onto the Ring Nebula, known to astronomers as M57 in the constellation Lyra. It's a small, dim object and the deteriorating sky conditions made it difficult to find.

A half-hour filled with tedious, frustrating adjustments passed, and outside the crowd grew restless waiting for an image to appear on the screens. The guide was running out of things to say about the constellations.

At your leisure

Navy Pier's Summer of '77 entertainment continues with a jazz-rock concert and performances by the Free Street Theater Labor Day weekend.

The Numa Band, a six-member jazz group headed by Mitch Hennes, electric bass player, will present a program of jazz-rock, bluegrass and some original music at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Navy Pier auditorium.

The Free Street Theater, which has been entertaining Chicagoans since 1969, will bring "The Third Duckling," a live music, theater and dance show to the pier at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Monday's program at the pier is a double feature with the Free Street Theater returning to the auditorium stage at 3:30 p.m. for "Mind's Eye," an abstract musical theater piece about perception and a cast of 12 presenting "I See You — Do You See Me?"

The programs are sponsored without charge by the City of Chicago. The only general admission ticket event will be "An Eveining of Pops" to be presented by the Chicago Pops Orchestra at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 9. Tickets are $4 and are on sale at Ticketron and the city hall lobby. Free parking has been arranged for the pops concert at two nearby City of Chicago parking lots and at the Kraft Food Co, lot at Peshtigo Court and Grand Avenue.

The fields will be ringing with the sounds of banjos and guitars Sept. 11 at the Farm Club, 60th and Garfield, Burr Ridge, Hinsdale, when the Service Auxiliary presents its first folk festival. Performers will include Chicago area troubadors Fleming Brown, Louise Dimicheli, Peggy Ford, James Durst, Red Gramer and folk-rock groups Steady Red and Silent Sounds.

The Farm Club, a program of the Ray Graham Assn. for the Handicapped, is an educational and recreational facility for mentally, physically and socially handicapped children and adolescents.

Rain or shine, the hootenanny will begin at 1 p.m. and last until dusk. Popcorn, beer and hot dogs will be the fare available for concert-goers who can bring a blanket to the farm's west pasture and join in a sing-along.

Parking will be at Hinsdale Central High School, 55th and Grant, Hinsdale. Tickets are $10 per person and may be ordered by sending a check to Farm Club Folk Festival, P. O. Box 224, Hinsdale, Ill. 60521 or by calling 654-8528, 887-9777 or 543-2440.

The music of Johann Strauss, Smetana, Mozart and Siegmeister will be included in the annual Labor Day concert presented at the Museum of Science and Industry by the Chicago Chamber Orchestra at 3:30 p.m. Monday.

The free program will be held on the south portico of the museum overlooking the Jackson Park lagoon. In case of rain, the concert will be in the museum's air-conditioned auditorium at 57th Street and Lake Shore Drive. Admission and parking are free.

When the coral reef tank closes Sept. 6 for extensive refurbishing, the surrounding planks and boards in the rotunda of the John G. Shedd Aquarium will be turned into a circular exhibit of photos. Photographs will depict the original construction of the coral reef tank and the renovation process. Peepholes will be placed strategically for the inquisitive of all sizes.

The rejuvenated coral reef tank is scheduled to open Nov. 18.

Doane:

and gradually it appeared on the television screen. A touch of the buttons and it appeared a little brighter. There it was — a circular smudge on the screen. To the average observer, not much. To those mildly interested in astronomy it was recognizable as the Ring.

"The Ring Nebula," the guide recited, "is called M57 because it is the 57th object recorded by a French astronomer named Messier." Messier was a comet hunter of the last century who recorded the locations of nebulae and star clusters so astronomers would not be confused when they searched for comets, which look very similar to nebula.

The guide told the crowd that M57 is the remains of a star which exploded millions of years ago. It is really a "smoke ring" puffed off by a star whose remnants can barely be detected in the center. The Ring Nebula is about 500 light years away, and the light viewers see left it before Columbus discovered America.

As the show wound down, two men who had been partying on the lake shore walked onto the deck, curious about the gathering. One looked up at the television screen and the blurry image on it.

"Why don't they put on the Cubs game?" he asked as both turned to walk out again.

"Guess you can't please everyone," somebody said. §

movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments. Films reviewed by Genie Campbell are rated excellent, four stars; good, three stars; fair, two stars; and poor, one star.

"The Spy Who Loved Me" — Roger Moore returns as 007 in a lavishly budgeted, rousingly constructed comic book come-to-life film. This time, Moore joins forces with a svelte Russian agent to quash Curt Jurgen's plans for world destruction. (PG). ***

"One on One" — Robby Benson co-wrote and stars in this college basketball story, a kind of "Rocky" on the courts, in which good guys finish first and love conquers all. The story doesn't have to be believed to be enjoyed, and the appealing performances help. (PG).

"Sorcerer" — Big, colorful, but impersonal suspense thriller about four outcasts trucking nitroglycerine through a South American jungle. Roy Scheider gives a strong performance, the visual effects are vividly convincing, and the tension groans to hair-raising proportions. But director William Friedkin forgets to clearly unrayel the story as he manipulates your pulse. (PG). **

"The Last Remake of Beau Geste" — Marty Feldman directed and co-wrote this wildly uneven but funny send-up of Hollywood's Foreign Legion sagas. Essentially a string of gags and set pieces in the Mel Brooks vein, the film starts marvelously but progressively loses steam. (PG). ***

"Star Wars" — Director George Lucas (American Graffiti") pulled out all stops in mounting this space fantasy about intergalactic warfare, and the dazzling filmmaking, technical wizardry and rousing adventure make for one of the most spectacular entertainments of this or any other year. Not a heavy, heady "2001" trip, it aims to entertain, and the sky is the limit. (PG). ***

"New York, New York" — He is a selfish saxophone player, she is a bright young singer in the big band era immediately following World War II. It is an ill-fated love story but director Martin Scorcese rarely allows the jazz-driven pace to falter. Great performances by Robert De Niro and Liza Minnelli among cardboard sets and golden glows that evoke the fashions and mood of the 1940s. **

CATLOW - Barrington - 381-0777 - "The Deep" (PG).

ELK GROVE — Elk Grove Village — 593-2255 — "Other Side of Midnight" (R).

GOLF MILL — Niles — 296-4500 — Theater 1: "Island of Dr. Moreau" (PG); Theater 2: "Smokey and the Bandit" (PG); Theater 3: "The Spy Who Loved Me" (PG).

PROSPECT — Mount Prospect — 253-7435 — "The Deep" (PG),

(PG), RANDHURST CINEMA — Mount Prospect — 392-9393 — "The

397,667 pairs of pork sausages.

41,551 ham hocks.

1.123 million gallons of beer,

Just a simple get-together with a few friends, right?

Actually the above list is from last year's. menu for what has been an annual gettogether in Munich for the past 167 years. It's an event so famous that it draws a million visitors to West Germany from other parts of Europe and North America. It's an event that is imitated in Midwestern cities and hamlets where pride is taken in ethnic heritage,

And if you haven't guessed what it is by now you probably don't have what it takes to hold your own in the beer tents on the grounds of Theresienwiese.

It's Oktoberfest, a 16-day binge of fun, food and foam in a city where celebration is a way of life, a city where one scarcely has time to catch his breath after one festival before another one begins.

The odd fact about Oktoberfest is that it always begins in September and only the last few days of the festival spill over into the month of October. This year's celebration is scheduled for Sept. 17 to Oct. 2.

And from all early indications it promises to be the same type of celebration that has made the festival so popular in previous years. There will be several huge beer tents each holding about 5,000 swaying people and a booming Bavarian band. Bavarian men and women in native costume will sit shoulder to shoulder at communal tables with visitors from around the world. Whether you speak German or not is of no consequence since all you need to know is "Ein prosit!," the traditional German toast, Any other bits of conversation will probably be drowned out by the compah band which can always be heard, if not seen, even in the furthest corners of the tent.

The featured attraction of all this commotion is, of course, the beer. Bavarian beer is, as any Bavarian will tell you, the best in the world. And the Bavarians ought to know because no one can drink it like they can.

The famous stoneware beer steins, Masskrug, hold one litre of the brew. Thirsty souls order "eine Mass" (one litre) while the more conservative say "eine Halbe" (half litre). "Hell" is pale and "dunkel" is dark beer. In every tent there is a force of about 200 to 250 eager waitresses to keep the beer flowing. They are veritable fortresses moving steadily through the shifting crowd. In each hand they carry as many as six steins, each filled to the brim, a feat that would test the muscle power of even the most practiced bartender.

But Man does not live by beer alone, at least not for very long. Some of the food specialties available during Oktoberfest are oxen roasted on a spit, steckerlfisch (fish roasted over charcoal fire), roast chicken, spare ribs, Schweinesuelz (head cheese) and a variety of sausages.

Oktoberfest had its beginning in 1810 when Crown Prince Ludwig, later to become King keg of beer. That's when the madness begins when it's all for one and one for all and one more for the road.

The event still takes place on Thereseinwiese, Munich's fairgrounds, where an amusement park, complete with roller coaster, and merry-go-round, is set up. On the first evening of the festival, Sept. 17 this year, the Folklore International Program featuring dances, songs, and the Markmen's Parade, is held in the Circus Krone at 8 p.m. The Octoberfest Costume and Markmen's Parade is held again the following morning at 10.

Tickets for reserved grandstand seats for Oktoberfest events can be purchased in Munich. Seats for the opening day parade are $3.50, admission to the Folklore International Program ranges from $3 to $6.25 and seats for the Sept. 18 morning parade are $10.50 and $11.25 (estimated cost based on exchange rate of German marks). Table reservations in the beer tents can be made on the festival grounds.

Oktoberfest guests are encouraged to use public transportation while in Munich. There are subways, rapid transit lines, streetcars and taxis.

But Oktoberfest is only one festival in a city that has more festivities than any other German town. The year in Munich begins with the second largest festival of the year, Fasching, which is kin to the New Orleans Mardi Gras and Carnival celebrations. It takes place during the weeks between January 7 (Twelfth Night or Epiphany) and Ash Wednesday. Revelers in gay costumes frolic in the streets and inflict their zaniness on even the most solemn visitors. There are masked balls, dances and parades.

Soon after Fasching concludes the local brewers stage a "strong beer festival." A second round of "strong beer" drinking comes in May when the beer gardens open. Visitors quench their thirsts with "Maibock" (May bock beer) which is consumed in the gardens overlooked by blooming chestnut trees.

Summer is a round of cultural festivals the ballet festival, the opera festival, and other music festivals — and before you know it it's September and time for Oktoberfest.

Munich is a city of more than 1.3 million inhabitants and covers an area of 120 square miles. Located at the northern edge of the Alpa, Munich is Bavaria's capital and Germany's third largest city. Munich is growing faster than any other town in the Federal Republic. There are new residential areas, growing suburbs, a new underground railway and various extensions of the expressways.

Munich is also Germany's biggest university city with some 55,000 students, many of whom are from abroad. The city is also noted for its enthusiasm for sports. There are some 370 athletic clubs in Munich, twentyfour sports grounds, and six indoor swimming pools. The city was the site of the 1972 Olympic games.

The city of Munich was established about a thousand years ago and served as a trading center. In 1180 the Duchy of Bavaria fell to the Wittelsbachs and in 1255 Munich became a royal residence and remained so until 1918 when the republic was established.

In the 14th Century, Emperor Louis, the Bavarian, laid out the old city including the fortifications of which the Karlstor, Sendlinger, Tor and Isartor gates still remain. The citizens wanted a representative church so Frauenkirche was built in 1468-88.

The Wittelsbachs were great patrons of the arts and laid the foundations of the city's finest collections. In 1806 Bayaria became a kingdom under Maximilian I who gave the city its Nationaltheater, but it is Ludwig I who is most remembered as Munich's great promoter. He is quoted as saying, "I will make of Munich a city that so redounds to the honour of Germany that none shall know Germany unless he has seen Munich."

Because of this history the Munich of today is an interesting mix of architecture. Cultural events — music, art and theater are still the lifeblood of the city.

The Alter Hof (old court) where Louis the Bavarian ruled, still stands in Munich today. Close by is the 16th Century Mint with a beautiful courtyard surrounded by pillars and arches. The Antiquarium with its vaulted roof is part of the Residenz which was built between the 16th and 19th centuries. Its various sections reflect the styles of the Renaissance, baroque and rococo periods and it also has a classical style thanks to Louis I.

Munich is a beautiful city but it is not characteristically "German." Rather, the city's architecture reflects the influences of the Greeks, Romans, Italians and French.

The beer wagon rolls through the streets of Munich opening the festivities of the annual Oktoberfest.

There's Schleissheim Castle, a fine example of baroque architecture, and Nymphenburg castle, the summer residence of the Bavarian electors, one of the most impressive castles in Europe. In the park surrounding Nymphenburg Castle lie three enchanting little chateaux including the Amalienburg, a masterpiece of rococo architecture.

If you like museums you had better plan to spend lots of time in Munich. The city has two dozen museums and galleries not counting the numerous private art galleries. Some of the more well-known ones are The Stadtmuseum (city museum) which features the history and culture of the city; the Bavarian Nationalmuseum which presents a comprehensive picture of Bavarian cultural history; the Alte Pinakothek, one of the most important art galleries in the world, featuring the largest collection of Rubens; and the Residenzmuseum with royal rooms in the style of the Renaissance, rococo and classical periods.

The Nationaltheater, the Domicile of the Bavarian State Opera, has seen many magnificent performances by famous artists. The opera's cultural roots go way back in time linking up with such notables as Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, Richard Wagner and Richard Strauss. There are also four permanent symphony orchestras in Munich to choose from as well as symphonies from around the world that come here frequently to give guest performances.

Visitors will find a wide range of theatrical performances to choose from in Munich ranging from marionette performances for children to productions of classical or modern dramatic works. The numerous private theaters in Munich are very competitive each trying to outdo themselves to capture the attention of the theater-going public.

Those who enjoy walking and sightseeing should visit Munich's Botanical Gardens and the Hellabrunn Zoo. The zoo, set in 173 carefully landscaped acres, is Germany's largest zoo and is famous for breeding rare animals including many which have long since died out in their original habitats.

Other popular attractions in Munich are the Olympia Tower, a 560-foot TV tower with rotating restaurant and observation platform with a fascinating view of the city and the Alps. Glockenspiel, in the tower of City Hall, is probably Munich's most famous attraction. At 11 a.m. each day the clock's mechanical knights come out of hiding for a joust.

Munich is also a popular city for shopping since the shopping districts have been converted into pedestrian malls. The main shopping district extends from the main, station to the Stachus which features an underground shopping center.

But if you're not interested in shopping there's always Schwabing, Munich's own Greenwich Village. Here in a bohemian atmosphere visitors come to dance, drink and flirt. The Leopoldstrasse, Schwabing's popular boulevard, is lined with sidewalk cafes, bars and discos frequented by students, artists and various other intellectuals. If you are not lucky enough to be in Munich during the Oktoberfest season go to Schwabing. Here the gaiety of Oktoberfest is a nightly occurance, §

Walk across the "Mighty Mac" and the straits of Mackinac this Labor Day.

Special events for the holiday weekend

If you are looking for something to do and some place to go this Labor Day weekend here are two events that might make for interesting weekend trips.

The Mississippi Valley Folk Festival is being held for the first time in St. Louis, Mo, this year while in Michigan an annual event, the Labor Day walk across the Mackinac Bridge, is once again expected to draw hundreds of participants and onlookers.

The theme of the Mississippi Valley Folk Festival this year will be "The Way West" and it is the first such festival bringing together native American, ethnic, Afro-American and Anglo-American traditions as they were during the time of the westward expansion through St. Louis and across the United States.

The three day festival will be held on the grounds of the Gateway Arch in St. Louis starting today and continuing through Monday. There will be a variety of daytime activities and evening concerts exploring American solk culture as it moved westward across this continent through the mediums of music, dance and crafts.

Some types of traditional music that will be heard during the festival are old-time fiddling and string bands, ballad singing, blues, gospel singing, Irish fiddling and piping, cowboy songs, bluegrass and more.

Some of the crafts featured will be broom making, weaving, crockery, instrument making, cider pressing and others.

The Mississippi Valley Folk Festival is sponsored by the Jefferson National Expansion Historical Assn. and the National Park Service in conjunction with the Missouri Friends of the Folk Arts, the National Council for the Traditional Arts and the Missouri Arts Council.

St. Louis is about a 6-hour drive from the Northwest suburbs and is reached by taking I-294 to I-55 southwest.

What has long been a Labor Day tradition in Northern Michigan will take place once again Monday in the Michigan cities of St. Ignace and Mackinaw City.

Some folks may call it "kooky" but thousands and thousands who have participated in the Mackinac Bridge Walk say it's a ball. Once again this year everyone is invited to join in the hike from St. Ignace on the Upper Peninsula across the "Mighty" Mac" and the straits of Mackinac to Mackinaw City.

In conjunction with the walk St. Ignace is holding its annual "Black Gown Tree" Pageant. The musical-dramatic pageant commemorates the founding of the city and the greatness of its founder, Father Jacques Marquette.

The Mackinac Bridge is about a 9-hour drive from the Northwest suburbs and is reached by taking I-94 to Battle Creek, north on I-69 to Lansing then north on Hwy. 27 and I-75 to Mackinaw City.

A visit to Paris is always exciting and particularly rewarding if you're into the

The 12th Paris Summer Festival, going on through Sept. 23, is a rare musical experience, culminating in an international harpsichord contest. A number of concerts precede the competition.

African culture is highlighted in the 7th Paris Autumn Festival, starting early September and running the end of October. Concerts, dance, expositions, films and seminars highlight the festival.

"The range of artistic efforts in Paris is unparalleled," said Andre Sonier, managing director of the famous George V Hotel, He speaks from the vantagepoint of the connoisseur as the George V has one of the most impressive private art collections in the French capital.

"With the Autumn Festival barely out of the way, we have the Paris International Dance Festival, Nov. 14 to Dec. 11," Sonier said. "And the happenings go on and on."

Eight ballet companies will perform during the dance festival, including Theatre Polonais de la Danse and Danza Nacional de Cuba.

Continuous gallery exhibitions are part of the Paris scene as are the great national theaters, the Paris Opera and the famous museums, many of them with special fall and winter shows.

Tour the enchanting Rhineland by boat

For first-time visitors to Germany, a Rhine cruise is a must trip. Thousands of Americans have relaxed on the decks of modern river steamers and watched the steep, vineyardcovered banks slide by. They have photographed the majestic Rhine castles, been captivated by the legend of the Lorelei and been enchanted by the picturesque villages that nestle along the banks of this great river.

But while most consider the Rhine River and the Rhineland as one, there is far more to this region. The expansive area centered about the Mosel, Ahr, and Nahe rivers and valleys also has much to offer the adventurous tourist.

The Mosel River, a tributary of the Rhine, is not as grand in scope as big brother, but in many ways equally attractive and charming. Its special luster comes not only from its physical beauty, but being off the proverbial beaten track, the countryside is less crowded, less frenetic and less expensive,

While the Rhine flows to and through major European centers of commerce and industry, the Mosel's banks are dotted with quaint cities and towns of incomparable charm. Winningen, Cochem and Bernkastel are three of the more popular wine-growing centers, typical of the jewel-like towns one finds nestled amidst the terraced hills where the region's famed wine grapes grow.

The largest city in the Mosel Valley region is 2,000-year-old Trier, where six Roman emperors made their home. Here stands outstanding examples of architecture dating from ancient Rome. Trier was founded by Emperor Augustus in 15 B.C., and the largest fortified gateway in the Roman Empire, the Porta Nigra, still stands guard over the city limits.

To the north of the Mosel is the narrow Ahr River valley, the most northerly winegrowing district in the world and where most of Germany's red burgundy "rotwein" is produced. Since little of this vintage wine is exported, a sampling of the hearty local specialty is advised.

South of the Mosel is the Nahe, another tributary of the Rhine. Entry point to this charming district is the Rhine wine town of Bingen where the expression, "going on a binge," was coined by the British in tribute to the drinking capacity of the natives. Right across the river from Bingen stands Rudesheim, the best known and liveliest of the Rhine river towns with its popular Drosselgasse that is lined with wine tayerns and crowded by day and night.

But this region west of the Rhine has many attractions away from rivers, too. There are the Eifel Mountains, for example, whose steep, picturesque hills stand among the craters of dead volcanos. On the Laacher Sea, largest of the many lakes within these craters, is found the famous Abbey Maria Laach, built by Benedictine Monks between 1093 and 1156. The area immediately surrounding the lake is a wildlife preserve with numerous hot springs.

The Rhineland area is also as rich in bads

or health spas. One of the most popular of these health resorts is Bad Neuenahr located in the Ahr Valley. It offers far more than the healthful baths. There's fine food, exceptional sports facilities - tennis, golf, riding, swimming — and an internationally renown casino.

Nearby, is the famed Eltz Castle, perhaps the best known and most beautiful fairy tale castle in the entire country. It dates back to the legendary 10th Century knight and tournament jouster, Georg von Elce. Different generations of his family added haphazardly to their own parts of the castle, so now it bristles with towers and pinnacles reaching skyward from its perch on a narrow ridge of slate rock.

Any tour of the area would not be complete without a visit to Mainz, another city founded by Romans more than two thousand years ago. Despite its population — nearly 200,000 people live there — it remains essentially a provincial wine town. It is a festive city with an annual wine fair in August and September, a celebrated All Fools' Day parade during Spring Carnival time and a Guttenberg festival in June to honor the city's favorite son, the inventor of the printing press. There is also a Guttenberg museum, which traces the history of printing. A tour of the magnificent 10th Century Mainz Cathedral is another memorable experience.

Within the Rhineland region, too, there are larger cities that may be old in time, but now pulsate to the beat of a different drummer, Dusseldorf, for instance, is known as Germany's Paris. It is the nation's fashion center, and a city in which the traditional and modern stand and thrive side by side.

Then there's Cologne, landmark city of the Rhine. While many feel its chief tourist attraction is the famed cathedral, many others find its major attraction to be the joyous people who inhabit the city, Each year from New Year's Eve to Ash Wednesday, their famed Carnival infects the entire city and innocent merriment is the call of the day and night.

Just 40 miles west of Cologne where the borders of Germany, Belgium and Holland converge, stands the city of Aachen also known as Aix-la-Chappelle. Long identified as the imperial city of Charlemagne, for 600 years the Kings of Germany were crowned here but Aachen initially gained its fame as a Roman spa as far back as the first century, foreigners are jetting to America to vacation at dude ranches high in the Colorado Rockies.

"In certain seasons, we get quite a bit of overseas business, particularly from Germany and Japan," says Robert Foster. "The western movies have created this, They want to see western cowboys."

"They think it's pretty neat," said Foster. "Most of them can speak enough English to enjoy the West."

Foster operates the Lost Valley Ranch outside of Sedalia, one of Colorado's many high country dude ranches. A former Los Angeles businessman, Foster moved his family to a guest ranch 17 years ago because he was tired of the big city pace,

The dude ranches in the Rockies range from small operations handling twenty to thirty guests at one time to those such as Karl Boehm's Peaceful Valley Ranch near Allenspark, west of Denver, which can handle 150 persons.

For rates ranging from about $175 to $350 per week, a guest can go horseback riding, herd cattle, swim, fish, climb a mountain, tour a ghost town, inspect abandoned gold mines or sit on the lodge porch and read a mystery. There's square dancing at night.

The rates cover lodging and three meals a day. Ranch lakes are stocked with fish for the angler who wants a change of pace from mountain streams and some of the ranches have built tennis courts.

The standard dress for vacationers is blue jeans. Telephones and television are frowned upon. The simple life extends to menus featuring meat and potatoes, soup and lots of bread.

sauna as well as a heated swimming pool. He also built a non-denominational alpine chapel on the side of the mountain for Sunday services.

"Last week, we had one family from Malasia and one from Germany," said Boehm, "People all over the world are impressed with the West."

Boehm said he had used an interpreter to teach Japanese guests who couldn't speak English how to ride a horse.

Dude rancing also is responsible for pumping millions of dollars into Colorado's economy, according to Les Branch, director of the state's Dude & Guest Ranch Association at Denver. Branch said the Midwest, Southwest and East Coast provide most of the domestic visitors.

Branch said guests want to "get away from it all. I think the normally cool nights, an escape from smog and the problems of the big cities are responsible."

Branch said the dude ranches catered almost exclusively to families "and in some of the smaller ranches with a limited number of guests you're almost part of the family anyway. It's that informal kind of atmosphere." (urn

Lufthansa offers group fares to Munich

Five new tours from Lufthansa German Airlines guarantees first-class or deluxe hotel rooms in Munich during the busy Oktoberfest period this year. They provide the money-saving advantages of flying to Europe at low group fares and show vacationers other parts of Germany and Austria as well as Munich. Tour departures begin in mid-September.

Eight-and nine-day tours offer a choice of Germany alone or in combination with Austria. A 15-day itinerary covers both countries. Prices of $309 to $395 for the shorter tours and $689 for the two-week program include, in addition to hotels, continental breakfasts daily, some dinners, transfers between airports and hotels, motorcoach transportation between European destinations, sightseeing tours, baggage handling and tips, hotel service charges and taxes. Air fare is additional. A professional tour escort is with the group throughout the 15-day itinerary. On eight-and nine-day tours, an English-speaking driver/guide takes travelers from city to city.

All Oktoberfest itineraries spend two or three nights in Munich, where sightseeing tours take in some of the city's other, more sedate, features. Vienna, which is part of every Austria/Germany itinerary, still suggests the world of Strauss waltzes and Lehar operettas — in the graceful boulevards that curve around the city center, the coffee houses where the Viennese sit reading their newspapers at marble-topped tables, the Vienna Boys' Choir singing in a Gothic chapel, the sound of zithers and accordions in wine gardens and cozy taverns.

Combination itineraries also visit either Innsbruck or Salzburg, the former an old world city in the heart of the Austrian Tyrol, the latter a baroque city on the Salzach River that was Mozart's birthplace.

Two nights in the old university town of Heidelberg on both the eight-day and nine-day all-Germany tours provide time to explore the castle ruins perched high above the winding Neckar River and the student quarter as well as to take the Philosophers' Walk up the opposite bank of the river—for a panoramic view of Heidelberg and its castle.

Germany - only tours also include the Romantic Road which winds through towns and villages whose medieval character is almost intact. The nine-day "Panoramic Germany" tour spends two nights in Rothenburg, one of the best-preserved towns in Europe. The eight-day "Scenic Germany" overnights in Nuremberg, whose Altstadt (Old Town) is a collection of houses and municipal buildings that date from the Middle Ages or have been reconstructed in the original style.

The two-week tour adds other German highlights: a Rhine River cruise, the cathedral city of Cologne, the casino city of Constance on the lake that bears its name, and Baden-Baden, a spa that has been an international favorite since the Emperor Caracalla journeyed there from Rome in search of a cure for rheumatism.

Additional tour details are available through travel agencies or from Lufthansa.

Some of the features include a tour bus with an electric rear loading platform for wheelchairs, a fishing raft especially equipped to hold wheelchairs, hotels for the physically handicapped which have such special features as ramps, low illuminated lightswitches which can be reached from a wheelchair and specially equipped toilets.

With Chicago departures scheduled for Sept. 29 and Oct. 13, the 15-day trip is priced at $1,949 complete. All meals are included, and one of them is dinner at Stockholm's famous "Operakallaren," considered to be one of the finest restaurants in Europe. The Sheraton-Stockholm is used in that city, and restaurants and hotels of similar calibre are selected throughout.

Before leaving Stockholm for a 10-day tour of Sweden, there is a full-day boat excursion to the Aland Islands in Finland. Three of the ten touring days are spent in Norway, including an all-day fishing trip. The Scandinavian autumn foliage will be in full color for the drive through Sweden and Norway.

It is requested that each physically handicapped person be accompanied by a friend or family member to assist them at the hotel. All assistance will be given outside the hotel rooms.

Vacation at Korea's war zone; only $13.20 will buy you a tour

by Robert C. Miller

Only in South Korea will $13.20 buy a rubberneck tour of the probable site of another war.

In their drive to attract tourists to the Land of the Morning Calm, the South Koreans offer a little bit of Las Vegas, a few thousand-year-old tombs, excellent accommodations, clothing cheaper than Hong Kong and a chance for visitors to startle the cocktail crowd back home with the casual remark:

"When I was up on the DMZ the other day..."

Air conditioned tour buses make the 45-mile run from Seoul to the southern boundary of the Demilitarized Zone where tour guides explain that this is where the North Korean invasion started 27 years ago and, if North Korean Premier Kim Il Sung keeps his promise to unify Korea by force, this is where the future battle will begin.

A large restaurant and bar along with a souvenir shop have been built at the end of "Freedom Bridge," all within earshot of occasional artillery fire from the South Korean and American troops on various training exercises along the DMZ.

Sung Kwan Chung, executive vice president of the Korea National Tourism Corp., said there were 830,000 visitors to South Korea last year, and more than a million are expected this year. The vast majority are Japanese, most of whom take the boat from Japan to Pusan on the southern tip of the peninsula.

"Our hope is to entice more European and American tourists by offering cheap group tours," Sung said. "We believe the less money it costs to visit Korea, the more people will have to spend enjoying our scenic attractions."

No country started out with a greater handicap in attracting tourists than South Korea. Hundreds of thousands of American and their Korean War allies returned home with horror stories of the climate and the country. There were a few guarded confessions that "under ordinary conditions" South Korea might be a livable, beautiful country. But nobody expected those conditions for at least a century or two:

Today the Koreans offer 11,000 first class hotel rooms, four gambling casinos, Japanese-efficient trains, Americanized buses and super highways, and special duty free prices that exempt visitors from the 20 per cent defense tax.

A new 1050-room hotel in downtown Seoul is due for completion early next year to help ease the burden now carried by the Seoul Plaza, New Chosun and other skyscraper hotels catering to western visitors. A new casino-hotel is due to open in October at Pusan Beach.

Unlike Japan, where you either read Japanese or get hopelessly lost, nearly all signs in Korea are written in Korean and English. English is definitely the second language and an ignorance of Korean is of little consequence.

South Korea, like North Korea, The People's Republic of China and the Philippines, is a police state where security precautions have been tightened since a band of North Korean terrorists posing as Japanese tourists murdered President Park Chung Hee's wife.

No hand baggage is allowed to be carried on Korean Air Lines in-country flights, and the curtains must be drawn on all flights landing at Pusan.

The night life is probably the cheapest and most exciting in Asia. The government-licensed casinos offer just about everything available at Vegas including keno, craps, blackjack and baccarat.

To discourage the locals, all Koreans must pay a $30 U.S. admission fee. Tourists pay only $1. Previously no Koreans were allowed in the casinos unless accompanied by a foreigner.

Seoul, with its 7 million population, was once an ancient capital and many of the old palaces and temples remain alongside the modern skyscrapers in the downtown area. But the most famous temples and tombs are at Gyeongju which was the capital of the Silla Kindgom during its heyday a thousand years ago.

Unlike the Egyptian tombs which were plundered by grave robbers, the royal tombs in this beautiful valley near Taegu are still intact. Those that have been excavated by archeologists were filled with gold and jeweled artifacts worth millions, most of which are now housed in the Gyeongju National Museum.

South Korea's big invasion of the textile industry has produced hundreds of tailor shops in Seoul where hand-made woolen and woolen polyester suits range in price from $30 to $150 with 48-hour delivery guaranteed.

Resort hotel rooms run about $15 U.S. a day. Although there is no blackout, there is a nightly curfew from midnight until 6 a.m. throughout most of Korea. (UPI)

Lord concentrates on detail, research

"I would not want to cover a fight between Joe Frazier and Muhammad Ali because they are two professionals who know what they are doing. I'd rather be at a barroom brawl, looking to see who jumps into the fight and who hides under the table." — Walter Lord, author of "Lonely Vigil."

by Bob Gallas

Walter Lord is a writer who looks as though he would be more at home in front of a university history class. Fiftyish, with glasses falling down his nose and gray creeping up his temples, the mild-mannered author in the rumpled suit is an historian. But unlike many of his counterparts, Lord does not spout textbook facts.

Instead, he re-creates history for himself, as if returning in time to some of the world's greatest confrontations, "where ordinary people are thrown into unexpected or extraordinary situations." He then puts the events to paper in a way that makes time stand still as those events again come to life.

The author of ten best-selling books, such as "A Night to Remember," (on the sinking of The Titanic), "Day of Infamy," (Pearl Harbor) and "Incredible Victory" (Battle of Midway in WWII), Lord's latest work is "Lonely Vigil," which tells a story that has long needed telling — the life of World War II coastwatchers in the South Pacific.

"I like to think of myself as a chronicler of events," said Lord, who logged 40,000 miles of travel, including a 3-day trip into the bush on Guadalcanal to an old coastwatcher station, in writing "Lonely Vigil." "I write biographies of events, not people."

Very little has been written about the men who kept the Allies informed of Japanese ship and air movements from far behind enemy lines. The idea for the book was originally conceived by Lord in 1947 after he had read James Michener's "Tales of the South Pacific."

"There's a chapter in that book that deals with a fictional coastwatcher," Lord explained during a recent visit to Chicago, "The chapter posed the question, what would make a man do such a thing? I kept asking myself the same question."

His earnest interest in writing a book on coastwatchers started in 1965, while writing a book on the Battle of Midway. He kept coming across accounts of coastwatcher heroics, which included the rescue of many downed American flyers. In 1973, he began what was to be four years work on "Lonely Vigil."

Using a device he has used while writing other historical works, Lord began rounding up interviews with former coastwatchers, downed flyers, missionaries and others by placing ads or writing letters to the editors, of Australian newspapers. "I received great response. There was a bushel of mail waiting for me at Melbourne."

The interviews provided even more sources and Lord was surprised at the number of people he wanted to find who were still alive. He located fifteen of the top sixteen people he originally sought, from former coastwatchers who had gone back to their original ways of life to missionaries who were still working, one in the heart of Africa.

In addition, Lord poured through the U.S. Navy Archives, missionary records and countless other records and correspondence as he tried to piece together a portrait of life behind enemy lines, where every minute breathed danger.

"Our navy has little emphasis on the coastwatcher since it was primarily an Australian-run organization," explained Lord, who graduated from Princeton and the Yale Law School and served in the OSS during World War II. But he did find information in naval reports.

"A pilot would be befriended by a coastwatcher after being shot down and when he returned, would file a report. It was also easy to tell if a coastwatcher was involved in a pilot rescue. The longer the time between the crash and the time he was rescued, the better the chance there was a coastwatcher involved."

Lord's three-day trip into the jungle to an old coastwatcher lookout point gave him a feel for the lot of the men who risked their lives to provide intelligence information and also helped the author provide a great realism to his work.

His trip was to Gold Ridge on Guadalcanal. Led by two native geology students who knew

LONELY VIGIL: COASTWATCHERS OF THE SOLOMONS by Walter Lord (Viking, $12.50)

Reviewed by Bob Gallas

It is Christmas Eve, 1942, deep within a jungle of the Solomon Islands in the South Pacific. Dick Horton, one step ahead of the Japanese on his trail, sets up a teleradio to catch the distant signal of a San Francisco radio station. Bing Crosby is singing, "White Christmas."

In the mountains of another island not far away, Paul Mason was also on the run again. Fleeing his Japanese tormentors shortly before they arrived, Mason, too, was pausing on this Christmas Eve, to listen to his radio. All he heard was a message from the enemy: "Come in and spend Christmas dinner with us and bring your friends. Otherwise, we'll shoot you on sight."

That is a picture of life during the early, dark days of World War II in the South Pacific. It was the life of the coastwatchers, the men who risked their lives far behind enemy lines to provide the Allies with information on Japanese ship and air movements. It is a story that has long since needed telling, and veteran storyteller Walter Lord tells it well.

"Lonely Vigil," Lord's tenth book, tells the story of the coastwatchers of the Solomons. But it also tells much, much more. His picture of war in the South Pacific does not stop at the coastwatchers. It includes the many others who were vital to Allied Intelligence during World War II — the missionary priests who found that neutrality was impossible and therefore plunged into the war, organizing native resistance and helping rescue downed American flyers; the missionary nuns, who took their medical knowledge deep within the jungle when needed; and the natives of the Solomon Islands, who patrolled the islands, locating downed flyers and relaying information on Japanese encampments.

Lord spent four years researching and writing this account, pouring over diaries, journals and letters, interviewing former coastwatchers and missionaries and even taking a three-day hike into a Guadalcanal jungle to a former coastwatcher hideout. The result is a gripping narrative that hurls the reader back into a time when South Pacific jungles were far from paradise. The Japanese were on the move and the Solomons were a key to their planned conquest of the Pacific.

Lord is a historian and his book reflects his penchant for history. His facts were painstakingly documented. His narrative style is simple and unembellished. But his characters are very real.

Lord's account is spiced with the seemingly insignificant aspects of war, such as the sailor who superstitiously never shaved before going into battle, wore the same clothes and always carried a lucky four-leaf clover and silver dollar. There's the downed American flyers who virtuously declined a native's offer of "mates for sleeping," only to discover after a night on a hard cave floor that the native's English was lacking. He meant "mats for sleeping," not "mates."

Those "insignificant" details, such as the coastwatcher whose terse warning: "40 Bombers Heading Yours" became legend, help Lord paint a very real picture that helps the reader feel he is there.

There were other intelligence gathering groups during the war, but it was the coastwatchers in the strategic Solomons who became the stars as they helped win back the Pacific. Their scorn of danger, good humor in the face of sometimes primitive conditions and uncanny skill for evading the enemy was an inspiration that became legend. Lord has given that legend new life.

ANNA HASTINGS: THE STORY OF A WASHINGTON NEWSPAPERPERSON by Allen Drury (Morrow, $8.95)

Reviewed by Dorothy Oliver

Anna Kowalczek came to Washington, D.C. as a bright aggressive young reporter, not the least bit awed by the wheeling and dealing on Capitol Hill but rather consumed by a desire to carve out a piece of power and importance for herself. Concealed beneath her petite, sensuous body was a tough little broad who would soon connive and scheme, step on her friends and push her way to the top without a backwards glance.

Anna Kowalczek, femme fatale of "Anna Hastings, The Story of a Washington Newspaperperson," is another unforgettable character from the skilled pen of Pulitzer winner Allen Drury. Her story is told by Ed Macomb, good old reliable Ed, who met Anna during their first days in Washington as wide-eyed reporters covering America's entry into World War II. Ed and his roommate, Tal Farson, and Anna and her roommate, Bessie Rovere, form "The Team" a friendship that would continue through old age, despite love triangles, arguments and changing philosophies.

Drury gives his readers only bits and pieces of his characters in "Anna Hastings" yet when the last page is turned you seem to know them intimately. His format for the book is interesting. Beginning with a series of reviews of Anna's just published autobiography, each chapter leads off with an excerpt from her book followed by Ed's narative explaining what really happened in that period of Anna's life.

When she arrived in Washington, Anna's goal was to someday own and publish a newspaper, bringing "The Team" with her in her climb up the ladder. Her colorful coverage of the McCarthy hearings won her the Pulitzer and brought her national prominence as a writer. Her way with men and a well plotted scheme to snag one with wealth and power, won her a husband, millionaire-Senator Gordon Hastings. Using Hasting's money, Anna moved towards her goal and bought a small newspaper in the outskirts of Washington that developed into a major publication, second only to the Washington Post in the capital, and the cornerstone of her media empire.

Drury inserts a moral and a message into Anna's life story. His moral is that money and power don't replace love, that the need to control and dominate turn those closest to you away from you, and that fame and prestige can't be substituted for friendship. It's all very obvious but then the plot of "Anna Hasings" is obvious from the onset. People like that generally get their comeupance.

Drury's message comes through as his personal statement on the quality of journalism in this country. He makes his point through the feelings of Ed Macomb who, while managing editor of Anna's newspaper, finds himself at philosophical odds with his boss on how things should be run:

"... department by department, the same theme began to run through the 'Inquirer's' news stories, editorials and columns, including Anna's own. Taking Tal's manifesto as their bible, many of the younger staffers and such few of the older as agreed with it began to run amuck in a welter of new journalism, 'investigative reporting,' 'concerned commentary' and other pet phrases, all of which boiled down to a simple: Get the bastards. The bastards, according to the 'Inquirer,' were everywhere in Washington and indeed everywhere in America.

"Their principal crime, of course, was that they disagreed with the 'Inquirer.' "

Macomb describes it further: "It was just that there was no balance, no perspective, no sense of history, no understanding whatsoever of the necessity to maintain a stable society. It all became a grand and gleeful circus of degrading, belittling, tearing down - a self-rending done with such vicious enthusiasm that it often seemed the 'Inquirer' had gone mad.

"But mad or no — and some who directed and participated in the process, such as Tal, were not mad at all but shrewdly aware of exactly what they were doing — the end result was to contribute greatly to the confusion and weakening of the American people at home and abroad. When in due course this process was given fuel by the mistakes of Viet Nam and Watergate, it was a wonder there was anything left of the country's heart, soul, purpose or determination. Which, of course was exactly the point for such as

"For a decade the 'Inquirer' under Anna and Tal pursued these policies relentlessly, as indeed it continues to pursue them to this day. And because this was the popular trend in American journalism then, and continued to be, Anna's acquisition of other properties was, as she truthfully says, made easier . . . "

Drury won't take home another Pulitzer with this contribution to the literary world. "Anna Hastings" is fast, entertaining reading — sometimes thought provoking, sometimes a bit unbelievable, but an enjoyable novel nonetheless.

Lord:

the rugged terrain well, he experienced, to a much lesser degree, the same problems that young, downed flyers faced after reaching shore — surviving in the bush.

"One thing that struck me was that you didn't have to hack your way through the bush," which is what I thought since my knowledge of the jungle was based on old Tarzan movies. "The guides swung their machetes as we moved up the trail but that was to mark the path more than anything else.

"It is very easy to get lost though. And the trails were very, very slippery."

Halfway up to the lookout point, Lord's party encountered another native who was traveling from village to village, collecting blood samples to test for malaria. "He thought what we were doing was so interesting, he decided to follow along.

"Again and again I'd say to myself what an experience it must have been for a boy in his early twenties, as most of them were, to be dropped from Main Street U.S.A. onto an island behind enemy lines where he had to learn quickly how to survive. One wrote and told me he tried to eat ants, 'but they didn't taste very good.' "

Just getting to the Solomon Islands, located off the coast of Australia, proved to be an adventure, but the help Lord received from the governor of the islands proved to be invaluable.

"There are only two flights per week going out there on an airline called Sol Air," explained Lord. There are five seats for passengers, one next to the pilot and four behind. I kept getting put next to the pilot which I thought was VIP treatment. Then I discovered they always put the heaviest passenger in front because the pilot has trouble keeping the nose of the aircraft down."

On his trip up the mountain to Gold Ridge, Lord and his two native guides would be treated like royalty at the native villages. Lord described the natives as "primitive, but not savage. Many times, I felt like I was in a scene from National Geographic.

"The natives are all very small, about 5fee-8 inches tall. I went into a store to buy a pair of shoes, but couldn't find any larger than a size eight."

The contrast in life in the Solomon Islands especially struck Lord. "It is very developed in some areas, even has hotels, though the tourist trade is virtually nil. But you can go from a town that reminds you of an Illinois hamlet to the bush where there isn't even a road in a matter of five minutes."

The remnants of the war still remain on the tiny islands, like Guadalcanal, Bougainville, New Georgia and Santa Isabel. Abandoned tractors and rusted anti-aircraft guns now sit silently, lost in the jungle.

"The natives have actually become quite adept at using the artifacts to the point of decorating their lawns with them. There is so much wire matting (once used to provide traction for vehicles on muddy beaches) that the natives use it for fencing in chickens."

The arrival to Gold Ridge was a high point in the research for Lord. He kept saying, "so this is what it was like," as he gazed down at the Pacific, a thousand or so feet below. Little was left of the old station. outside of an antique kerosene-powered refrigerator, but the feeling that he was back in time was overpowering.

The early mail he has received from those who have read the book has been touching, "I've never received this kind of mail before. A great many start the same way — 'Thank you for telling this story.' "

Barber updates his analysis of the presidency

THE PRESIDENTIAL CHARACTER Second Edition by James David Barber (Prentice-Hall, $11.95).

Reviewed by Steve Brown

There are few people who would reject the opportunity to be on the "inside" when an important decision is made at the White House or in some other seat of global power.

Few get that opportunity and in most cases, the rationale behind the decision-making is never really known.

For those who have wondered why President So-and-So did something, the updated version of James David Barber's "The Presidential Character-2nd Edition" might provide some clues.

Barber, a political scientist from Duke University, has enlarged his 1972 effort which caused a stir because it painted a dark image of former President Richard M. Nixon before the Watergate scandal really got rolling.

With the prediction about Nixon's sinister potential borne out by the horrors of Watergate and with a glowing testimonial by President Jimmy Carter on the book jacket, Barber is back.

The author had added 90-odd pages to cover his analysis of Nixon's abbreviated second term, the transition to President Gerald R. Ford and some thoughts about Carter.

A rereading of Barber's original work plus the new material renews the feeling the Southern educator has developed an interesting approach to the study of the Presidency and the men who have served in the White House.

Barber's first edition, which is kept intact in the 1977 version, laid out four basic behavioral/personality categories and then proceeded to identify the presidents according to that scheme.

He places John F. Kennedy, Harry S. Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt in the active-positive class and builds a good case to show these men were the best at working out the solutions to the nation's problems during their administrations.

Barber goes out on a limb to put Carter into the active-positive category, suggesting the Georgia Democrat will meet the problems of the nation head on and have some

The author's past work may have had some effect on the new president and possibly influenced the author's predictions. Barber rejects the notion that the candidate can be influenced or mold his personality to fit into a specific category.

Maybe so. But it can be argued that the author might be influenced by Carter's style. The author dined with Carter in 1974 when Carter was the only one who knew he was running for president. Barber came away "thinking he was certainly an interesting governor."

Carter later told several Washington reporters he had been "heavily influenced by James David Barber's writings and I think many of my ideas come from there."

It is unlikely Barber has been snookered by Carter. However it should be noted that much of Barber's prediction about Carter came from the candidate's autobiography campaign books. Unlike the historical perspective built up for other presidents, Barber is commenting on Carter based largely on what the candidate has let be known about himself.

With that note of skepticism registered, the nation might have a crossed-fingers wish of good luck that Barber is right and Carter measures up — it would certainly be a welcome relief to the embarrassment of Nixon and the decent, but unspectacular stewardship of Ford.

Professor Barber has offered a very interesting approach to politics and the leaders of government. He has made that approach all the more interesting with his new insights on Carter and the reflections on Nixon and Ford. Interesting enough to warrant a rereading of the entire examination of presidential character.

Coming to grips with new words in our language

WORDPOWER by Edward de Bono. (Harper & Row, $12.50; paper, $4.95.)

by Joseph G. Harrison

Each year sees the sharpening of a fundamental debate over the present course of the English language. The debate: whether the continual addition of new words (particularly of a scientific, sociological, economic, or psychological application) helps or hinders n understanding of what is thought.

On one side is the argument that steadily broadening knowledge, discovery, conceptualization, and communication demand new terms, preciser definitions, and a more abbreviated method of conveying concepts.

On the other side is the conviction that the human mind is being overflooded with these new terms; that many, if not most of them, are little understood; and that this is widening the intellectual rift between those who use these terms and the majority of English-speakers.

"Wordpower" is an illustrated dictionary of 265 words and concepts which, the author states, "are very valuable in ordinary life because they express in a crisp manner an important process." Among the typical words are adversary system, cosmetic, feedback, incestuous, interface, lateral thinking, metasystem, quantum jump, steady state, syndrome, etc.

There can be no argument that, at the right time, under the right circumstances, and in the right hands such words and concepts can be valuable aids to sharper expression. Unhappily, the exact opposite is equally true, for the use of such words carries grave dangers with it. First, such words can become an excuse for failure to think a concept or a problem through clearly. Second, the user, seeking to imitate others whom he considers experts, may not actually understand the word's meaning, thus debasing it and compounding confusion.

Thus when the author writes that "a person can read through the book and enrich his supply of concepts and words," he is right, particularly because he has done an excellent job of defining and explaining the meaning, usage, and significance of the terms treated. On the other hand, any book which encourages anyone to think that such shortcuts to the expression of complicated ideas are not fraught with intellectual peril can only contribute to the gigantic miasma of obfuscation which incessantly swirls about us all.

HOW TO SHOP FOR A MATTRESS

- 1. Pay attention to all the radio and TV ads by the big name manufacturers. Each one will tell you what famous medical group or orthopedic society or surgical committee designed that particular mattress.
- 2. Go to a retail store and find the famous Bleepy "This-A-Pedic" or the Blurpo "Bumpy Rest" and poke it with your fingers. Use all four fingers because you can't really tell how it feels by poking with just two fingers.
- 3. By all means do not lie down on it because you might be a little embarrassed to have people see you lying on a mattress in a retail store. Besides, that way you can get a bigger surprise the first time you try to sleep on it. Anyway, if it's one of those Pedic kinds, the salesman would probably just as soon you wouldn't find out how hard it really is.
- 4. Don't act shocked when the salesman tells you the King size set is only $500.00. After all, the super deluxe model is only $50.00 or $100.00 or more.
- 5. Before you make a final decision, go to the Schaumburg Mattress Factory. We have a small showroom in the front of the factory, and we want our customers to lie down on our comfortable mattresses. And if you just happen to doze off for awhile, we won't even bother you until closing time of course.

His most recent triumph was his first place tie with Tal in the Leningrad tourney celebrating the 60th anniversary of the Russian Revolution. Tal, himself, astutely analyzed: "But all of Oleg's games in the second half of the tournament without exception were reminiscent of most interesting performances. At times objectivity and cautiousness failed him, but this was compensated by the amazing effectiveness of his attacks. It seems to me that Romanishin's success is evidence of the fact that the Soviet Union has now one more grandmaster of extra-class."

The opportunity to enjoy Illinois' state park facilities is becoming more of a reality for handicapped persons.

Although some areas of rough terrain may be forever restricted, greater accessibility of park facilities has been built into state parks in recent years.

Parks in Northern Illinois where handicapped persons are able to camp are Chain O' Lake and Illinois Beach State parks in Lake County, Kankakee River in Kankakee County, Lake-Le-Aqua-Na in Stevenson County, Mississippi Palisades in Carrol County and Rock Cut in Winnebago County. All these parks have camping with vehicular access and shower and toilet facilities for handicapped persons.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Things are getting hotter by the minute, Taurus. A few "nonos" and "yes-yeses" have fanned an old flame into a raging fire. Stay toasty, but don't singe your eyebrows. On last day dangle your sizzling tootsies in a cool pool.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The hum-drum of visitors is filling your scanner with a lot of squelch, Gem. Clear the air by changing channels. Set all systems on GO! If they won't, YOU WILL! On final day, you and buddy rendezvous.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Stand-still plans are about to take off like a moped on hotbuttered rubber, Moonbaby. Ditch extras. You are barely going to make due date on vital commitments. On final day, assistance arrives. And, I might add, "just in the nick."

LEO (July 23-August 22): You're tapping out dance steps like a puppet on a string, Leo to someone else's tune! "Punch and Judy" isn't your style, so arrange a heart-to-heart talk with the "mad" puppeteer. On final day, you tip-toe off the boards -- no strings attached.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22): "Whither thou goest," Virg? A spinning top can't spin forever. Regroup and rewind, Seek out an old friend who has been in your thoughts lately.

On final day, you lose the blues by doing something old with someone new!

LIBRA (September 23-October 22): You're chomping at the bit, Lib, but don't bolt and run. Person at the reins is steering you in right direction. An easy pace now saves the all-out effort for home stretch. On final day, you're cool, collected and at the starting gate.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21): Play your hand close to the chest, Scorp. All bets are off as someone you have trusted for a long time may be ready to deal you out. Use your skill for getting out of tight spots and trump the experts. You pull ace out of the hole on last day.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21): You may be in a slump this week, Saj. Step back and let someone else call the plays. Get in position to score, but listen to the pep talk first. One suggestion stands out — take it. On last day, you rally and hit a grand slam!

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19): The circus is in town, Cap, and you're in all three rings; clown, juggler and tight-rope walker — in that order. Take a deep breath and don't look down, up or back. On last day, you collapse like an old calliope when the air compressor is turned off.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18): Missing puzzle pieces are packed away in some old boxes, Aquari. Snoop around. Supersleuthing solves the mystery. Caution! Leave box marked "Pandora" unopened. On last day, you simplify answer for partner who gets the message. At last.

PISCES (February 19-March 20): You're in a game that only real players win, Pisces. Be a leader, not a teammate! For once, you make the rules for others. Stars give you a chance for success. Read message to Scorpio — then plot your OWN course. Week of decisions ends with a jolt.

Stamp notes

In mid-September, the Canada Post Office will release three commemorative adhesives, two of them honoring Canadian historical figures and one marking the Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference.

The two 12-cent stamps were designed by Will Davies of Toronto and honor Captain Joseph-Elzear Bernier and Sir Sandford Fleming. They will be released Sept. 16.

Bernier, born in 1852, went to sea as a teenager, became a captain when he was seventeen years old and during his lifetime commanded several expeditions to the Arctic. He claimed islands and established police posts which strengthened Canadian sovereignty in the area.

Fleming, an engineer, was born in Scotland in 1827 and went to Canada in 1845. He designed Canada's first stamp (the Three) Penny Beaver), searched for a route for the Intercolonial Railway, invented a system of standard time and promoted the Pacific Cable.

The 25-cent adhesive, to be issued Sept. 19, marks the 23rd Parliamentary Conference which opens on that day and runs through Sept. 25. Designed by Stuart Ash of Toronto from a photograph by Ottawa artist Malak, the stamp features the Peace Tower of the Parliament buildings.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations should send their requests to "FDC/Fleming-Bernier Stamps" or to "FDC/Conference Stamp" in care of "The Philatelic Service, Canada Post, Ottawa, Ontario, Canada K1A OB5." Pencil in lightly in the upper right hand corner of your covers which stamp and how many you want affixed. Your remittance should be by international bank draft, payable to "The Receiver General for Canada," and must cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed plus a 15-cent service charge for each cover affixed with less than 50-cents postage,

The Irish Post Office on Sept. 12 will release two stamps marking the golden jubilee of the Folklore of Ireland Society and the 1100th anniversary of the death of Irish philosopher Johannes Scottus Eriugena, The adhesives will be released in denominations of 10p and 12p respectively.

First day cancellation requests should be directed to the "Department of Posts and Telegraphs, Philatelic Section, G.P.O., Dublin 1, Ireland."

Lauren sails into new series

by Vernon Scott

They're calling Lauren Tewes another Mary Tyler Moore over at ABC-TV, prayerfully perhaps, because the network should get that lucky.

Lauren, whose last name rhymes with Tweeze, is a 23-year-old freckled-faced blonde. She's also animated, cute and starring in "The Love Boat," a new ABC series scheduled for fall.

Lauren and Miss Moore do share a breezy, fresh American look. Their chief similarities, however, are engaging dimples, prominent white teeth and willowy figures.

But comparing Lauren with Mary is premature. Lauren still is a bud while Mary is the whole damn rose garden. Nevertheless, doing pretty well until they asked me why an the newcomer is flattered by the comparison. Better a second Mary Tyler Moore than a second Phyllis Diller.

"Mary is terrific," Lauren said during a shooting break at 20th Century-Fox. "She's a very relatable woman to female viewers. I like her style and admire her work. It's nice to be compared to her but I want to be me.

"Mary's practically the queen of television, Maybe I could be a princess."

Lauren has never met Miss Moore, who closed her hit series earlier this year after a dazzling seven-year run. But the newcomer sat, open-mouthed, staring at Mary during a for her.

Like Mary, Lauren is a textbook example of the struggling young actress who gets a big break. She worked until recently as a waitress in a Sunset Strip restaurant which caters heavily to rock groups.

"I had to pay my way through college and for acting classes," she said, her voice pitched in Mary's musical register. "I started out as a waitress when I was 16.

"Mother wanted me to take up typing. But I refused. I knew if I learned how to type I'd spend the rest of my life at it instead of acting. I knew my waitress work would be temporary. I wasn't going to make it my career.

"Not long ago I wasn't getting any acting work so I applied at an airlines for a hostess job. I answered all the questions and was actress wanted to become a stewardess.

"They kicked me out when I told them I thought it would make a nice summertime

It was back to slinging hash at the restaurant for Lauren whose first professional acting job was in a U.S. Navy recruiting film,

Next came a silent bit in a tea commercial. There followed bit parts in episodes of "Starsky and Hutch," "Family" and "Charlie's Angels," all for Spelling-Goldberg, producers of "The Love Boat."

The producers had filmed two unsuccessful recent industry banquet. Lauren has a long pilot shows for the series. Then they cast way to go before fulfilling ABC's predictions Lauren with Gavin McLeod (who played Murray in "The Mary Tyler Moore Show") in a third pilot which quickly sold.

"I'm the only gir! in the cast," Lauren said happily. "In a way we're breaking new ground. They've got me playing the cruise director on this luxury liner.

"I checked it out, and all the cruise directors on ships are men. But there isn't any reason why a girl can't hold down a job like that.

"They tell me the male cruise directors organized all the fun and games aboard ship during the day, then at night they really make out with the lady passengers. Well, the writers don't have me playing around with the male passengers, but in one script I do have a romance.

"I'm surrounded by a wonderful professional cast. They're all veterans who have gone through what I'm going through now the first big part — and they're really helping Impressed as she is with the men on her new show, Lauren was considerably more influenced by John Wassel, the guy who directed her in the tea commercial. They are engaged to be married later this year.

"The exciting thing about my role is that I'm not just a pretty girl hanging around for atmosphere," Lauren said. "I'm not here for sexuality.

"And I'm lucky to be so young. If this series goes five years I'll still be only 28 when it's over and by that time I'll be ready to play leading ladies in movies and on the stage.

Lauren Tewes stars as Julie McCoy, cruise director, aboard the Pacific Princess in the new one-hour ABC comedy series, "Love Boat," scheduled for this fall,

"I'm still studying and going to class so I'll be prepared to play something besides an ingenue.

"What I'm going through now is called the greatest thing that could happen to a person and I know it,"

TV mailbag

Send questions to TV Mailbag. c/o Paddock Publications P.O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, III. 60006

Lily Tomlin

What is Lily Tomlin doing these days? I think she is great. And that's the truth! S.B.

The party of whom you are speaking has been signed to develop two films over a three-year period in which she will star, write, produce and possibly direct--so keep your eyes open.

* * *

Please settle an argument between two devotees of daytime TV reruns. What were the names of Darrin's parents on "Bewitched," and who played them? Also, everyone knows that Agnes Moorehead played Endora, but can you tell me who played her husband (Samantha's father), and what his name was?

Agnes Moorehead

That's what this mailbag needs--more challenging questions! Darrin's parents, Phyllis and Frank, were portrayed by Mabel Albertson and Robert T. Simon. Daddy Warlock, who went by the distinguished name of Maurice, was played by that equally distinguished actor Maurice Evans.

My father always says "Well I'll be a dirty bird," and it drives me up the wall. Didn't he steal the phrase from some old TV show?

M.G.

You're a dirty bird for not letting the old boy have his fun, (Just you wait until your kids cringe every time you say "Aaaay" or "Dy-no-mite!".) Anyway, it was the "lonesome" George Gobel who'd spout that saying at the appropriate times.

How old is Barry Manilow, and is it true he is dying of tone deafness? Also, where can I write to him?

T.F.

Barry Manilow

Manilow is in the land of 30--as for the malady you speak of, only his piano tuner knows for sure. Write to him in care of Arista Records, 1776 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Hostage freed

Evelyn L. Van Tassel, who was the hostage of a prison fugitive for a week, said she "just" prayed each morning I'd live through the day and I prayed again each night that I would live through the night." She was released unharmed Thursday night from a motel in Des Moines, Iowa. - Page 3.

Boy, father missing

The bizarre child custody battle for a 7-year-old boy took another foreboding turn Friday when the boy's father, a Park Ridge dentist, again failed to appear in court with the boy. Both have been missing since Monday when the dentist fled with the boy in defiance of an order giving custody to the child's mother — Page 14.

The nation's unemployment rate rose to 7.1 per cent during August, as unemployment in Illinois increased slightly to 5.1 per cent Meanwhile, a Labor Dept report released Friday showed union membership in the United States declined 4 per cent between 1974 and 1976, the first drop since the early 1960s — Sect. 4. A jury in Great Britain acquitted a 26-year-old schoolteacher of having sex with one of her former students, an 11-year-old boy During the four-day trial that shook Britain, the boy stuck to his story that the woman taught him love-making at sessions in her home and gave intimate details of the woman's body - Page 2.

The Carter administration has abandoned the ombudsman function in the White House. The move has caused great concern among some congressional Democrats, who say that by abolishing the ombudsman, the President is silencing his own centralized voice to respond to the people -- Page 13.

underassessment

by BILL HILL

A complaint charging the Cook County assessor's office with "blatantly" underassessing the Scarsdale Estates subdivision in Arlington Heights was filed Friday by a taxpayers' protest committee. The complaint will mean about 28 properties in the exclusive area will be reassessed, said Daniel A. Berck, chief real estate operator for County Assessor Thomas Tully.

THE COMPLAINT filed by Richard Suter, a Chicago publisher of financial newsletters and a member of the Taxpayer's Protest Committee, cites much of the same data from a study of assessments conducted by The Herald and published Aug. 15.

The study, comparing assessments for 1976 and 1972, showed land values in Scarsdale Estates have dropped an average of 15 per cent in just four years. The 1976 reassessments in that area also gave many of the houses fair market values in the range of $60,000 to $80,000. Real estate appraisers generally have valued the houses at $80,000 to $110,000.

The complaint filed Friday by Suter listed 28 specific examples where properties were "blatantly underassessed," said Mike Hepple of the National Taxpayer's United of Illinois. "There appears there's some sort of political connection involved," Hepp said. He refused to elaborate. The Herald's study showed the most questionable assessments were on property on the south side of East Orchard Street. THE TOTAL assessments for properties there dropped an average 16 per cent between 1972 and 1976. With that drop, and the county's change this year dropping assessments 17 per cent of the fair market value from 22 per cent in 1972, the fair market values of four houses on E. Orchard Street dropped 13.2 per cent.

The market values of the other eight properties increased an average 19.6 per cent nearly 10 per cent below the township average of 28 per cent.

Using the 1976 assessment figures, the average fair market value for the 12 properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street now is $64,704. The same 12 properties had an average fair market value in 1972 of $61,310, a 5.5 per cent difference.

The intention of the 1976 quadrennial reassessments, which showed the assessed values of property in Wheeling and Palatine townships increasing 28 and 31 per cent since 1972, was to determine the fair market value of property.

The increases in assessments in areas surrounding Scarsdale Estates were much larger. To the north, in Scarsdale Manor, widely known for its expensive homes, assessments went up about 20 per cent, on the average. To the east, in Park Manor, where the homes are less expensive, assess-

The bankers said in the newsletter that "only one group of individuals -the bank regulators — can make a final ruling, based on their nowledge of the entire industry, as to what are typical banking practices."

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Volberding and his backers plan to finance the campaigns of aldermanic candidates in the 1979 city election who will be favorable to the mayor and his programs.

A fund-raising dinner has been scheduled for Nov. 11 by the Organization to Elect Herbert Volberdiag to pay off $5,000 in campaign debts and raise money for the aldermanic race.

Since Volberding took office in April, he has had his share of battles with the independent city council, dominated by supporters of candidates who lost to Volberding in April.

"I'D LIKE TO feel my negative reaction (from the council) is somewhat diminished." Volberding said. "If my group . . . feels there are changes due in some of the wards, then I'll go with

Tourist trade terrorists target

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The underground New World Liberation Front set off an explosion at a swank golf club Friday and threatened to unleasth a terror campaign against the city's tourist industry unless demands for "decent housing for all" are met.

The blast early Friday morning at the Olympic Golf Club on the edge of Lake Merced caused some damage, but it was not extensive and there were no injuries. It followed by 24 hours the discovery of an unexploded bomb at the Pacific Union Club on Nob Hill, one of the city's most exclusive establishments.

The New World Liberation Front delivered a message to news media claiming responsibility for both incidents and threatened to "drive rich tourism out of San Francisco."

IN A MESSAGE after the first incident, the group gave the city 72 hours to do something about "decent housing for all." It said the rich of Nob Hill were to blame for poor housing and named six major tourist hotels as possible targets of terrorist attacks.

The message delivered after Friday's successful bombing at the Olympic Club noted that the city had only 48 hours left to re-manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said there was no evidence that anyone is being frightened away by the threats. "There has not been any incident at a hotel. However, there has been a substantial increase in security at the major hotels both by the hotels themselves and police," Sullivan said.

The New World Liberation Front surfaced in 1974 after the notorious Symbionese Liberation Army was broken up. It has been blamed for dozens of sabotage attacks throughout the country but mainly in the San Francisco area.

Girl found dead in Schaumburg; cause unknown

by ROBERT KYLE and PAUL GORES

Seventeen-year-old Kim Lyman left her Schaumburg home Friday morning to walk her pet poodle and was found dead about a half-hour later. No one seems to know why.

The Cook County Medical Examiner began an autopsy, but it was not expected to be finished until this afternoon. A spokesman said the body had "no external marks of violence."

MISS LYMAN, 934 Cardiff Ct., was found with blood on her face on a grassy knoll in a vacant lot near her home in Schaumburg's Sheffield Towne development.

Police searched the area for clues and found a rock near the body, but Lt. James Dillon said it bore no traces of blood.

Miss Lyman, a student at Harper College in Palatine and a part-time employe of the Schaumburg State Bank, was often seen walking her dog along a footpath west of the Sheffield

townhomes.

SUSAN HAUGLANDS, 1805 Bromley Ct., said she spotted the body from a second-floor window in her home shortly before 11:30 a.m.

"I thought maybe she was just resting," Ms. Hauglands said. "But I came back five minutes later and she was still laying there."

Miss, Lyman was lying on her face with her dog's leash trapped beneath her body, Ms. Hauglands said, and didn't respond when Ms. Hauglands spoke to her.

Ms. Hauglands and a neighbor,

Claudia Oltendorf of 1816 Bromley Ct., then called the police.

andre en en entre sent en entre a entre entre entre en

WHEN THE AMBULANCE arrived, Miss Lyman was lying on her back, said Gary Hunt, a Schaumburg paramedic.

"She had everything against her," he said. "There was no pulse, her pupils were dilated and she was getting purple in the face. But she was still a little warm, so we picked her up and put her in the ambulance and hooked her up to the defibrillator."

When three electrical shocks failed to restore Miss Lyman's heartbeat, the police called in a physician who pronounced her dead.

Hunt and Nick Pishtos, an investigator for the medical examiner's office, agreed that the blood on Miss Lyman's face came from a nosebleed, not a wound.

SOME SHEFFIELD Towne residents suspected that Miss Lyman had been murdered and said police should question the teen-aged motorcyclists who ride on a hill near where the body was found.

Others thought Miss Lyman had died in a freak accident when she fell and strangled on her dog's leash. But the women who found the body said the leash was beneath it, the paramedic said the dog was nowhere in sight, and the police said the leash was wrapped around Miss Lyman's Ms. Oltendorf said she thought the death was accidental.

"To me it looked like she was walking her dog and tripped," she said. "It looked like she hit her nose. But then others say it's murder."

"One of the worst things is that the whole neighborhood gets so paranoid," said one man. "You're going to hear a lot of slamming and locking of doors tonight."

Loss of parking lot hurts plans

Since it can't be best, no Oktoberfest

by Debbe Jonak

If the beer can't flow in the best of German traditions, it won't flow at all, says Hans Ammelounx.

And that is why he is not going to stage his renowned annual Oktoberfest celebration this year at Han's Bavarian Lodge, 931 N. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling.

"If I can't do it right, I don't want to do it," Ammelounx said.

Cramping his style is the loss of 600 parking spaces. The property on which Oktoberfest visitors parked for Hans Ammelounx the past seven years was sold recently to a restaurant developer.

Joe and William Johnson, former owners of Chevy Chase Country Club, had owned the land next to Ammelounx's business.

AMMELOUNX SAID he considered holding a smaller version of his beer, brats and song festivities but decided against it.

So, he will wait until October of 1978 to host another Oktoberfest. He said he probably will rent ballroom facilities from Chevy Chase, now owned by the Wheeling Park District.

He also has his eye on some property for possible purchase as a future Oktoberfest site.

"I'm not out of it yet. Only for this yar," he said. "You'd be suprised how many calls I've gotten. Last night I got a call from Texas — it was some guy who wanted to bring 100 people up."

Ammelounx is not going to let one year slip by without observing the COOPERATIVE German custom, though. He will tap the first beer Sept. 17 at Comiskey 477-7500 Park Oktoberfest before the White Sox - California Angels game.

Dist. 59 head subpoenaed in unit vote wrongdoing

Supt. Roger Bardwell, of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, has been subpoenaed to testify before a Cook County grand Jury on charges of wrongdoing stemming from last spring's campaign to form a unit school district. Bardwell is scheduled to appear before the grand jury at 1 p.m. Thursday in Chicago. Having asked for the opportunity to answer the charges against him in a formal manner, Bardwell Friday said he was glad to receive the subpoena.

THE GRAND JURY is investigating charges that Bardwell and three other Dist. 59 officials secretly agreed to seek a lower than planned tax rate increase in exchange for the business community's support of a unit school district referendum last April.

Under investigation along with Bardwell are Dist. 59 Board members Judith Zance and Emil Bahnmaier, public relations director Leah Cummins and Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce members Stanley Klyber and Timothy Frisby. All but Bardwell testified before the grand jury in late August.

The grand jury investigation stems from charges made in May 1976 by board member Paul Kucharski.

IN A 14-PAGE statement issued last spring, Kucharski charged that the four Dist. 59 officials struck an illegal deal with area businessmen, misinformed the board and withheld information about the process of petitioning for the formation of a unit school district.

"The charges are totally ridiculous and there's no evidence to support them," Klyber said. "I firmly believe there will be no indictments."

A determination of whether there is sufficient evidence of criminal activity to warrant pursuit of a grand jury indictment is expected later this month, Assistant State's Attorney Mitchell Garner said.

The unit district proposal defeated in last April's referendum would have combined 21 Dist. 59 elementary schools, Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village.

Since it can't be the best, man cancels Oktoberfest

by Debbe Jonak

If the beer can't flow in the best of German traditions, it won't flow at all, says Hans Ammelounx.

And that is why he is not going to stage his renowned annual Oktoberfest celebration this year at Han's Bavarian Lodge, 931 N. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling. "If I can't do it right, I don't want to do it," Ammelounx said.

Cramping his style is the loss of 660 parking spaces. The property on which Oktoberfest visitors parked for the past seven years was sold recently to a restaurant developer.

Joe and William Johnson, former owners of Chevy Chase Country Club, had owned the land next to Ammelounx's business.

Tourist trade terrorists target

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The underground New World Liberation Front set off an explosion at a swank golf club Friday and threatened to unleasch a terror campaign against the city's tourist industry unless demands for "decent housing for all" are met.

The blast early Friday morning at the Olympic Golf Club on the edge of Lake Merced caused some damage, but it was not extensive and there were no injuries. It followed by 24 hours the discovery of an unexploded bomb at the Pacific Union Club on Nob Hill, one of the city's most exclusive establishments.

The New World Liberation Front delivered a message to news media claiming responsibility for both incidents and threatened to "drive rich tourism out of San Francisco."

IN A MESSAGE after the first incident, the group gave the city 72 hours to do something about "decent housing for all." It said the rich of Nob Hill were to blame for poor housing and named six major tourist hotels as possible targets of terrorist attacks.

The message delivered after Friday's successful bombing at the Olympic Club noted that the city had only 48 hours left to re-

At the major hotels, police and house security officers increased vigilance. The FBI said it was investigating the latest incidents along with dozens of previous bombings and threats from the New World Liberation Front.

Robert J. Sullivan, general manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said there was no evidence that anyone is being frightened away by the threats. "There has not been any incident at a hotel. However, there has been a substantial increase in security at the major hotels both by the hotels themselves and police," Sullivan said.

The New World Liberation Front surfaced in 1974 after the notorious Symbionese Liberation Army was broken up. It has been blamed for dozens of sabotage attacks throughout the country but mainly in the San Francisco area.

In one explosion a man was killed.

EARLIER THIS week the group claimed responsibility for a blast at the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. substation which blacked out the city of Sausalito north of San Francisco. Utility installations have been frequent targets of bombings.

However, the list of incidents attributed to the group includes bombings against General Motors, IT&T, televison stations, Safeway Stores and various military and government installations.

Seventeen-year-old Kim Lyman left her Schaumburg home Friday morning to walk her pet poodle and was found dead about a half-hour later. No one seems to know why.

The Cook County Medical Examiner began an autopsy, but it was not expected to be finished until this afternoon. A spokesman said the body had "no external marks of violence."

MISS LYMAN, 934 Cardiff Ct., was found with blood on her face on a grassy knoll in a vacant lot near her home in Schaumburg's Sheffield Towne development.

Police searched the area for clues and found a rock near the body, but Lt. James Dillon said it bore no traces of blood.

"Until we know the cause of death, we won't know what we have," he said. "It could be foul play or it could be natural causes."

Miss Lyman, a student at Harper College in Palatine and a part-time employe of the Schaumburg State Bank, was often seen walking her dog along a footpath west of the Sheffield townhomes.

SUSAN HAUGLANDS, 1805 Broraley Ct., said she spotted the body from a second-floor window in her home shortly before 11:30 a.m.

"I thought maybe she was just resting," Ms. Hauglands said. "But I came back five minutes later and she was still laying there."

Miss Lyman was lying on her face with her dog's leash trapped beneath her body, Ms. Hauglands said, and didn't respond when Ms. Hauglands spoke to her.

Ms. Haugiands and a neighbor, Claudia Oltendorf of 1816 Bromley Ct., then called the police.

WHEN THE AMBULANCE arrived, Miss Lyman was lying on her back, said Gary Hunt, a Schaumburg paramedic.

"She had everything against her," he said. "There was no pulse, her pupils were dilated and she was getting purple in the face. But she was still a little warm, so we picked her up and put her in the ambulance and hooked her up to the defibrillator."

When three electrical shocks failed to restore Miss Lyman's heartbeat. the police called in a physician who pronounced her dead.

Hunt and Nick Pishtos, an investigator for the medical examiner's office, agreed that the blood on Miss Lyman's face came from a nosebleed, not a wound.

SOME SHEFFIELD Towne residents suspected that Miss Lyman had been murdered and said police should question the teen-aged motorcyclists who ride on a hill near where the body was found.

Others thought Miss Lyman had died in a freak accident when she fell and strangled on her dog's leash. But the women who found the body said the leash was beneath it, the paramedic said the dog was nowhere in sight, and the police said the leash was wrapped around Miss Lyman's

Ms. Oltendorf said she thought the death was accidental.

"To me it looked like she was walking her dog and tripped," she said. "It looked like she hit her nose. But then others say it's murder."

"One of the worst things is that the whole neighborhood gets so paranoid," said one man. "You're going to hear a lot of slamming and locking of doors tonight."

Tight-fisted 78-79 budget before village this month

Wheeling Village officials this month will begin work on the 1978-79 budget under a new system which will put "very tight controls on spending," William Lewis, Village finance director, said Friday. Lewis said the system, which was approved by the village board last month, is very progressive. He said only a few communities, including Mount Prospect and Niles, have adopted the budgeting procedure.

"Very few villages have adopted this because it is a very progressive step. It requires you to get a budget passed three months earlier than normal," he said.

IN THE PAST, the village board approved both a budget and an appropriations ordinance, Lewis said, noting that only the appropriations ordiance had any legal standing. The appropriations law sets down the maximum amount of tax money the village can spend during the fiscal year.

Lewis said that under the old system the budget "had no meaning and was a nebulous guide at best." He said the budget is an ironclad document under the new system.

Under the municipal budget officer system, the budget also must be approved before the start of the fiscal year, which begins May 1. In the past, budgets were approved several months after the beginning of the fiscal year, often creating financial difficulties, Lewis said.

"The books will really be together better than in the past," he said.

SPENDING IS under tighter control since department heads will have to justify their budgets directly to the village board.

"The department heads will really have to think out their budgets this year because the budget will be it. They're not going to be able to spend any money over the budgeted amounts. The first time a department head has to justify overspending to the board, that will take care of the situation," he said.

Other provisions of the municipal budget system include:

• Creation of a tax equal to onehalf of one per cent of the assessed valuation of the municipality may be collected in a fund for the purpose of capital improvements, repairs and replacements of municipal equipment and related purposes.

• The creation of a contingency fund equal to up to 10 per cent of the budget. In the past, the village contingency fund equaled only about 5 per cent of the budget.

• A change in the budgeting system so that expenditures are itemized in the same manner as done by the

Lewis said the first budget drawn up under the new system will entail

"a lot of work." "Once we get it done, though, it will be a lot slicker operation," he said.

Pastor sees blessings rise from ashes

by NANCY GOTLER The Rev. Harold Albert stood among the rubble of broken glass and bricks that had been his church and talked about blessings.

"In a sense we've been handed a favor," he said. "We have had the largest summer attendance in five years and a great project that's brought us all together."

The project is rebuilding the First Baptist Church of Arlington Heights, 1211 W. Campbell St., that was ripped by a boiler explosion during evening choir practice March 16.

ALTHOUGH WORK on the $102,000 reconstruction job has begun, progress was slowed by a long insurance company settlement and delays in the shipment of bricks. Meanshile, parishioners have gathered for Sunday services in a bare room on the second floor of the municipal building that doubles as village board chambers and a court-

But the Rev. Albert is confident he will be back in his church to deliver the Thanksgiving Day sermon and says the expolsion brought with it some hidden blessings.

"There is some good in all of this because it has stirred us to build the wing addition we had planned for the future and, more importantly, because planning the new building has brought the congregation together,"

MEMBERS HAVE volunteered to store equipment in their garages and basements and financial contributions have risen, he said.

But there still is a lot of work to be done. The walls of the church, bowed by the explosion, were removed by workmen last week. Pews were lifted from their place along the aisles to a cluster in the center of the church for storage. AND BITS OF broken glass, ladders and wooden boards lie on the floor in place of the lecturn, piano and altar. Special arrangements have been made to use nearby churches for haptismal ceremonies and a wedding was held on the grounds adjacent to the gutted building. Otherwise, not much has changed on Sunday mornings for members of the congretation and the Rev. Albert said the situation has been a learning experience for most of them.

"What we all have found is that the church has been able to function even without a building," he said. "The central thing in our services is the Bible and we learned that those teachings apply no matter what the setting."

underassessment

the properties experience of the second process of the contraction of

by BILL HILL

A complaint charging the Cook County assessor's office with "blatantly" underassessing the Scarsdale Estates subdivision in Arlington Heights was filed Friday by a taxpayers' protest committee.

The complaint will mean about 28 properties in the exclusive area will be reassessed, said Daniel A. Berck, chief real estate operator for County Assessor Thomas Tully.

THE COMPLAINT filed by Richard Suter, a Chicago publisher of financial newsletters and a member of the Taxpayer's Protest Committee, cites of assessments conducted by The Herald and published Aug. 15.

The study, comparing assessments for 1976 and 1972, showed land values in Scarsdale Estates have dropped an average of 15 per cent in just four years. The 1976 reassessments in that area also gave many of the houses fair market values in the range of $60,000 to $80,000. Real estate appraisers generally have valued the houses at $80,000 to $110,000.

The complaint filed Friday by Suter listed 28 specific examples where properties were "blatantly underassessed," said Mike Hepple of the National Taxpayer's United of Illinois.

"There appears there's some sort of political connection involved," Hepp said. He refused to elaborate.

The Herald's study showed the most questionable assessments were on property on the south side of East Orchard Street.

THE TOTAL assessments for properties there dropped an average 16 per cent between 1972 and 1976. With much of the same data from a study that drop, and the county's change this year dropping assessments 17 per cent of the fair market value from 22 per cent in 1972, the fair market values of four houses on E. Orchard Street dropped 13.2 per cent.

The market values of the other eight properties increased an average 19.6 per cent nearly 10 per cent below the township average of 28 per cent.

Using the 1976 assessment figures, the average fair market value for the 12 properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street now is $64,704. The same 12 properties had an average fair market value in 1972 of $61,310, a 5.5 per cent difference.

The intention of the 1976 quadrennial reassessments, which showed the assessed values of property in Wheeling and Palatine townships increasing 28 and 31 per cent since 1972, was to determine the fair market value of property.

The increases in assessments in areas surrounding Scarsdale Estates were much larger. To the north, in Scarsdale Manor, widely known for its expensive homes, assessments went up about 20 per cent, on the average. To the east, in Park Manor, where the homes are less expensive, assess-

Weather weighs heavily on parade planners' minds

by JOHN N. FRANK

As children worked on parade floats Friday and Trustee Robert Bogart saw to other details for this weekend's Buffalo Grove Days, one thing was on all of their minds: the weather.

"Some say it's going to be nice Sunday, some say it's going to rain, I wish they'd make up their minds." said Trustee John Merienthal, who has organized the Sunday parade scheduled to feature more than 2,200 marchers and cost more than $6,000.

Eight Midwest drum and bugle corps will march in the parade. Fourteen floats have been built by village residents and groups such as the Jaycees and Junior Woman's Club.

It would be almost impossible to reschedule the parade if a heavy rain should occur Sunday, Bogart said.

The insurance would have cost about $800 to $900 for the two days and would have covered the actual costs of producing the events, he said. But such costs already have been paid with a combination of village money and donations. Profits from food sales, rides and a Sunday drum

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The underground New World Liberation Front set off an explosion at a swank golf club Friday and threatened to unleasth a terror campaign against the city's tourist industry unless demands for "decent housing for all" are met.

The blast early Friday morning at the Olympic Golf Club on the edge of Lake Merced caused some damage, but it was not extensive and there were no injuries. It followed by 24 hours the discovery of an unexploded bomb at the Pacific Union Club on Nob Hill, one of the city's most exclusive establishments.

The New World Liberation Front delivered a message to news media claiming responsibility for both incidents and threatened to "drive rich tourism out of San Francisco."

IN A MESSAGE after the first incident, the group gave the city 72 hours to do something about "decent housing for all." It said the rich of Nob Hill were to blame for poor housing and named six major tourist hotels as possible targets of terrorist attacks.

The message delivered after Friday's successful bombing at the Olympic Club noted that the city had only 48 hours left to respond.

At the major hotels, police and house security officers increased vigilance. The FBI said it was investigating the latest incidents along with dozens of previous bombings and threats from the New World Liberation Front.

Robert J. Sullivan, general manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said there was no evidence that anyone is being frightened away by the threats. "There has not been any incident at a hotel. However, there has been a substantial increase in security at the major hotels both by the hotels themselves and police," Sullivan said.

Girl found dead in Schaumburg; cause unknown

by ROBERT KYLE and PAUL GORES

Seventeen-year-old Kim Lyman left her Schaumburg home Friday morning to walk her pet poodle and was found dead about a half-hour later.

No one seems to know why. The Cook County Medical Examiner began an autopsy, but it was not expected to be finished until this afternoon. A spokesman said the body had "no external marks of violence."

MISS LYMAN, 934 Cardiff Ct., was found with blood on her face on a grassy knoll in a vacant lot near her home in Schaumburg's Sheffield Towne development.

Police searched the area for clues and found a rock near the body, but Lt. James Dillon said it bore no traces of blood.

"Until we know the cause of death, we won't know what we have," he said. "It could be foul play or it could be natural causes."

Miss Lyman, a student at Harper College in Palatine and a part-time employe of the Schaumburg State Bank, was often seen walking her dog along a footpath west of the Sheffield townhomes.

SUSAN HAUGLANDS, 1805 Bromley Ct., said she spotted the body from a second-floor window in her home shortly before 11:30 a.m.

"I thought maybe she was just resting," Ms. Hauglands said. "But I came back five minutes later and she was still laying there."

Miss Lyman was lying on her face with her dog's leash trapped beneath her body, Ms. Hauglands said, and didn't respond when Ms. Hauglands spoke to her.

Ms. Hauglands and a neighbor, Claudia Oltendorf of 1816 Bromley Ct., then called the police.

WHEN THE AMBULANCE arrived, Miss Lyman was lying on her back, said Gary Hunt, a Schaumburg paramedic.

"She had everything against her." he said. "There was no pulse, her pupils were dilated and she was getting purple in the face. But she was still a little warm, so we picked her up and put her in the ambulance and hooked her up to the defibrillator."

When three electrical shocks failed to restore Miss Lyman's heartbeat, the police called in a physician who pronounced her dead.

Hunt and Nick Pishtos, an investigator for the medical examiner's office, agreed that the blood on Miss Lyman's face came from a nosebleed, not a wound.

SOME SHEFFIELD Towne residents suspected that Miss Lyman had been murdered and said police should question the teen-aged motorcyclists who ride on a hill near where the body was found.

Others thought Miss Lyman had died in a freak accident when she fell and strangled on her dog's leash. But the women who found the body said the leash was beneath it, the paramedic said the dog was nowhere in sight, and the police said the leash was wrapped around Miss Lyman's

Pastor sees blessings rise from church ashes

by NANCY GOTLER The Rev. Harold Albert stood among the rubble of broken glass and bricks that had been his church and talked about blessings. "In a sense we've been handed a favor." he said. "We have had the largest summer attendance in five years and a great project that's brought us all together." The project is rebuilding the First Baptist Church of Arlington Heights, 1211 W. Campbell St., that was ripped by a boiler explosion during evening choir practice March 16.

ALTHOUGH WORK on the $102,000 reconstruction job has begun, progress was slowed by a long insurance company settlement and delays in the shipment of bricks.

Meanshile, parishioners have gathered for Sunday services in a bare room on the second floor of the municipal building that doubles as village board chambers and a courtroom.

But the Rev. Albert is confident he will be back in his church to deliver the Thanksgiving Day sermon and says the expolsion brought with it some hidden blessings.

"There is some good in all of this because it has stirred us to build the wing addition we had planned for the future and, more importantly, because planning the new building has brought the congregation together," he said.

Pews were lifted from their place along the aisles to a cluster in the center of the church for storage.

AND BITS OF broken glass, ladders and wooden boards lie on the floor in place of the lecturn, piano and altar.

Special arrangements have been made to use nearby churches for haptismal ceremonies and a wedding was held on the grounds adjacent to the gutted building.

Otherwise, not much has changed on Sunday mornings for members of the congretation and the Rev. Albert said the situation has been a learning experience for most of them.

"What we all have found is that the church has been able to function even without a building," he said. "The central thing in our services is the Bible and we learned that those teachings apply no matter what the

underassessment

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS

by BILL HILL

A complaint charging the Cook County assessor's office with "blatantly" underassessing the Scarsdale Estates subdivision in Arlington Heights was filed Friday by a taxpayers' protest committee.

The complaint will mean about 28 properties in the exclusive area will be reassessed, said Daniel A. Berck, chief real estate operator for County Assessor Thomas Tully.

THE COMPLAINT filed by Richard Suter, a Chicago publisher of financial newsletters and a member of the Taxpayer's Protest Committee, cites much of the same data from a study of assessments conducted by The Herald and published Aug. 15.

The study, comparing assessments for 1976 and 1972, showed land values in Scarsdale Estates have dropped an average of 15 per cent in just four years. The 1976 reassessments in that area also gave many of the houses fair market values in the range of $60,000 to $80,000. Real estate appraisers generally have valued the houses at $80,000 to $110,000.

The complaint filed Friday by Suter listed 28 specific examples where properties were "blatantly underassessed," said Mike Hepple of the National Taxpayer's United of Illinois.

"There appears there's some sort of political connection involved," Hepp said. He refused to elaborate.

The Herald's study showed the most questionable assessments were on property on the south side of East Orchard Street.

THE TOTAL assessments for properties there dropped an average 16 per cent between 1972 and 1976. With that drop, and the county's change this year dropping assessments 17 per cent of the fair market value from 22 per cent in 1972, the fair market values of four houses on E. Orchard Street dropped 13.2 per cent.

The market values of the other eight properties increased an average 19.6 per cent nearly 10 per cent below the township average of 28 per cent.

Using the 1976 assessment figures, the average fair market value for the 12 properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street now is $64,704. The same 12 properties had an average fair market value in 1972 of $61,310, a 5.5 per cent difference.

The intention of the 1976 quadrennial reassessments, which showed the assessed values of property in Wheeling and Palatine townships increasing 28 and 31 per cent since 1972, was to determine the fair market value of property.

The increases in assessments in areas surrounding Scarsdale Estates were much larger. To the north, in Scarsdale Manor, widely known for its expensive homes, assessments went up about 20 per cent, on the average. To the east, in Park Manor, where the homes are less expensive, assess-

Dist. 59 head subpoenaed in unit school wrongdoing

Supt. Roger Bardwell, of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, has been subpoenaed to testify before a Cook County grand Jury on charges of wrongdoing stemming from last spring's campaign to form a unit school district.

Bardwell is scheduled to appear before the grand jury at 1 p.m. Thursday in Chicago.

Having asked for the opportunity to answer the charges against him in a formal manner, Bardwell Friday said he was glad to receive the subpoena.

THE GRAND JURY is investigating charges that Bardwell and three other Dist. 59 officials secretly agreed to seek a lower than planned tax rate increase in exchange for the business community's support of a unit school district referendum last April. Under investigation along with Bardwell are Dist. 59 Board members

Judith Zance and Emil Bahnmaier, public relations director Leah Cummins and Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce members Stanley Klyber and Timothy Frisby. All but Bardwell testified before the grand jury in late August.

"The whole thing is unfortunate and irresponsible," Frisby said. "It's either a mistake or someone's trying to create an unnecessary hassle."

The grand jury investigation stems from charges made in May 1976 by board member Paul Kucharski.

IN A 14-PAGE statement issued last spring, Kucharski charged that the four Dist. 59 officials struck an illegal deal with area businessmen, misinformed the board and withheld information about the process of petitioning for the formation of a unit school district.

Pastor sees blessings rise from ashes

by NANCY GOTLER

The Rev. Harold Albert stood among the rubble of broken glass and bricks that had been his church and talked about blessings.

"In a sense we've been handed a favor." he said. "We have had the largest summer attendance in five years and a great project that's brought us all together."

The project is rebuilding the First Baptist Church of Arlington Heights, 1211 W. Campbell St., that was ripped by a boiler explosion during evening choir practice March 16.

ALTHOUGH WORK on the $102,600 reconstruction job has begun, progress was slowed by a long insurance company settlement and delays in the shipment of bricks.

Meanshile, parishioners have gathered for Sunday services in a bare room on the second floor of the municipal building that doubles as village board chambers and a courtroom.

But the Rev. Albert is confident he will be back in his church to deliver the Thanksgiving Day sermon and says the expolsion brought with it some hidden blessings.

"There is some good in all of this because it has stirred us to build the wing addition we had planned for the future and, more importantly, because planning the new building has brought the congregation together," he said.

MEMBERS HAVE volunteered to store equipment in their garages and basements and financial contributions have risen, he said.

But there still is a lot of work to be done. The walls of the church, bowed by the explosion, were removed by workmen last week.

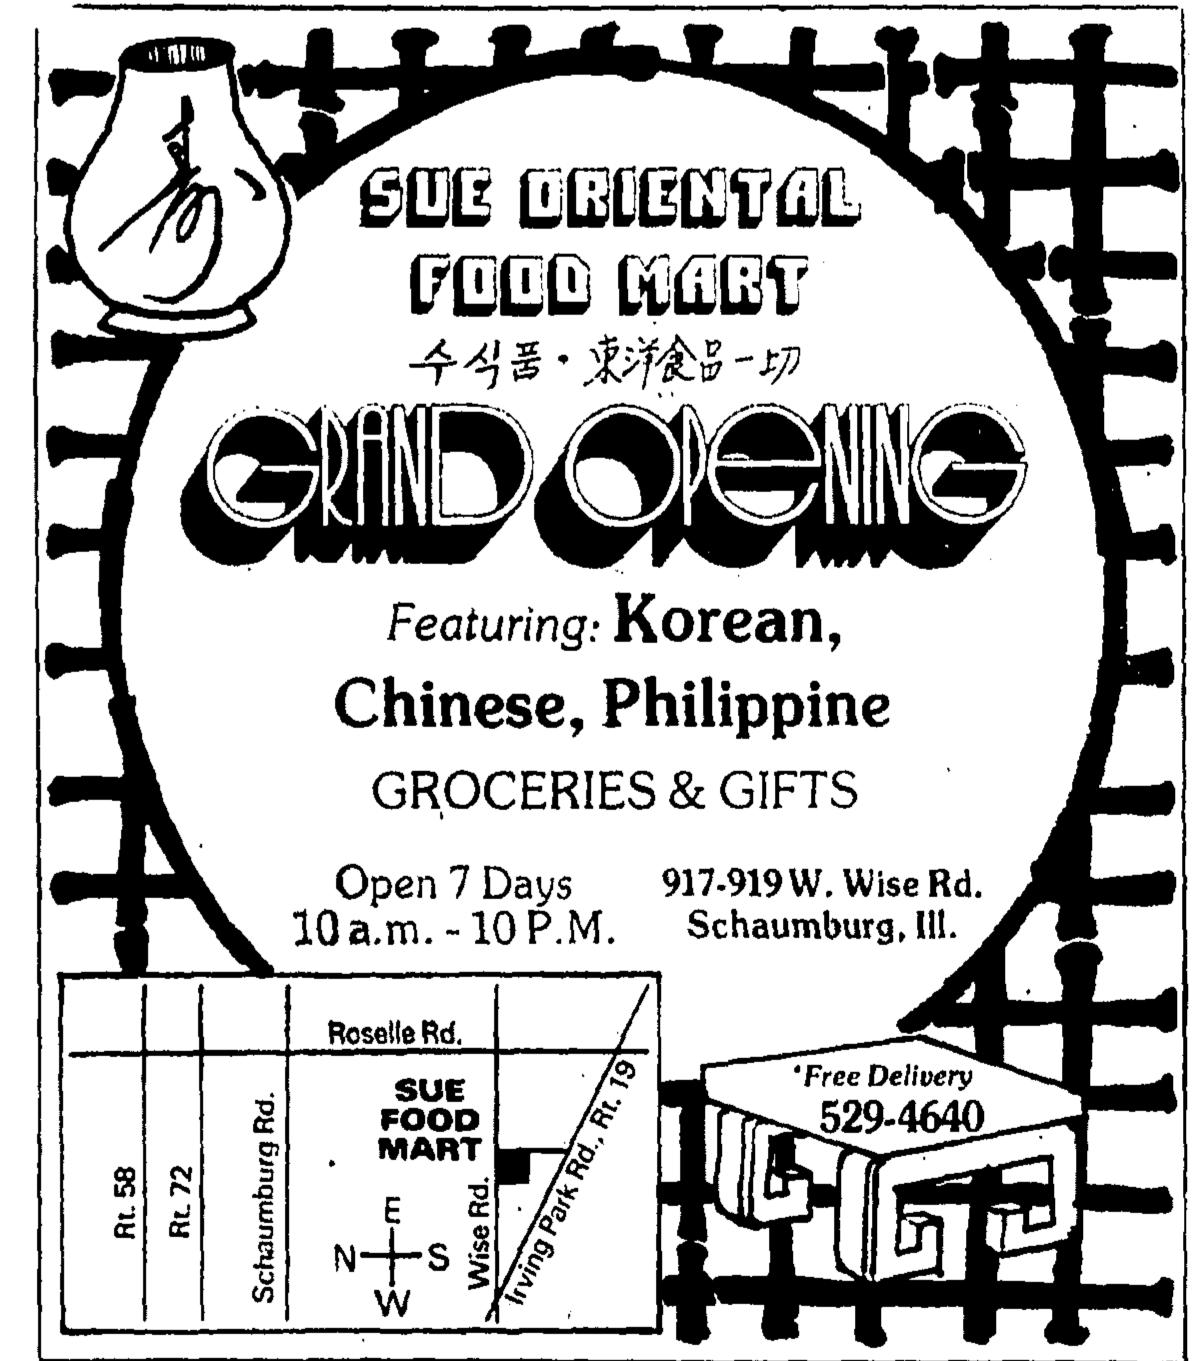

Pews were lifted from their place along the aisles to a cluster in the center of the church for storage.

AND BITS OF broken glass, ladders and wooden boards lie on the floor in place of the lecturn, piano and altar. Special arrangements have been made to use nearby churches for haptismal ceremonies and a wedding was held on the grounds adjacent to the gutted building.

Otherwise, not much has changed on Sunday mornings for members of the congretation and the Rev. Albert said the situation has been a learning experience for most of them.

"What we all have found is that the church has been able to function even without a building," he said. "The central thing in our services is the Bible and we learned that those teachings apply no matter what the setting.'

underassessment

by BILL HILL

A complaint charging the Cook County assessor's office with "blatantly" underassessing the Scarsdale Estates subdivision in Arlington Heights was filed Friday by a taxpayers' protest committee.

The complaint will mean about 28 properties in the exclusive area will be reassessed, said Daniel A. Berck, chief real estate operator for County Assessor Thomas Tully.

THE COMPLAINT filed by Richard Suter, a Chicago publisher of financial newsletters and a member of the Taxpayer's Protest Committee, cites much of the same data from a study of assessments conducted by The Herald and published Aug. 15.

The study, comparing assessments for 1976 and 1972, showed land values in Scarsdale Estates have dropped an average of 15 per cent in just four years. The 1976 reassessments in that area also gave many of the houses fair market values in the range of $60,000 to $80,000. Real estate appraisers generally have valued the houses at $80,000 to $110,000.

The complaint filed Friday by Suter listed 28 specific examples where properties were "blatantly underassessed," said Mike Hepple of the National Taxpayer's United of Illinois. "There appears there's some sort of

questionable assessments were on property on the south side of East Orchard Street.

THE TOTAL assessments for properties there dropped an average 16 per cent between 1972 and 1976. With that drop, and the county's change this year dropping assessments 17 per cent of the fair market value from 22 per cent in 1972, the fair market values of four houses on E. Orchard Street dropped 13.2 per cent.

The market values of the other eight properties increased an average 19.6 per cent nearly 10 per cent below the township average of 28 per cent.

Using the 1976 assessment figures, the average fair market value for the 12 properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street now is $64,704. The same 12 properties had an average fair market value in 1972 of $61,310, a 5.5 per cent difference.

The intention of the 1976 quadrennial reassessments, which showed the assessed values of property in Wheeling and Palatine townships increasing 28 and 31 per cent since 1972, was to determine the fair market value of property.

The increases in assessments in areas surrounding Scarsdale Estates were much larger. To the north, in Scarsdale Manor, widely known for its expensive homes, assessments went up about 20'per cent, on the average. To the east, in Park Manor, where the homes are less expensive, assess-

Girl found dead; cause is unknown

by ROBERT KYLE and PAUL GORES

Seventeen-year-old Kim Lyman left her Schaumburg home Friday morning to walk her pet poodle and was found dead about a half-hour later.

No one seems to know why. The Cook County Medical Examiner began an autopsy, but it was not expected to be finished until this afternoon. A spokesman said the body had

"no external marks of violence." MISS LYMAN, 934 Cardiff Ct., was found with blood on her face on a grassy knoll in a vacant lot near her home in Schaumburg's Sheffield Towne development.

Police searched the area for clues and found a rock near the body, but

Lt. James Dillon said it bore no traces of blood.

"Until we know the cause of death, we won't know what we have," he said. "It could be foul play or it could be natural causes."

Miss Lyman, a student at Harper College in Palatine and a part-time employe of the Schaumburg State Bank, was often seen walking her dog along a footpath west of the Sheffield townhomes.

SUSAN HAUGLANDS, 1805 Bromley Ct., said she spotted the body from a second-floor window in her home shortly before 11:30 a.m.

"I thought maybe she was just resting," Ms. Hauglands said. "But came back five minutes later and she was still laying there."

Miss Lyman was lying on her face with her dog's leash trapped beneath her body, Ms. Hauglands said, and didn't respond when Ms. Hauglands spoke to her.

Ms. Hauglands and a neighbor, Claudia Oltendorf of 1816 Bromley Ct., then called the police.

WHEN THE AMBULANCE arrived, Miss Lyman was lying on her back, said Gary Hunt, a Schaumburg para-

Tourist trade terrorists target

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The underground New World Liberation Front set off an explosion at a swank golf club Friday and threatened to unleasch a terror campaign against the city's tourist industry unless demands for "decent housing for all" are met.

The blast early Friday morning at the Olympic Golf Club on the edge of Lake Merced caused some damage, but it was not extensive and there were no injuries. It followed by 24 hours the discovery of an unexploded bomb at the Pacific Union Club on Nob Hill, one of the city's most exclusive establishments.

The New World Liberation Front delivered a message to news media claiming responsibility for both incidents and threatened to "drive rich tourism out of San Francisco."

IN A MESSAGE after the first incident, the group gave the city 72 hours to do something about "decent housing for all." It said the rich of Nob Hill were to blame for poor housing and named six major tourist hotels as possible targets of terrorist attacks.

The message delivered after Friday's successful bombing at the Olympic Club noted that the city had only 48 hours left to re-

At the major hotels, police and house security officers increased vigilance. The FBI said it was investigating the latest incidents along with dozens of previous bombings and threats from the New World Liberation Front.

Robert J. Sullivan, general manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said there was no evidence that anyone is being frightened away by the threats. "There has not been any incident at a hotel. However, there has been a substantial increase in security at the major hotels both by the hotels themselves and police," Sullivan said.

The New World Liberation Front surfaced in 1974 after the notorious Symbionese Liberation Army was broken up. It has been blamed for dozens of sabotage attacks throughout the country but mainly in the San Francisco area.

In one explosion a man was

EARLIER THIS week the group claimed responsibility for a blast at the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. substation which blacked out the city of Sausalito north of San Francisco. Utility installations have been frequent targets of bombings.

Dist. 54 to build Wise Road sidewalk

A 1,000-foot sidewalk along Wise the board's decision to build the side- north side of Wise between Cranbrook Road in Schaumburg will be constructed by Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 for children who attend Hale School.

The sidewalk will be built at a cost not to exceed $6,000. It will serve about 50 children who are bused to school at district expense because the route to Hale, 1300 W. Wise Rd., Schaumburg, is hazardous.

Dist. 54 will share the sidewalk's cost with the Village of Schaumburg. Campanelli Builders, developers of the Unit 21 subdivision near the school, have agreed to grade the land.

Marvin Lapicola, assistant superintendent for finance, said the sidewalk probably will be completed in six weeks. Until that time, children will be bused to school.

As soon as the sidewalk is completed, bus service will be discontinued, Board of Education Pres. Elizabeth Carpenter said. Parents already have been notified by letter of

Banking industry raps Bert Lance practices

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A banking industry publication Friday said that Bert Lance's financial activities when he headed two Georgia banks, described by President Carter as "normal," would not be tolerated in other banks.

"Scores of bankers who have been in contact with ABA have declared that such practices cannot be considered either normal or widespread within the banking industry.

"Their message: 'We know those practices are not tolerated in our banks, and we believe they are not permitted in other banks. They are anything but typical.'" complaint charging the Cook County assessor's office with "blatantly" underassessing the Scarsdale Estates subdivision in Arlington Heights was filed Friday by a taxpayers' protest committee.

The complaint will mean about 28 properties in the exclusive area will be reassessed, said Daniel A. Berck, chief real estate operator for County Assessor Thomas Tully.

THE COMPLAINT filed by Richard Suter, a Chicago publisher of financial newsletters and a member of the Taxpayer's Protest Committee, cites much of the same data from a study of assessments conducted by The Herald and published Aug. 15.

The study, comparing assessments for 1976 and 1972, showed land values in Scarsdale Estates have dropped an average of 15 per cent in just four years. The 1976 reassessments in that area also gave many of the houses fair market values in the range of $60,000 to $80,000. Real estate appraisers generally have valued the houses at $80,000 to $110,000.

The complaint filed Friday by Suter listed 28 specific examples where properties were "blatantly underassessed." said Mike Hepple of the National Taxpayer's United of Illinois. "There appears there's some sort of political connection involved," Hepp said. He refused to elaborate.

The Herald's study showed the most questionable assessments were on property on the south side of East Orchard Street.

THE TOTAL assessments for properties there dropped an average 16 per cent between 1972 and 1976. With that drop, and the county's change this year dropping assessments 17 per cent of the fair market value from 22 per cent in 1972, the fair market values of four houses on E. Orchard Street dropped 13.2 per cent.

The market values of the other eight properties increased an average 19.6 per cent nearly 10 per cent below the township average of 28 per cent.

Using the 1976 assessment figures, the average fair market value for the 12 properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street now is $64,704. The same 12 properties had an average fair market value in 1972 of $61,310, a 5.5 per cent difference.

The intention of the 1976 quadrennial reassessments, which showed the assessed values of property in Wheeling and Palatine townships increasing 28 and 31 per cent since 1972, was to determine the fair market value of property.

The increases in assessments in areas surrounding Scarsdale Estates were much larger. To the north, in Scarsdale Manor, widely known for its expensive homes, assessments went up about 20 per cent, on the average. To the east, in Park Manor, where the homes are less expensive, assess-

by ROBERT KYLE and PAUL GORES

Seventeen-year-old Kim Lyman left her Schaumburg home Friday morning to walk her pet poodle and was found dead about a half-hour later.

No one seems to know why. The Cook County Medical Examiner began an autopsy, but it was not expected to be finished until this afternoon. A spokesman said the body had

"no external marks of violence." MISS LYMAN, 934 Cardiff Ct., was found with blood on her face on a grassy knoll in a vacant lot near her home in Schaumburg's Sheffield

Towne development. Police searched the area for clues and found a rock near the body, but Lt. James Dillon said it bore no traces of blood. "Until we know the cause of death, we won't know what we have," he said. "It could be foul play or it could be natural causes."

Miss Lyman, a student at Harper College in Palatine and a part-time employe of the Schaumburg State Bank, was often seen walking her dog along a footpath west of the Sheffield townhomes.

SUSAN HAUGLANDS, 1805 Bromley Ct., said she spotted the body from a second-floor window in her home shortly before 11:30 a.m.

"I thought maybe she was just resting," Ms. Hauglands said. "But I came back five minutes later and she was still laying there."

Tourist trade terrorists target along with dozens of previous

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - The underground New World Liberation Front set off an explosion at a swank golf club Friday and threatened to unleasth a terror campaign against the city's tourist industry unless demands for "decent housing for all" are met.

The blast early Friday morning at the Olympic Golf Club on the edge of Lake Merced caused some damage, but it was not extensive and there were no injuries. It followed by 24 hours the discovery of an unexploded bomb at the Pacific Union Club on Nob Hill, one of the city's most exclusive establishments.

The New World Liberation Front delivered a message to news media claiming responsibility for both incidents and threatened to "drive rich tourism out of San Francisco."

IN A MESSAGE after the first incident, the group gave the city 72 hours to do something about "decent housing for all." It said the rich of Nob Hill were to blame for poor housing and named six major tourist hotels as possible targets of terrorist attacks.

The message delivered after Friday's successful bombing at the Olympic Club noted that the city had only 48 hours left to respond.

At the major hotels, police and house security officers increased vigilance. The FBI said it was investigating the latest incidents bombings and threats from the New World Liberation Front.

Robert J. Sullivan, general manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said there was no evidence that anyone is being frightened away by the threats. "There has not been any incident at a hotel. However, there has been a substantial increase in security at the major hotels both by the hotels themselves and police," Sullivan said.

The New World Liberation Front surfaced in 1974 after the notorious Symbionese Liberation Army was broken up. It has been blamed for dozens of sabotage attacks throughout the country but mainly in the San Francisco area.

In one explosion a man was killed.

EARLIER THIS week the group claimed responsibility for a blast at the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. substation which blacked out the city of Sausalito north of San Francisco. Utility installations have been frequent targets of bombings.

However, the list of incidents attributed to the group includes bombings against General Motors, IT&T, televison stations, Safeway Stores and various military and government installations.

Use of federal funds to keep road tax rate down

Board members Thursday voted 3-2 against Highway Comr. Robert Bergman's request that the tax rate for the township's road and bridge district be raised from .125 to .165 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The township is scheduled to receive $279,000 from the federal government and Wilson insists the remainder will be enough to fund all social service agencies.

Tourist trade terrorists target

SAN, FRANCISCO (UPI) — The underground New World Liberation Front set off an explosion at a swank, golf club Friday and threatened to unleasth a terror campaign against the city's tourist industry unless demands for "decent housing for all" are met.

The blast early Friday morning at the Olympic Golf Club on the edge of Lake Merced caused some damage, but it was not extensive and there were no injuries. It followed by 24 hours the discovery of an unexploded bomb at the Pacific Union Club on Nob Hill, one of the city's most exclusive establishments.

The New World Liberation Front delivered a message to news media claiming responsibility for both incidents and threatened to "drive rich tourism out of San Francisco."

IN A MESSAGE after the first incident, the group gave the city 72 hours to do something about "decent housing for all." It said the rich of Nob Hill were to blame for poor housing and named six major tourist hotels as possible targets of terrorist attacks.

The message delivered after Friday's successful bombing at the Olympic Club noted that the city had only 48 hours left to respond.

At the major hotels, police and house security officers increased vigilance. The FBI said it was investigating the latest incidents along with dozens of previous bombings and threats from the New World Liberation Front.

Robert J. Sullivan, general manager of the Convention and Visitors Bureau, said there was no evidence that anyone is being frightened away by the threats. "There has not been any incident at a hotel. However, there has been a substantial increase in security at the major hotels both by the hotels themselves and police," Sullivan said.

The New World Liberation Front surfaced in 1974 after the notorious Symbionese Liberation Army was broken up. It has been blamed for dozens of sabotage attacks throughout the country but mainly in the San Francisco area.

In one explosion a man was killed.

EARLIER THIS week the group claimed responsibility for a blast at the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. substation which blacked out the city of Sausalito north of San Francisco. Utility installations have been frequent targets of bombings.

However, the list of incidents attributed to the group includes bombings against General Motors, IT&T, televisen stations, Safeway Stores and various military and government installations. An FBI spokesman said little is known about the group except that it has at least two members because both male and female voices have made calls to news

Use of federal funds to keep road tax rate down

Palatine Township trustees have decided to use federal revenue-sharing funds for road and bridge maintenance instead of increasing taxes. Board members Thursday voted 3-2 against Highway Comr. Robert Bergman's request that the tax rate for the township's road and bridge district be raised from .125 to .165 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

The increase, which Bergman contended was necessary to collect enough taxes to meet his $597,300 budget, would have cost the owner of a home assessed at $10,000 about $4 more next year.

TOWNSHIP Supervisor Howard Olsen and Trustee Liston Pennington voted for the tax increase, calling it an "insurance policy" for the road and bridge district.

"This would have provided insurance against the possibility of not being able to collect enough under the .125 cent rate," Olsen said. "We most likely would not have needed to go, all the way to the .165-cent level but it would have been there if it was. needed."

Olsen had said that the current street improvement project, called by Bergman "the largest in township history," partly accounts for the need for a higher tax rate.

A mong planned improvements, some of which are already under way, are a $50,000 resurfacing project in the Pepper Tree Farms subdivision; $30,000 worth of drainage and landscaping work for S. Smith Street along Bayer, Lakeside, Martin and Perry drives; a $20,000 street-widening project at Home Avenue and Oak Street; and $20,000 for the installation of traffic signals at Rand and Long Grove Roads.

He also said the decision by the other three members of the board to oppose the increase is "shortsighted." PENNINGTON AGREED.

"I don't agree with taking federal revenue-sharing money earmarked for social services and giving it to Bob (Bergman)," he said.

Trustee James Wilson, one of the three members who voted against Bergman's request, said he anticipates about $50,000 worth of federal revenue-sharing funds will be needed by Bergman.

The township is scheduled to receive $279,000 from the federal government and Wilson insists the remainder will be enough to fund all social service agencies. "I've always supported using federal revenue-sharing funds as tax relief," he said. "We never do anything for the citizens who are not poor enough to collect welfare, not old enough to need snior citizens programs and who don't need day-care services. I think it's about time we give them a break."

Trustees John Serio and Donald Bellm, who also voted against the increase, could not be reached for com-

all, says Hans Ammelounx. And that is why he is not going to stage his renowned annual Oktoberfest celebration this year at Han's Bavarian Lodge, 931 N. Milwaukee Ave., Wheeling.

"If I can't do it right, I don't want to do it," Ammelounx said.

Cramping his style is the loss of 600 parking spaces. The property on which Oktoberfest visitors parked for the past seven years was sold recently to a restaurant developer.

Joe and William Johnson, former owners of Chevy Chase Country Club,

complaint charging the Cook .County assessor's office with "blatantly" underassessing the Scarsdale Estates subdivision in Arlington Heights was filed Friday by a taxpayers' protest committee.

The complaint will mean about 28 properties in the exclusive area will be reassessed, said Daniel A. Berck, chief real estate operator for County Assessor Thomas Tully.

THE COMPLAINT filed by Richard Suter, a Chicago publisher of financial newsletters and a member of the Taxpayer's Protest Committee, cites much of the same data from a study of assessments conducted by The Herald and published Aug. 15.

The study, comparing assessments for 1976 and 1972, showed land values in Scarsdale Estates have dropped an average of 15 per cent in just four years. The 1976 reassessments in that area also gave many of the houses fair market values in the range of $60,000 to $80,000. Real estate appraisers generally have valued the houses at $80,000 to $110,000.

The complaint filed Friday by Suter listed 28 specific examples where properties were "blatantly underassessed." said Mike Hepple of the National Taxpayer's United of Illinois.

"There appears there's some sort of political connection involved," Hepp said. He refused to elaborate.

The Herald's study showed the most questionable assessments were on property on the south side of East Orchard Street.

THE TOTAL assessments for properties there dropped an average 16 per cent between 1972 and 1976. With that drop, and the county's change this year dropping assessments 17 per cent of the fair market value from 22 per cent in 1972, the fair market values of four houses on E. Orchard Street dropped 13.2 per cent.

The market values of the othereight properties increased an average 19.6 per cent nearly 10 per cent below the township average of 28 per cent.

Using the 1976 assessment figures, the average fair market value for the 12 properties on the south side of E. Orchard Street now is $64,704. The same 12 properties had an average fair market value in 1972 of $61,310, a 5.5 per cent difference.

The intention of the 1976 quadrennial reassessments, which showed the assessed values of property in Wheeling and Palatine townships increasing 28 and 31 per cent since 1972, was to determine the fair market value of property.

The increases in assessments in areas surrounding Scarsdale Estates were much larger. To the north, in Scarsdale Manor, widely known for its expensive homes, assessments went up about 20 per cent, on the average. To the east, in Park Manor, where the homes are less expensive, assess-

by ROBERT KYLE and PAUL GORES

Seventeen-year-old Kim Lyman left her Schaumburg home Friday morning to walk her pet poodle and was found dead about a half-hour later.

No one seems to know why. The Cook County Medical Examiner began an autopsy, but it was not expected to be finished until this afternoon. A spokesman said the body had "no external marks of violence."

MISS LYMAN, 934 Cardiff Ct., was found with blood on her face on a grassy knoll in a vacant lot near her home in Schaumburg's Sheffield Towne development.

'Glad to get subpoena'

Bardwell called in wrongd oing probe

The state of the s

Supt. Roger Bardwell, of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59, has been subpoenaed to testify before a Cook County grand Jury on charges of wrongdoing stemming from last spring's campaign to form a unit school district.

Bardwell is scheduled to appear before the grand jury at 1 p.m. Thursday in Chicago.

Having asked for the opportunity to answer the charges against him in a formal manner, Bardwell Friday said he was glad to receive the subpoena.

THE GRAND JURY is investigating charges that Bardwell and three other Dist. 59 officials secretly agreed to seek a lower than planned tax rate increase in exchange for the business community's support of a unit school district referendum last April.

Under investigation along with Bardwell are Dist. 59 Board members Judith Zance and Emil Bahnmaier, public relations director Leah Cummins and Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce members Stanley Klyber and Timothy Frisby. All but Bardwell testified before the grand jury in late August.

"The whole thing is unfortunate and irresponsible," Frisby said. "It's either a mistake or someone's trying to create an unnecessary hassle."

The grand jury investigation stems from charges made in May 1976 by board member Paul Kucharski.

IN A 14-PAGE statement issued last spring, Kucharski charged that the four Dist. 59 officials struck an illegal deal with area businessmen, misinformed the board and withheld information about the process of peti-

A determination of whether there is sufficient evidence of criminal activity to warrant pursuit of a grand jury indictment is expected later this month, Assistant State's Attorney Mitchell Garner said.

The unit district proposal defeated in last April's referendum would have combined 21 Dist. 59 elementary schools, Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village.

79 school year. The Dist. 23 hoard will vote on the contract Sept. 14. THE AGREEMENT raises starting teacher salaries to $10,000, $500 more than 1976-77 beginning teachers received. Beginning teachers with master's degrees will start at $10,700.

The settlement is comparable to recent contract agreements in neighboring districts. Teachers in River Trails Dist. 26 will start at $9,900 this year and teachers in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 will start at $9,950.

The Dist. 23 contract also provides an 8 per cent merit pay increase for the district's 81 teachers who were evaluated last year. The board has offered $80,000 to be divided among the Procedures for instituting a revised teacher salary plan, which combines provisions for merit pay with a standard salary schedule, were ratified by teachers along with the contract.

ers strictly on a merit pay system. THE MODIFIED merit pay plan is compromise aimed at satisfying both the teachers union, which wants the merit system dropped in favor of a standard salary schedule, and the board, which wants to keep the merit system.

The revised plan provides a single comprehensive pay system for all teachers, with an annually negotiated increment given teachers for each additional year of experience. Raises in the base salary for starting teachers are to be passed on to all teachers. Teachers would receive a flat increase to their base salary for additional hours of graduate course work.

An additional amount of money would be provided by the board for teachers who perform at a "meritorious level." All merit pay raises are to be cumulative.

Support for downtown stores seen

Early returns of a questionnaire sent to Mount Prospect residents show most would support a "five and dime" variety store and other department stores in the downtown business district.

Dolores Haugh, village public information officer, said those are the most popular choices of the few residents answering a survey on what kinds of businesses they would like in the village. All questionnaires should be returned by Sept. 10 to village hall, 100 S. Emerson St.

The surveys, distributed throughout the village in the August newsletter, are aimed at determining what stores would be most compatible with the downtown development plan to locate in vacant buildings.

ELECTED OFFICIALS and administrators would like citizens' opinions on what kinds of business establishments, offering goods and/or services, would be of benefit to Mount Prospect residents," Mrs. Haugh said. "Results of the survey will be tabulated and a special invitation sent to top merchants in the fields preferred, asking them to consider establishing a store in the village."

Village officials have said the vacant buildings in the downtown area, includine the Prospect House Restaurant, Wille's Hardware, and Foam Rubber City and the old U.S. Post Office, are a major obstacle to downtown revitalization.

Another vacancy that hurts village business is the fire-gutted remains of Goldblatt's in the Mount Prospect Plaza, Rand and Central roads.

Residents should complete the "feedback" section on the last page of the newsletter and mail or bring it to
